PREFACE.

THE Library founded by HUMPHREY CHETHAM, as part of his noble Educational Charity, contains a more than ordinarily complete Collection of the Tracts published on both sides in the Roman Catholic Controversy which was waged with so much learning, ability, and argumentative skill in the latter part of the reign of Charles the Second, and throughout the whole of that of his successor.

As it appeared desirable that a specimen of the contents of this Library should be afforded by a detailed account of some portion of it, which might be easily separable from the remainder, in the series of publications which bear the honoured name of its founder, it was conceived that a Catalogue of these Tracts, taking Peck's¹ elaborate and valuable

¹ "A complete Catalogue of all the Discourses written, both for and against Popery, in the Time of King James II. Containing in the Whole, An Account of Four hundred and Fifty seven Books and Pamphlets, a great Number of them not mentioned in the three former Catalogues. With References after each Title, for the more speedy finding of a further Account of the said Discourses, and of their Authors, in sundry Writers: And An Alphabetical List of the Writers on each Side. A Tract very necessary for these Times, and for all those who are desirous to complete their Sets of those Pieces, or would sort them to the best Advantage. Drawn up in a new Method, By Francis Peck, M.A. Rector of Godeby, near Melton in Leicestershire. Διὰ Δυσφημίας καὶ Ευφημίας. 2 Cor. vi. 8. London: Printed and Sold at St. John's Gate; by A. Dodd, without

List as its groundwork, and giving therefore a complete bibliographical view of the Controversy, would not be unacceptable to the Members of the CHETHAM SOCIETY, more especially as the List referred to has never been reprinted, and has now become exceedingly scarce. That a reprint of it was not subjoined to the late republication of Bishop Gibson's Preservative by the Reformation Society appears an unaccountable omission.

The plan adopted in the present work has been to give the Tract of Peck entire, incorporating with it whatever additions, which it will be seen at once are not slight or inconsiderable, the Editor was able to collect from the sources which have been open to him, and relieving the dryness of a mere catalogue of books by historical and bibliographical notes and references. It will be observed that all the Tracts and Books not numbered are additions to Peck's original List. The marginal letters C. L. indicate the Chetham Library, B. M. the British Museum, B. L. the Bodleian Library, T. C. D. Trinity College, Dublin, M. L. Archbishop Marsh's, Dublin, and S. C. Sion College Library, as the depositories in which the books thus marked are respectively to be found.

It is rather remarkable that scarce as Peck's Tract undoubtedly is, the Chetham Library possesses three copies of it, in which extensive MS. additions have been made, Temple Bar; J. Stag and J. Fox, in Westminster-Hall; E. Nutt and Mrs. Cook, at the Royal Exchange. 1735. Price 2s." 4to pp. 62; title, preface and contents, pp. 8. For an account of Francis Peck and his writings, see Nichols's Literary Anecdotes, vol. i. p. 507, et seqq.

partly by the Rev. John Clayton,² M.A., Fellow of the Collegiate Church, Manchester, and partly by another annotator less known, who subscribes himself E. Syddal (vid. p. 11), and was probably the Edward Syddal or Siddal of Fallowfield,³ who appears in the Pedigree of the Siddal family as of Slade Hall in the Parish of Manchester. These MS. additions encouraged the Editor in his endeavours to make the List of Controversial Tracts as nearly complete as possible. Similar additions have been supplied from an interleaved copy of Peck, kindly placed at his service by the Rev. JOHN TAYLOR ALLEN, M.A., Ex-Librarian of the Chetham Library, which formerly belonged to Bishop White Kennett, and furnishes fresh proofs of the patient and laborious industry of that indefatigable writer.

But the most useful assistance which the Editor has derived from any source, and to which the present work must owe its principal value and main recommendation, is from the liberality and learned and careful research of the eminent theological scholar, JAMES HENTHORN TODD, D.D., of Trinity College, Dublin. Dr. Todd had made large collections for a second edition of Peck with a view to their being printed at the Clarendon Press, Oxford, and had proceeded as far as chap. xviii. No. 220, when, on learning that a similar publication was in progress in the Chetham Series, he most kindly placed his MS. materials in the hands of the present Editor, in order to be made available for the work now in the reader's hands. Those who refer to the notes and additions to which the initials J. H. T. are subjoined will have no difficulty in estimating the extent of the obligation under which Dr. TODD has placed the Members of the Chetham Society and all who take an interest in the publication to which he has afforded so rich a contribution.

The Editor has much pleasure in availing himself of this opportunity of acknowledging also his obligations to the Rev. JOHN I. DREDGE⁴; to ROBERT TRAVERS, Esq., M.A., M.B. of Trinity College, Dublin, who on this as on other occasions has been his faithful guide and counsellor; and especially to JAMES CROSSLEY, Esq., F.S.A., President of the Chetham Society, by whose valuable counsels and suggestions the volume has been greatly benefited. He has to lament that to one zealous co-operator all expression of gratitude is now vain; the effective aid of the Rev. ROBERT RYLAND MENDHAM, B.A., of Sutton Coldfield, having been lost to him by death shortly after this volume was commenced.

In such a multitudinous series of titles it is almost impossible to avoid occasional inaccuracies, and any corrections therefore which the Editor may receive he will gladly insert and most thankfully acknowledge in the concluding part of this Catalogue.

T. J.

PREFACE TO PECK'S CATALOGUE.

THERE being three Catalogues of this sort by three very eminent persons already printed,¹ the reader will be perhaps surprised at my here offering him a fourth.

But 1. The two first Catalogues were printed while the controversy was yet on foot. This appears from their very titles. The present state of the controversy. And, A continuation of the present state of the controversy. And, for this reason, neither of those two could be complete.

2. The third Catalogue (tho' it came not out 'till 1689) mentions only the writers against popery; and not all those neither by a great many. For which reason, and as it is in a manner perfectly silent as to the writers for popery, it may be said to be, tho' not so defective as the two former Catalogues in the one respect, yet much more so in the other.

3. The titles of the several discourses written by the Romanists are (so many of them as are mentioned in the two first Catalogues) so contracted and abridged, that

A Continuation of the Present Controversy between the Church of England and the Church of Rome. Being a full Account of the Books that have been of late written on both sides. [By William Wake.] pp. 76, Epistle, Dedic., &c., pp. 12, 4to Lond. 1688.

The Catalogue of all the Discourses published against Popery during the Reign of King James II. By the Members of the Church of England, and by the Non-conformists. With the names of the Authors of them. By Edward Gee, M.A. pp. 34, 4to Lond. 1689.

None of these Tracts are reprinted in Gibson's Preservative.—Ed.

(whatever any other person may do) I must frankly own, I often could not so well understand their account of the discourses written against popery, for want of a better account of the discourses written for popery.

And, for all these reasons, I could not forbear frequently wishing for a more complete account of the several writers and discourses on both sides; and, as no abler hand appeared to go about it, have at length attempted to do it myself. And this I have done,

1. By giving the title of each book pro and con (when I had it by me) at large. Or (where I had it not) as full as I could gather it from the former Catalogues or any other books which my little study afforded.

2. By inserting proper references after the title of each tract, which will carry the reader (if he pleases) to the places where he will meet with many curious remarks in the former Catalogues and in some other books, relating to these discourses and their several authors: Particularly to all those in the second edition of Mr. Wood's Athenæ Oxonienses. Which volumes (coming not out 'till 1721) I have diligently read over, almost with this one view. And,

3. By exhibiting, in the close, an alphabetical List of the Writers on both sides; with farther references after each name: Whereby may be presently seen what discourses of this sort each person there mentioned hath wrote.

The collecting of all these additions, the reader may well think, have cost me a great deal of pains. But they have also afforded me a great deal of knowledge and pleasure. And, if they are of the same advantage to others who have occasion to look into these matters (as I think they will) I shall have still the more satisfaction.

Republished, 4to, 1679, under the title of "A Dialogue between a Protestant and a Papist concerning," &c., with the former as a second title-page. Coles died in 1676. "Wood saith, that he became Fellow of the College near Winchester, but soon after was ejected by the Visitors appointed by the Parliament; which I know not what to make of: because I do not apprehend how the Visitors power reach'd that College: and I have been informed that none of the Fellows there were turned out However that be, 'tis certain this Mr. Coles was depriv'd of a Fellowship either in this College [New College] or that near Winchester for some time; and so was in part a Sufferer: but he was so much belov'd by the Society that they re-elected him." — Walker's Account of the Numbers and Sufferings of the Clergy, part ii. p. 129.

- C. L. 2. Origo Protestantium; or an answer to a Popish MS. of N. N. that [which answer] would fain make the Protestant catholick religion bear date at the very time when the Roman popish commenced in the world. Wherein Protestancy is demonstrated to be elder than Popery. To which is added a Jesuit's Letter; with the Answer. By John Shaw, Rector of Whalton in Northumberland, and preacher at St. John's in Newcastle. pp. 133, 4to Lond. 1677

Ath. Ox. vol. ii. col. 832. (Edit. Bliss, vol. iv. col. 256.) N. N. introduces the subject of the Nag's Head Ordination. Amongst the principal works on the validity of the English Ordinations, are Mason, De Ministerio Angl., fol. 1625, the same work translated by John Lyndsay, fol. 1728; the works of Bramhall, fol. Dubl. 1677, Oxf. 1842-45, and Burnet on English Ordinations, 1677; and especially M. Courayer's Dissertation sur la Validité des Ordin. Angl.; Défence de la Dissertation, and Supplement, Brux. 1723, translated by Dan. Williams, 1727-28, and of which there is an analysis in The Present State of the Republic of Letters, 1728; Bp. Elrington's Validity of English Ordinations, 1809. Browne's Concio ad Clerum, 4to, Cantab. 1628, contains from the original MS. in Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, the Instrument, — "Rituum atq. ceremoniarum ordo in consecrando Reverendissimo in Christo patre Mattheo Parker Cantuarensi Archiepō in Sacello suo, apud Maneriū suum de Lambeth, die Dñico 17° vīz. die mensis Decembris Anno Dōni 1559, habit." This, with other documents, is also given by Bramhall from the Registry of the See of Canterbury. See Collier's Ecclesiastical History of Great Britain, vol. ii. p. 460. In reference to the Reformed Churches may be mentioned the following treatises: — Certain Briefe Treatises written by diverse Learned Men, concerning the ancient and moderne government of the Church.

(By Richard Hooker, Lancelot Andrewes, Martin Bucer, John Rainoldes, James Archbishop of Armagh, and Edward Brerewood.) Wherein, both the Primitive Institution of Episcopacie is maintained, and the Lawfulness of the Ordination of the Protestant Ministers beyond the Seas likewise defended. By John Duree and Francis Mason. 4to Lond. 1641. See also chap. xvii.

3. A calm answer to a violent discourse of N. N. a seminary priest for the invocation of saints, with a reflection upon the covetousness and imposture of the popish clergy. 4to 1677

The same? N. N. Translated out of French "The Proceedings of the General Assembly of the Clergie of France Assembled in the year 1682 at Paris, and in the year 1685 at S. Germain in Laye, concerning Religion. Lille, 1686." Among the articles of the Doctrine of the Church here defended is that of the Invocation of Saints, of Relicks, and of Images. This writer exemplifies the remark made by Macaulay that the style of the Roman Catholic divines of the period was disfigured with foreign idioms, "The edict of the King which defends [prohibits] the Ministers of all others of the P[retended] R[eformed] R[eligion] to Preach or compose books," &c.

4. Considerations touching the true way to suppress Popery in this Kingdom, by making a distinction between men of loyal and disloyal principles in that communion. On occasion whereof is inserted an historical account of the Reformation in England. [By William Lloyd.] pp. 164, 4to Lond. 1677

C. L.

The publishing of this book made a great noise.—Peck. Ath. Ox. vol. ii. col. 1090. (Edit. Bliss, vol. iv. cols. 714, 889.) Bishop Lloyd, born in 1627, died 1717. See also Biographia Britannica, Williams's Biographical Dictionary of Eminent Welshmen.

No chapter having been apportioned to Allegiance, I shall here give a list of such Tracts, published at this period, as are not found in Watt's Bibliotheca Britannica, s. v. Allegiance and Oath of Allegiance, that legal tie by which subjects are bound to their Sovereign.

The Protestant Religion is a sure Foundation and Principle of a true Christian, and a good Subject, a great Friend to Humane Society; and a grand Promoter of all Virtues, both Christian and Moral. By Charles Stanley, Earl of Derby. The second edition. 4to Lond. 1671.

C. L.

"This piece contains a dedication 'To all Supreme Powers, by what titles soever dignified or distinguished, i.e. to Emperors, Kings, Sovereign Princes, Republics, &c.: an Epistle to the Reader; another longer in the second edition; and the Work itself, which is a Dialogue between Orthodox, a royalist, and Cæcodæmon, one popishly affected. His lordship is warm against the church of Rome, their casuists and the Jesuits, and seems well read in the fathers and in polemic divinity, from both of which his style has adopted much acrimony. He died in 1672. His father was the brave James, Earl of Derby; his mother, the heroine who defended Latham House, grand-daughter of the great Prince of Orange; — a compound of Protestant heroism that evaporated in controversy." — Walpole's Royal and Noble Authors, vol. ii.

 Answer to Three Treatises published under the title of "The Jesuits' Loyalty." By Peter Walsh. 4to Lond. 1678

"Peter Walsh was the honestest and learnedest man I ever knew among them. He was of Irish extraction, and of the Franciscan order: and was indeed in all points of controversy almost wholly protestant: but he had senses of his own, by which he excused his adhering to the church of Rome: and he maintained, that with these he could continue in the communion of that church without sin: and he said that he was sure he did some good staying still on that side, but that he could do none at all if he should come over. He thought, no man ought to forsake that religion in which he was born and bred, unless he was clearly convinced that he must certainly be damned if he continued in it. He was an honest and able man, much practised in intrigues, and knew well the methods of the Jesuits, and other missionaries." — Burnet's Own Times, vol. i. p. 195. An account of his life is given by Sir James Ware; and from him, by Chalmers, in his General Biographical Dictionary, and by Charles Butler, in his Historical Memoirs respecting the English, Irish and Scottish Catholics, 1819, vol. ii. p. 491.

11. A true and lively representation of Popery, shewing that Popery is only new modelled Paganism, and perfectly destructive of the great ends and purposes of God in the Gospel. [By Thankful Owen.] C. L.

pp. 82, 4to Lond. 1679

Mr. Thankful Owen designed a book for the press, which he entitled Imago Imaginis ; the design of which was to shew, that Rome Papal is an Image of Rome Pagan. See Fasti Oxon. vol. ii. col. 52. (Edit. Bliss, vol. iv. col. 91.) But whether it was ever completed and printed, I find not. — Peck. A Dissenter, born in 1619, died 1681. The resemblance between Paganism and Popery has been often adverted to by writers on the Romish controversy, but the chief works devoted expressly to the illustration of it are the following : — Du Pré's Conformity of Ancient and Modern Ceremonies, translated from the French, 1745; Stopford's Pagano-Papismus, or an Exact Parallel between Rome-Pagan and Rome-Christian, in their Doctrines and Ceremonies, published in 1675; Εικων του θηριου, or the Image of the Beast, by Delaune, the well-known Nonconformist, 1684; Middleton's Letter from Rome, showing an exact Conformity between Popery and Paganism, or the Religion of the present Romans derived from that of their Heathen Ancestors; Popery the Religion of Heathenism, by Ignotus [J. Poynder], published in 1818, which contains along with a summary of the conformity of Popery to Ancient Paganism, a full proof of its similarity to Modern Hinduism; Poynder's Alliance between Popery and Paganism. The Abbé de la Berthier, the author of the following treatise, was a prisoner in the Bastile, and being asked why he troubled himself to write against the Constitution Unigenitus, made answer that he took Priest's Orders with no other view than to preach and defend the Truth which is wounded by that Constitution; that if his enemies pleased they might put him to death, which he was resolved to suffer rather than retract one tittle of what he had written. "A Parallel of the Doctrine of the Pagans, with the Doctrine of the Jesuits; and that of the Constitution Unigenitus issued by Pope Clement XI. Divided into several chapters and sections, shewing the contrary Sentiments of the Pagans and Jesuits. Translated (by Stephen Whatley) from the Original printed in France. To which are added, Copies of the said Constitution, and of the 101 Propositions of Father Quesnel thereby condemned." 8vo Dubl. 1726

It is here proved that the Jesuit authors have advanced infamous principles in regard to almost every department of duty, which had been denounced even by Heathen writers. See also The Jesuits Morals [by Anthony Arnould] translated from the French, fol. Lond. 1670. To the list given above may be added Francis De Croy's Harmony of the Romish Church with Gentilism, Judaism, and ancient Heresies. CHAP. II.

Of the royal papers (viz. two of K. Charles II. and one of the Duchess of York's,) and of the discourses written about them.

12. ✠ A Short and plain way to the faith and church, composed C. I.
 many years since by that eminent divine Mr. Richard Hudleston, of the English congregation of S. Benedict, and now published for the common good by his nephew Mr. John Hudleston of the same congregation. To which are annexed his late Majesty's K. Charles II. papers found in his closet after his decease. As also a brief account of what occurred on his death-bed in matters of religion. pp. 38, 4to Lond. 1688

See Contin. p. 27 and 57. The Publisher to the Reader. "The Malignity of the times, and the Disasters ensuing thereupon for above these Forty years, have been too pernicious to be soon forgot. There are none so ignorant who have not heard of the Defeat of his Late Majesties Army by the Rebels at Worcester on the 3d of September 1651. And of the then Preservation of His Sacred Life and Person by the care and fidelity of his Catholic Subjects, of whom I acknowledge myself the most unworthy. In this sad Conjunction it was that the desolate King after having been harassed to and fro, night and day in continual fatigues and perils, from Wednesday the Day of the Battel till Sunday following (the particulars of which are out of the sphere of my present design to enlarge upon) at last found an Asylum and Refuge at Mr. Whitgrave's House at Moseley in Staffordshire, whither Divine Providence not long before brought me, and where I had first the Honor of Attending upon him. During this Retreat, whilst Mr. Whitgrave, his Lady, and Mother, (who alone of all the Houshold were Privy to the Secret) were often busied in watching and other discharges of their Duty towards his Accommodation and Safeguard, His Majesty was pleased to entertain himself for the most part with me in my chamber, by perusing several of my Books, amongst others he took up this present Treatise then a Manuscript, lying on the table of a Closet adjacent to my Chamber. He read it; He seriously considered it, and after mature deliberation pronounced this Sentence upon it (viz.) I have not seen any thing more Plain and clear upon this subject: the Arguments here drawn from Succession, are so conclusive, I do not conceive how they can be denyed," &c. &c. Richard Hudleston was the youngest son of Andrew Hudleston of Farrington Hall in Lancashire. John Hudleston was a younger brother of the renowned family of the house of Hutton-John, in the county of Cumberland. Among "the Boscobel Tracts relating to the Escape of Charles II. after the Battle of Worcester," &c. &c., is Whitgreave's Narrative. For a relation of the reconciliation of Charles II. to the Church of Rome, see also Lingard, vol. x. p. 109; Macaulay, vol. i. pp. 434-436, who adds, "I have seen in the British Museum, and also in the Library of the Royal Institution, a curious broadside containing an account of the death of Charles. It will be found in the Somers Collection. The author was evidently a zealous Roman Catholic, and must have had access to good sources of information. I strongly suspect that he had been in communication, directly or indirectly, with James himself. No name is given at length, but the initials are perfectly intelligible, except in one place. It is said that the D. of Y. was reminded of the duty which he owed to his brother by P.M.A.C.F. I must own myself quite unable to decipher the last five letters. It is some consolation that Sir Walter Scott was equally unsuccessful. Since the first edition of this work was published, several very ingenious conjectures touching these mysterious letters have been communicated to me; but I am convinced that the true solution has not yet been suggested."—Ibid. pp. 437-438. The true solution has doubtless been supplied in Notes and Queries (2nd series, vol. i. pp. 110, 247), from Memoirs of the Rev. John Huddleston, reprinted in 1816.—"P[ere] M[ansuete] A C[apuchin] F[riar], Confessor to the Duke." A copy of this contemporary broadside will be found, No. 1120, in the collection of Proclamations, Broad-sides, Ballads, and Poems, presented to the Chetham Library, Manchester, by James O. Halliwell Esq., F.R.S.

- C. L. 13. ✠ Reasons of her leaving the communion of the church of England, and making herself a member of the Roman catholic church. Written by her grace the Duchess of York, for the satisfaction of her friends. pp. 6.

Prefixed are Charles the Second's Papers, pp. 8. "James now (1686) took a step which greatly disconcerted the whole Anglican party. Two papers, in which were set forth very concisely the arguments ordinarily used by Roman Catholics in controversy with Protestants, had been found in Charles's strong box, and appeared to be in his handwriting. These papers James showed triumphantly to several Protestants, and declared that, to his knowledge, his brother had lived and died a Roman Catholic. One of the persons to whom the manuscripts were exhibited was Archbishop Sancroft. He read them with much emotion, and remained silent. Such silence was only the natural effect of a struggle between respect and veneration. But James supposed that the Primate was struck dumb by the irresistible force of reason, and eagerly challenged his Grace to produce, with the help of the whole episcopal bench, a satisfactory reply. 'Let me have a solid answer, and in a gentlemanly style; and it may have the effect which you so much desire of bringing me over to your Church.' The Archbishop mildly said, that in his opinion, such an answer might, without much difficulty, be written, but declined the controversy on the plea of reverence for the memory of his deceased master. This plea the King considered as the subterfuge of a vanquished disputant. He ordered these tracts to be printed with the utmost pomp of typography, and appended to them a declaration attested by his sign manual, and certifying that the originals were in his brother's own hand. James himself distributed the whole edition among his courtiers and among the people of humbler rank who crowded round his coach. He gave one copy to a young woman of mean condition whom he supposed to be of his own religious persuasion, and assured her that she would be greatly edified and comforted by the perusal. In requital of his kindness she delivered to him, a few days later, an epistle adjuring him to come out of the mystical Babylon, and to dash from his lips the cup of fornications." Cat. No. 31. Contin. p. 28. Bishop of Worcester, born in 1635, died 1699. Stillingfleet, who was renowned as a consummate master of all the weapons of controversy, gave James deep offence by publishing an answer to the papers which had been found in the strong box of Charles the Second. He is generally acknowledged to have occupied the very first place among those illustrious men who, in that important crisis of our history, brought great talents and prodigious learning to bear upon the exposure of Popery. — Macaulay, vol. ii. p. 149. “A clear and solid answer to the Papers undertaken herein to be examined.” — Chetham MS.

Contin. p. 28. Born in 1631, died 1700. “The help of Dryden was welcome to those Roman Catholic divines who were painfully sustaining a conflict against all that was illustrious in the Established Church It seemed that it was no light thing to have secured the cooperation of the greatest living master of the English language. The first service which he was required to perform in return for his pension was to defend his Church in prose against Stillingfleet. But the art of saying things well is useless to a man who has nothing to say; and this was Dryden’s case. He soon found himself unequally paired with an antagonist whose whole life had been one long training for controversy. The veteran gladiator disarmed the novice, inflicted a few contemptuous scratches, and turned away to encounter more formidable combatants.” — Macaulay, vol. ii. p. 198.

- C. L. 16. ✠ A reply to the answer made upon the three royal papers. [4to] pp. 56, 1686

19. A discourse sent to the late K. James, to persuade him to embrace the protestant religion; with a letter to the same purpose. By Samuel Parker, Lord Bishop of Oxon.

pp. 46, 4to Lond. 1690

Ath. Ox. vol. ii. col. 280. (Edit. Bliss, vol. iv. col. 225.) Republished, 8vo, 1714, under the title of "A Letter sent by Sir Leolyn Jenkins," &c. See 20. In the "Life of Sir Leoline Jenkins, Judge of the High Court of Admiralty, and Prerogative Court of Canterbury, &c. Ambassador and Plenipotentiary for the General Peace at Cologne and Nimeguen, and Secretary of State to K. Charles II." &c. &c., by William Wynne, 2 vols. fol. Lond. 1724, there are two Letters addressed by him to the Duke of York, respecting which his Biographer remarks, in defence of his Protestantism: "To this (his bounty to the French Protestants in the year 1681) may be justly added the many affectionate and pressing Instances he had made to his Royal Highness to persuade him to return to the Communion of the Church of England both by Letter and Conversation. Dr. Parker's Letter to Sir Leoline Jenkins (?) is already in print, and the Lord Clarendon's Letters on the same subject, which I have some reason to think were published by Sir Leoline's means, in order to promote and encourage others in the like Addresses. There is likewise a Letter in the following Collection to his Highness when he was retired to Scotland, (vol. ii. p. 690,) wrote just after the Debates in the House of Commons, upon the Bill of Exclusion, full of affectionate expressions and pathetick arguments to induce him to forsake the Roman Catholick Religion, but was no more than, as he there says, what he had often presumed to urge in his private and occasional Conferences with him. 'I will presume,' says Sir Leoline, 'humbly to say that besides what you owe to the Injunctions of your Martyr Father, and the rest of the Protestant World, you are bound in Justice 1. To the Church of England. 2. In submission to the King your Royal Brother. 3. In natural Affection to your Children. 4. In charity to these Three unhappy Nations, to use all the Means possible to inform yourself, whether you can with a safe Conscience return again to this Communion.'" The Injunctions of Charles I. will be found in a Broad-side, No. 1144, in the Collection of Proclamations, &c., presented to the Chetham Library, Manchester, by James O. Halliwell Esq., F.R.S., viz.: "Not Popery but the Protestant Religion the Support of the Crown Confirmed out of the Mouth of the Blessed Martyr K. Charles I. of Pious Memory. With other of his Sayings and Instructions concerning both Religion and Government, worthy to be seriously considered by all Protestants."

- C. L. Letter to Ann, Duchess of York, a few months before her death. [By Geo. Morley, Bishop of Winchester.] 1670

"Of this letter of Morley, dated Jan. 1670, there is a copy indorsed by the hand of Lord Clarendon himself. There is, besides, a most able and pathetic letter written by that illustrious exile himself to his daughter, and another full of respectful but manly remonstrance to the Duke, on occasion of the rumours which had reached him concerning the change in her Royal Highness's religious faith. These are dated in 1668. The last paper in the series is a letter by Lord Cornbury to the Duke of York on the same subject, dated December 26, 1670. They are so full of interest, that I had purposed to print them here entire; but the great space, which they would occupy, forbids me. I trust however that the public will soon obtain them by some other channel."—Phillpotts' Letters to Charles Butler, Esq., p. 330. The first is in the collection of "Several Treatises written upon several Occasions by the Right Reverend Father in God George Lord Bishop of Winton," 4to Lond. 1683; the second and third in the third volume of the Harleian Miscellany; the second and fourth in the Supplement to the Clarendon State Papers, pp. 38–41.

Remarks on the two Papers, writ by his late Majesty King Charles II. concerning Religion. By Gilbert Burnet, D.D. C. I.

4to Hague, 1687

This was the third answer to King Charles's Tracts published in the reign of James. Of these answers Dr. Lingard appears to have been ignorant. In vol. x. p. 215, he writes thus: "A question respecting their [King Charles's Tracts] authenticity was soon raised by persons who, with Evelyn and Burnet, maintained that both papers displayed a much greater proficiency in controversial learning than the laughter-loving Monarch had ever possessed. On the other side competent judges, acquainted with the handwriting of Charles, pronounced them genuine, and, from the erasures and corrections and interlineations with which they abounded, drew the conclusion that they were not mere copies of documents presented to that Prince, but compositions of his own, which he had revised and improved on different occasions. It was speedily known that numerous conversions to the Roman Catholic creed had occurred among the nobility and the dependants on the Court: the example of the higher was gradually imitated by the lower classes; and the more zealous of the Catholic body were careful to reprint editions of the two tracts, which they triumphantly dispersed among their neighbours. But the most unaccountable thing was the torpor with respect to them of the Protestant press. During the whole reign of James nothing was published in the shape of refutation; not a writer came forward to enter the lists against the royal theologian. This was a circumstance to which James has alluded with evident marks of satisfaction." — James's Memoirs, vol. ii. p. 9. In the same page is added, "There was something of an answer published by an unknown hand; but the drift of it was rather to prove that the papers were not the late King's, than any reply to the arguments in it." Reprinted in State Tracts, 1660-89.

An Answer to a book, entituled, A short and plain way to the Faith and Church. By Samuel Grascome, a Priest of the Church of England. C. I.
pp. 210, 8vo Lond. 1703

"It may perhaps be objected, that I have said nothing to the Two Papers of King Charles the Second, nor to the Account which the younger Huddleston gives of his Death, printed at the end of that small Treatise. I have good reason to call in question

Mr. Huddleston's Sincerity and fair dealing in that relation. For I have been told by a person of no mean Quality and Known Integrity, who attended his Majesty from the time presently after his fall in that fatal Distemper to the last minute of his Life, excepting the space of about one half hour, when he and others were desired to withdraw, to make room for some other company, whereof Mr. Huddleston was one, that the King at that time was not able to speak three words together without great difficulty, and those so brokenly and unintelligibly that they were forced to guess at his meaning. Now let any man well consider all the Formalities and parts which Mr. Huddleston tells us he then acted, and you will scarce allow it to be done with any decency in less than an hour and a half (although nothing should have passed at that time between the King and Queen to hinder or interrupt his proceedings) and that is three times as long as he was there. But the strangest thing of all is that he puts long speeches in the King's Mouth, and makes him speak them Readily and Cheerfully; whereas that Honourable Person tells me, that when he and the others went in again to the King, they observed his speech to fail more, and so it continued to his death. Now how came he to speak so well and readily then, who could do it neither before nor after?"—Pref.

Probably the same as the Letter addressed by Sir Leoline Jenkins to the Duke of York in Scotland in 1680 above referred to.

Of the discourses written upon the design of abrogating the penal Laws and Test.

20. Reasons for abrogating the test imposed upon all members of parliament. First written for the author's own satisfaction, and now published for the benefit of all others whom it may concern. By Samuel Parker, L. Bp. of Oxon. C. L.
pp. 131, 4to Lond. 1688
See Contin. p. 50. Ath. Ox. vol. ii. col. 820. (Edit. Bliss, vol. iv. col. 820.) Born in 1640, died in 1687. A defence of the Declaration of Indulgence, or rather a defence of the doctrine of transubstantiation. This piece called forth many answers, particularly one from Burnet, written with extraordinary vigour and acrimony. See Enquiry into the Reasons for abrogating the Test, &c., infra.
21. Transubstantiation a peculiar article of the Roman catholic faith, which was never owned by the antient church or any of the reformed. In answer to a late discourse called, Reasons for abrogating the test. By — Goodwin, a dissenting teacher in London. C. L.
pp. 48, 4to Lond. 1688
See Cat. p. 33. Contin. p. 50. I can find no notice of this writer although not a theologian κατα συμβεβηκος. "How unsuccessfully he (Bp. Parker) has managed this design of expounding transubstantiation has been shewn in a late Discourse proving transubstantiation to be the peculiar doctrine of the Church of Rome, and in the Preface to the Examination of the New Articles of the Roman Creed by Catholic Tradition."—Wake.
22. A discourse concerning the nature of idolatry, in which a late author [Samuel L. Bp. of Oxon's] true and only notion of Idolatry [in his reasons for abrogating the test, as above, No. 20.] is considered and confuted. By William Wake, M.A. C. L.
Pref. pp. xvi., 96, 4to Lond. 1688

See Cat. No. 160. Contin. p. 50. Born in 1657, died in 1737. "Archbishop Wake was early and long engaged in controversy with the papists; and of all the great Divines who stood forward in defence of the Church of England in that protracted and memorable contest he, after Stillingfleet, was at once the most profoundly skilled in the learning, the most acute, solid and judicious in the argument of his cause. His gentle spirit led him to be moderate; but to convince you how he really thought and wrote of the Church of Rome, I will beg leave to add one or two quotations from his works in return for yours. The charge of idolatry is repeatedly enforced by him, and that not incidentally and by the way, but directly and argumentatively. The title of one of his chapters is as follows. That the Church of Rome thus worshipping of images is truly and properly guilty of idolatry . . . Of the Adoration of the Host he says, the Church of England, consequently to her principles of the Bread and Wine remaining in their natural substances, professes that she thinks it to be Idolatry, and to be abhorred of all faithful Christians. Of the Sacrifice of the Mass, that it both makes up the chiefest part of the Popish worship, and is justly esteemed one of the greatest and most dangerous errors that offend us. See Exposition of the Doctrines of the Church of England."—Letter to Charles Butler, Esq. By the Rev. Henry Phillpotts, D.D. The question so laboriously dilated upon in Moncæii Aaron Purgatus sive de Vitulo Aureo simul Cheruborum Mosis, Vitulorum Jeroboami, Theraphorum Micha formam et historiam Explicantes, Atrebat, 1606, (of which there is an analysis in Poole's Synopsis ad Exod. xxxii.) viz. Whether the Golden Calf was set up in honour of Apis, the Egyptian god, or symbolically in honour of Jehovah, was involved in the controversy between Godden and Stillingfleet, and again in the revival of that controversy between Parker and Wake. "I shall not discuss the question of Moncæius," [who believed Aaron and the Levites to have offered relative worship only, whilst the rest of the congregation were guilty of apostasy]—says the Rev. Dr. Townsend in Scriptural Communion with God, or the Pentateuch and the Book of Job, vol. ii. p. 287—"neither shall I enquire into the accuracy of the opinion of Pfeiffer and of the majority of commentators, that it was set up in honour of Apis. I believe that it was framed in honour of the God of the patriarchs, the God of Israel, Jehovah." Our learned author has evidently misrepresented the opinion of Pfeiffer, as will appear from the following extract from his Difficiliorum S. S. Locorum Centurice, Ultrajecti 1704, p. 131. Eum vitulum Israelitæ non habebant pro Deo sed verum Deum representative et symbolice colere volebant illo. Nec enim vitulum eduxisse se ex Ægypto (cujus materiam potius ipsi secum ex Ægypto asportarant) nec Aaron tam emotæ mentis erat. . . . Nihilominus tamen idololatriam Israelitæ committebant, quia Deum aliter colere intendebant quam coli volebat. Confer B.D. Chemnitius P. 4. Exam. C. T. p. m. 22. seq. D. Gerhardus de Lege Mor. § 92. Seeing then the theory of Moncæius supported by so many consentient authorities, we cannot but be surprised that it has so severely been condemned by the learned Lutheran Divine, Jo. Henr. Maius, in his Historia Animalium Scripturæ Sacræ; viz. “Ac juste denique ille purgatus impuri hominis a Paulo V. et Alexandro VII. Pontificibus indici librorum prohibitorum insertus, purgatorioque igni subjectus est.” That from the use of animals as symbols of the divine nature, animal worship originated, is shown by Jamblicus de Myster. Ægypt. s. ii. c. 1. &c. &c. See Jurieu’s Critical History of the Doctrine and Worship of the Church, vol. ii. p. 178; Kircher’s Obeliscus Pamphilius, c. 1; Vossius de Idololatria; Cudworth’s Intellectual System; Faber’s Origin of Pagan Idolatry. In a curious work on “Ancient Alphabets and Hieroglyphics,” written in Arabic by Ibn Wahshih, and translated by M. Joseph Hammer, London, 1806, 4to, there is a singularly formed hieroglyphic symbol, called by Kircher, Anima Mundi. See Œdipus Ægyptiacus, vol. ii. p. 415, vol. iii. p. 405, and Prodromus Coptus, cap. ix. Of this symbol the author says, “This figure is expressive of the most sublime secret, called originally, Bahumed and Kharuf, (or calf,) viz., The Secret of the Nature of the World, or The Secret of Secrets, or The Beginning and Return of every thing.” On which M. Hammer remarks: “It is superfluous to recall here to the memory of the reader the great antiquity and mysterious sense of the idolatrous veneration in which the calf has been continually held,” &c. Pref. p. xiii, and pp. 22, 23. On Symbol-Idolatry see also Brocklesby’s Explication of the Gospel-Theism and the Divinity of the Christian Religion, fol. Lond. 1706, Book i. c. 7.

C. L.

The first Apologists indeed exulted in a religion more dogmatical and spiritual than that of the subjects of the ceremonial law, and zealously and severely condemned the frequent defections of the Jews, which were no other than the joining foreign worship to the worship of the God of Israel; and in this they acted with much good judgment, inasmuch as Christianity could not have been established but upon the abandonment by the Pagans of their inveterate prejudices concerning intercommunity of worship. So great was the influence of this principle that in the same time and country the Jews of Jerusalem added the Pagan idolatries to their religion, while the Pagans of Samaria added the Jewish religion to their idolatries. For instances of Jewish intercommunity, see Apthorpe's Letters on the Prevalence of Christianity. The truth of Christianity was acknowledged by the Pagans; they only wanted the compliment to be returned. As this could not be done, there was a necessity for the Christians to assign the reasons for their refusal. And this gave birth to so many confutations of idolatrous worship. See Warburton's Div. Leg. B. ii. s. 6. Severe laws of the Church were established against such as mingled the Jewish religion and the Christian together, and who are specified and condemned in the laws of Honorius in the Theodosian code. Lib. xvi. tit. viii. - C. 1. 23. A discourse concerning transubstantiation and idolatry; being an answer to the L. Bishop of Oxford's plea to those two points. By Gilbert Burnet, D.D. pp. 36, 4to Lond. 1688

"The wisdom of our Legislators is demonstrated in singling out this to be the sole point of the Tests for Employments; since it is perhaps the only point in Controversy in which the whole Church of Rome holds the Affirmative, and the whole Reformed hold the Negative." This treatise is in the ninth volume of the Somers Tracts, p. 151, and is thus described: "Samuel Parker, D.D. Bishop of Oxford, a man of some talents and activity, disgraced himself during this busy period by his implicit compliance with the arbitrary commands of James II. This involved him in a dispute with Dr. Burnet, who treated him as unmercifully as Andrew Marvel had done upon a former occasion. Indeed Parker had exalted the king's supremacy in terms which amounted to direct blasphemy. Burnet's account of the controversy is as follows:—'He wrote a book against the tests full of petulant scurrility, of which I shall only give one instance. He had reflected much on the popish plot, and on Oates's evidence; and upon that he called the test the sacrament of Oatesian villainy. He treated the parliament that enacted the tests with a scorn that no popish writer had yet ventured on; and he said much to excuse transubstantiation and to free the church of Rome from the charge of idolatry. This raised such a disgust of him, even in those that had been formerly but too much influenced by him, that, when he could not help seeing that, he sunk under it. I was desired to answer his book with the severity that he deserved; and I did it with an acrimony of style that nothing but such a time and such a man could in any sort excuse. It was said the king sent him my papers, hearing that nobody else durst put them into his hands, hoping it would raise his indignation and engage him to answer them.”—Burnet’s History of His Own Time, vol. iii. p. 1265. (Edit. 1724, vol. i. p. 740.)

- C. L. 27. An Answer to a late pamphlet, entitled, The judgment and doctrine of the clergy, &c. [as above, No. 26], shewing that this is not asserted by the Archbishops Bancroft, Laud, and Usher; Bp. Sanderson; the Doctors Heylin, Barrow, Sherlock, Hickes, Nalson, Puller; so far as appears from their words cited in this pamphlet. In a letter to a friend.

pp. 39, 4to Lond. 1687

This tract shows that even those writers who advocated non-resistance and passive obedience did not consequentially include the dispensing power among the rights and privileges of sovereignty. "The Laws of England are the King's Laws, but when they are made Laws by the King [King's authority] they become the Laws of the Land, the Rule of his own Government, and his Subjects' obedience." "He concludes this pamphlet with some few Authorities for Liberty of Conscience. I shall not now examine how pertinent they are, for I will give no other Answer but this; when he has answered all the Presbyterian arguments against Toleration, but especially that Book call'd Toleration Discuss'd and the arguments of Dr. Parker, now the Right Reverend Bishop of Oxford, in his Ecclesiastical Policy; when he can prove that Liberty of Conscience is the doctrine and practise of the Church of Rome, and the Standing Rule of the Inquisition, then I will consider further on this Argument."

The works from which testimonies to this "judgment" (Tracts 26, 27) are derived are as follow:

Conference between Bishop Laud and Fisher the Jesuit, with an answer to the exceptions of A. C. [Fisher.]

C. L.

The first edition was printed along with White's Replie to Jesuit Fisher's answers to certaine questions propounded by King James, fol. Lond. 1624. The second edition was published separately, much enlarged, 1639, fol.; the third in 1673, with important alterations; the fourth in 1686, with trifling variations from the third; the fifth, 1849, in Lib. of Anglo-Cath. Theol., Oxon. In this edition the whole of Fisher's Account of the Conference, with his notes, to which Laud's Relation is a reply, and of which some portions only were given in the former editions, is incorporated from the only copy known to exist, and the numerous quotations from the Fathers and Schoolmen are printed with their context. — "He quotes a saying of his [Laud's] out of his book against Fisher, but never directs us where to find it," &c. It will be found in page 211 of the third edition. Of the nine questions proposed to Fisher the last is — "Deposing Kings and transferring their Dominions by Papal Authority either directly or indirectly."

In the eleventh volume of Archbishop Ussher's Works, Dublin, 1847 — "The reverend Author without meddling with these Punctilios of the Law undertaketh no more but to declare and assert the Power of Sovereign Princes, as the godly Fathers and Councils of the ancient Catholick Church from the evidence of Holy Scripture, and the most judicious Heathen Writers by discourse of Reason from the light of Nature, have constantly taught and acknowledged the same." A Sermon preached upon the Anniversary Solemnity of the happy Inauguration of our dread Sovereign James 2. 6th February 1685-6. By Thomas Cartwright, Bishop of Chester.

The Jacobite devotion of this "still viler sycophant than Parker" may be gathered from the following extract from his Diary printed for the Camden Society. "May 29, 1687. I was at the first sermon, and after at the King's levee, who ordered me to deliver my address at 10 after the rising of the cabinet council, which was graciously accepted and answered with a speech of his Majesty's to this effect — My Lord, I could expect no less than such a loyal address as this from a prelate of such approved loyalty as you have been, and am fully convinced that, where my bishops are loyal, the clergy of the Church of England will easily be ruled by them in any thing relating to my service; and I do assure you and them that whilst they continue their duty, they shall never find me unmindful of my engagements to them, but ready to make good all that I have promised them, and to stand by them as long as I live; but when the bishops are wanting in doing their duties, I can not but expect their clergy shall be unmindful of theirs."

The extract given from Dr. Heylin respecting "the King's sometimes passing by a Statute with a Non-obstante" is not to be found by any reference given here or in the Answer. It occurs in "The Stumbling Block of Disobedience and Rebellion: cunningly laid by Calvin in the Subjects way, discovered, censured and removed." (In his Historical and Miscellaneous Tracts, fol. Lond. 1681.)

Treatise on the Pope's Supremacy. By Isaac Barrow, D.D. Master of Trinity College, Cambridge. 4to Lond. 1688. Fol. Lond. 1683, vol. i.

The places where to find them are given in the Answer viz. pp. 311-318, 400, 4to. This excellent and elaborate treatise is given in the first volume of the Supplement to Gibson's Preservative from Popery, 8vo Lond. 1849; and "The Nature and Extent of the Papal Claims to Supremacy, whether in Things Temporal or Spiritual," from the same Treatise will be found in Wordsworth's Christian Institutes, vol. iv. "Of the life of this luminary of mathematical science and ornament of the English church, it is hardly necessary to say a word, as a biography of him will be met with in every Cyclopædia and Collection of Lives;" Worthington's Diary and Correspondence, vol. i. p. 66. A few passages, however, from Abraham Hill's Account of his Life, prefixed to his works, are too interesting to be omitted. "Besides the particular assistance he gave to many in their studie, he concerned himself in every thing that was for the interest of his College; upon the single affair of building their Library, he writ out quires of Paper, chiefly to those who had been of the College, first to ingage them and then to give them thanks, which he never omitted: these Letters he esteemed not enough to keep copies of, but by the generous returns he brought in, they appeared to be of no small value; and those Gentlemen that please to send back their Letters will deserve to be accounted further Benefactors to their Library. In this place seated to his ease and satisfaction he yielded the day to his public business, and took from his Morning sleep many hours to increase his stock of Sermons and write his Treatise of the Pope's Supremacy. He understood Popery both at home and abroad, he had narrowly observed it, militant in England, triumphant in Italy, disguised in France, and had earlier apprehensions than most others of the approaching danger, and would have appeared with the forwardest in a needful time; for his engagement in that Cause, and his place in your Friendship [Dr. Tillotson's] I would (with the leave of the most worthy Dean of St. Paul's, his highly respected Friend) call him another Dr. Stillingfleet." See also Ward's Lives of the Professors of Gresham College, fol. Lond. 1740. How delightful it is to see such men as Dr. Barrow and his successor in the Mathematical Chair, Sir Isaac Newton, thus "yielding the day to public business." "I do not love to be printed on every occasion, much less to be dunned and teased by foreigners about mathematical things, or to be thought by our own people to be trifling away my time about them when I am about the King's business." (Newton to Flamsteed.) The "particular Branches of Sovereignty," as set down by Dr. Barrow, will be found in pp. 274, 287, 297, 318, 319, 323, 341, 357, 365, 382, 388, 396, 398, 400, and are collected in Vox Cleri pro Rege, ut infra.

The Case of Resistance of the Supreme Powers stated and resolved, according to the doctrine of the Holy Scriptures. By William Sherlock, D.D. Master of the Temple, and Dean of St. Paul's. Lond. 1684

"A pension was bestowed on him by Charles: but that pension James soon took away; for Sherlock, though he held himself bound to pay passive obedience to the civil power, held himself equally bound to combat religious errors, and was the keenest and most laborious of that host of controversialists who, in the day of peril, manfully defended the Protestant faith. In little more than two years he published sixteen treatises, some of them large books, against the high pretensions of Rome. Not content with the easy victories which he gained over such feeble antagonists as those who were quartered at Clerkenwell and the Savoy, he had the courage to measure his strength with no less a champion than Bossuet, and came out of the conflict without discredit. Nevertheless Sherlock still continued to maintain that no oppression could justify Christians in resisting the kingly authority." (Macaulay, vol. iii. pp. 457-8.) In vol. iv. of the same work is fully told the story of his conversion from Jacobitism by a passage in the eighth chapter of Bishop Overall's Convocation Book, 1606, concerning the Government of God's Catholick Church and the Kingdoms of the Whole World. 4to Lond. 1690. In justification of his conduct he published a pamphlet entitled The Case of Allegiance to Sovereign Powers stated, 4to Lond. 1691.

The Common Interest of King and People; shewing the original antiquity and excellency of Monarchy, compared with Aristocracy and Democracy, and particularly of our English Monarchy; and that Absolute, Papal and Presbyterian Popular Supremacy are utterly inconsistent with Prerogative, Property and Liberty. By John Nalson. 8vo Lond. 1678

The Moderation of the Church of England considered. By Timothy Puller, D.D. 8vo Lond. 1679. A new Edition, with an Introductory Preface, by the Rev. Robert Eden. Lond. 1848

The Harmony of Divinity and Law, in a Discourse about not Resisting of Sovereign Princes, on Prov. xxx. 31. [By George Hickee, D.D.] 4to Lond. 1684. Anon.

This learned divine and philologist advocated passive obedience and the theory of divine right in several other works, e.g. The Judgment of an Anonymous Writer, &c., already enumerated in page 7, Jovian, &c.—A Letter to the Author of a late Paper, entitled, a Vindication of the Divines of the Church of England, &c., in Defence of the History of Passive Obedience, (the Author of the Vindication, Dr. Fowler, Bishop of Gloucester) 1689.—A Discourse of the Sovereign Power, in a Sermon preached Nov. 28, 1682, before the Artillery Company, 1713. He here says (Collection of Sermons, vol. i. p. 345): "God hath reserved wicked Princes and Tyrants for his punishment, and hath allowed their Subjects no Arms against them, but the Arms of the Catholick and Apostolical Church, even the primitive Artillery of Prayers and Tears."—The celebrated story of the Theban Legion no Fable, in answer to the Objections of Dr. Gilbert Burnet's Preface to his Translation of Lactantius de Mortibus Persecutorum, with some Remarks on his Discourse of Persecution; written in 1687, though not published till 1714. His favourite argument for passive obedience drawn from the story of the Theban Legion has been annihilated by John Dubourdieu in an Historical Dissertation upon the Theban Legion, plainly proving it to be Fabulous, 1696.

28. Samuel Lord Bp. of Oxford, his celebrated reasons for abrogating the test and notions of idolatry answered by Samuel Archdeacon of Canterbury. [By John Phillips, (?) nephew to John Milton.] The third edition. pp. 22, 4to Lond. 1688

See Ath. Ox. vol. ii. col. 850 and 1119. (Edit. Bliss, vol. iv. col. 820.) To understand this title-page, it is necessary that the reader be informed that, in reward of Bishop Parker's obsequiousness to King James, he had, upon being preferred to the see of Oxford, obtained permission to hold the archdeaconry of Canterbury in commendam with that preferment. The archdeaconry he had obtained by distinguishing himself in the controversy between the church of England and the dissenters; and as, in the present struggle, he assumed the appearance of compassion and affection for the latter class of protestants, his antagonists fail not to reproach him with the very different sentiments he formerly entertained respecting non-conformists. These are chiefly drawn from Parker's work, entitled "A Discourse of Ecclesiastical Polity, wherein the Authority of the Civil Magistrate over the Consciences of Subjects in Matters of external Religion is asserted." This treatise appeared about 1673-4, and greatly offended the dissenters, as appears from the intemperate titles to several answers to which it gave occasion, as, for example, "Insolence and Impudence triumphant, Envy and Fury enthroned." The vindication of the test and penal laws, which the Ecclesiastical Polity contains, is in this tract placed by Burnet in contrast with Parker's Defence of the Indulgence. — Somers Tracts, ix. 160.

The author, whether Burnet or Phillips, here adopts Horace's maxim :

Ridiculum acri

Fortius ac melius magnas plerumque secat res."

Lib. ii. Sat. iv. 14.

"There is another reason, why His Majesty was graciously pleas'd to think Force in Matters of meer Religion directly contrary to the Interest of Government, and that is, Spoyling of Trade. — Trade! cries the Arch-Deacon; Trade! No. Let grass grow about the Custom-House, rather than abate one Tittle of my Ecclesiastical Polity..... He is a very silly Man, and understands nothing of the follies, passions and inclinations of Human Nature, who sees not there is no Creature so ungovernable, as a Wealthy Phanatick, (p. 51.) And therefore (p. 48) I confess I can not but smile, when I observe how some, that would be thought wonderful grave and solemn Statesmen, labour with mighty projects of setting up this and that Manufacture in their respective Towns and Corporations, and how eagerly they pursue these petty attempts beyond the great Affairs of a more Publick Concernment (meaning the dreadful and terrible execution of the Penal Laws;) and how wisely they neglect the settlement of a whole Nation, for the Benefit of a Village or Burrough! Very pleasant Ecclesiastical Polity! No Man must eat or drink, or maintain his Family: the grand relation of Human Necessities, depending one upon another, must stand still to oblige the Arch-Deacon's Ecclesiastical Polity. Here's a Quietus est for above the Third Part of the Nation. None but those that can swallow a Surplice, and adore the Parochial Levite, must weave Camlets at Norwich, make Bays at Colchester, Spurs at Rippon, Nayls at Brummigham, or Saddles at Burford. For why? There is not any sort of people so seditious, as the Trading Part of the Nation."

29. The reasonableness of the church of England's test and justness of her reformation, asserted; in answer to the Bp. of Oxon's fallacious reasons and precarious assertions against it. Also the worship of images, adoration of the host, and invocation of saints proved idolatry; by the catholick doctrine of the holy scripture, the ancient fathers, and all reformed churches. By which the writings of the doctors, Stillingfleet, Tillotson, More, &c. are cleared from the charge of anti-catholick, anti-christian, phanatical, &c. C. L.

"That men as loyal as himself and as far from being fanatical or unlearned entertained different notions of idolatry I shall insert the following passages," &c. p. xi. The authors here quoted are Whitgift, Abbot and Laud. Another contemporary equally learned might have been cited, viz. Bilson in "The True Difference betweene Christian Subjection and Unchristian Rebellion," &c. 4to Lond. 1685. The fourth part.

30. Vox cleri pro rege; or the rights of the imperial sovereignty of the crown of England vindicated in reply to a late pamphlet [No. 27 supra] pretending to answer a book, entitled The judgment and doctrine of the clergy of the church of England, concerning the King's prerogative in dispensing with penal laws. In a letter to friend. C. L.
pp. Pref. xv., 68, 4to 1688

There was a second edition, with an Historical Account appended of the Convocation, 1689. In 1690 was published An Answer to Vox Cleri, &c. Among other works here cited as concurring in this judgment is Patriarcha: or the Natural Power of Kings, Lond. 1680, 8vo, by the Learned Sir Robert Filmer Baronet, "one of the most learned and loyal Gentlemen of the last Age, who as the Author of the Epistle Dedicatory to his Grace the present Duke of Beaufort (Edm. Bohun) says of him, dared to be true to the Crown when his Fidelity could entitle him to Nothing, but the glory of living and dying a Good Subject, with the hazard of his Life and Fortunes." His "Power of Kings and in particular of the King of England," Lond. 1648-1680, concludes thus: — "The Council of Many wise men may be better than of One; but to resolve, determine, and to command, One will always perform it better than Many; He which hath advisedly digested all their Opinions, will soon resolve without contention: the which many cannot easily perform: it is necessary to have a Sovereign Prince, which may have Power to resolve and determine of the Opinions of his Council." He wrote several other political works, e.g. The Anarchy of a Limited and Mixed Monarchy; in answer to Phil. Hutton's Treatise on Monarchy, 8vo. Lond. 1646, 1648, 1679. Observations concerning the Original of Government against Hobbes, Milton, Grotius, Hutton, &c., 4to. Lond. 1652. The Freeholders Grand Inquest touching the King and his Parliament, written by Sir Richard Hobhouse, 8vo. Lond. 1679. Defense against the Mistakes and Misrepresentations of Algernon Sidney Esq. in a Paper delivered by him to the Sherifs upon the Scaffold in Tower Hill, on Friday December 7, 1683, before his Execution there, fol. Lond. 1684. Sidney's Paper will be found in State Tracts 1660-1689. The most celebrated of his works, the "Patriarcha," in which the author derives all power from paternal authority and from Adam, occasioned some of the best works on government not only in this country but likewise on the continent, e.g. Locke's Two Treatises of Government. In the former, the false Principles and Foundation of Sir Robert Filmer and his Followers are detected and overthrown. The latter, an Essay concerning the true Original Extent and End of Civil Government, 8vo Lond. 1690. Sir James Tyrrel's Patriarcha non Monarcha. The Patriarch Unmonarch'd: being Observations on a late Treatise and diverse other Miscellanies, published under the name of Sir R. F. Bart, In which the falseness of those Opinions that would make Monarchy Jure Divino are laid open; and the true Principles of Government and Property (especially in our Kingdom) asserted. 8vo Lond. 1681. Algernon Sidney's Discourses concerning Government, fol. Lond. 1698.

An Utopian government! See Coleridge's Friend, vol. i. p. 324, On the Grounds of Government as laid exclusively in the Pure Reason; or a statement and critique of the Theory of Rousseau and the French Economists. "All the different philosophical systems of political justice," says Coleridge, "all the Theories on the rightful Origin of Government are reducible in the end to three classes, correspondent to the three different points of view, in which the Human Being itself may be contemplated." The system of Hobbes ascribes the origin and continuance of Government to fear. The second system derives it from human prudence, the invisible powers of our nature, whose immediate presence is disclosed to our inner sense. The third and last system denies all rightful origin to government except as far as it is derivable from principles contained in the Reason of Man, and judges all the relations of men in society by the laws of moral necessity, which is the common duty of all men. Coleridge declares himself an adherent of the second system, in which the human being is considered as an animal gifted with understanding, or the faculty of suiting measures to circumstances. This theory appears to be supported by Aristotle, who ascribes Government to connate principles or moral sentiments, those life-blent characteristics of humanity by which it is instinctively impelled as well to civil as to domestic society. The origin and constitution of Human Society, considered as the necessary result of the physical and moral conditions impressed on our nature by the Creator, is beautifully exhibited in the fifth, sixth and seventh chapters of Dr. Chalmers' Bridgewater Treatise; and in the sixth Lecture of Archbishop Whateley's Political Economy.

An example of a royalty thus emanating directly from on high is seen in the line of David established on the throne of Judah; and a claim to a resemblance to this right is expressed or implied in the language of Oriental monarchs, and of many princes of the house of Stuart (see A Defence of the Right of Kings by James I.) and of the house of Bourbon. "It is," writes Louis XIV. (see his Mémoires Historiques in the second and third volumes of his works, 6 vols. 8vo 1806), "the will of Heaven who has given kings to man that they should be revered as his vicegerents, he having reserved to himself alone the right to scrutinise their conduct." A Defence of Sir Robert Filmer against the Mistakes and Representations of Algernon Sidney Esq.; in a Paper delivered by him to the Sheriffs upon the Scaffold, &c. By Edmund Bohun. 1684

Among the upholders of the patriarchal theory may be mentioned Chrysostom, Bp. Andrews and the Caroline Divines (see Hurd's sixth Dialogue), Fleury, Bossuet and their followers in France. (See Sir James Stephen's Lectures on the History of France, vol. ii., "The Absolute Monarchy of Louis XIV.")

"It was," writes Hallam in his Constitutional History of England, "at this time [1685] that the university of Oxford published their celebrated decree against pernicious books and damnable doctrines, enumerating as such above twenty propositions, which they anathematized as false, seditious and impious. The first of these is, that all civil authority is derived originally from the people; the second, that there is a compact, tacit or express, between the king and his subjects: and others follow of the same description. They do not explicitly condemn a limited monarchy, like Filmer, but evidently adopt his scheme of primogenitary right, which is incompatible with it. . . . This decree was publicly burned by an order of the house of lords in 1709: nor does there seem to have been a single dissent in that body to a step that cast such a stigma on the university. But the disgrace of the offence was greater than that of the punishment." This decree will be found in State Tracts from the year 1660 to 1689, part ii. p. 154; Collier's Ecclesiastical History of Great Britain, vol. ii. p. 902; Sacheverell's Tryall, p. 162; Somers Tracts, vol. viii. p. 420.

Sir Thomas Craig's Right of Succession to the Kingdom of England against the Sophisms of Parsons the Jesuite, &c. Fol. Lond. 1703. Especially chap. xviii.

"One of the contrivances of the Jesuits was by searching into the origin of civil power, which they brought rightly, though for this wicked purpose, from the people; for they concluded that if the original power could be shown to have no divine right, but to be of human, and even popular institution, the liberty which the pope took in deposing would be less invidious: thus the Jesuits reasoned. The argument was pushed with great vigour by Harding and his brethren in Elizabeth's reign, but afterwards with more learning and address by Bellarmine, Mariana and others. (Note. This notion was stated even so early as Henry's rejection of the supremacy. Cardinal Pole insists strongly on this origin of kingship in his book, Pro ecclesiasticæ unitatis defensione, lib. i. p. 74.) To combat this dangerous position so prejudicial to the power of kings and which was meant to justify the attempts of violence on the lives of heretical princes, the Protestant divines went into the other extreme, and to save the person of their sovereign, preached up the doctrine of Divine Right. Hooker, superior to every prejudice, followed the truth. But the rest of our reforming and reformed divines stuck to the other opinion, which, as appears from the Homilies, the Institution of the Christian Man, and the general stream of writings in those days, became the opinion of the church, and was indeed the received Protestant doctrine."—Hurd's Moral and Political Dialogues, vol. iv. p. 61.

The arguments against the theory of an original contract are stated with great ability in chap. iii. But, as Coleridge observes, "the contempt lavished by him on the notion of an original contract, though sufficiently compatible with the tenets of a Hume, will seem strange to us in the writings of a Protestant clergyman, who surely owed some respect to a mode of thinking which God himself had authorized by his own example, in the establishment of the Jewish constitution." These arguments will also be found in Bishop Sanderson's Preface to Usher "On the Power of the Prince," § 15-18.

There are now living two eminent monarchists, Guizot and Palgrave. The former, in his Lectures on European Civilization, has accurately distinguished the varieties of regal power which have prevailed at different periods, Barbarian, Imperial or Roman, Feudal, Religious, and Constitutional.

On the Divine Right see also Hayward's Life and Raigne of Henrie the iiiii., pp. 101-110, 4to Lond. 1599; Wolley's Loyalty amongst Rebels; The True Royalist, or Hushay the Archite, Lond. 1662. For other authorities on both sides see Dr. Doddridge's Lectures. Hooker, Baxter, Horsley, Burke, and Paley contended that all government is in such sort of divine institution that be the form of any particular government what it may, the submission of the individual is a principal branch of that religious duty which each man owes to God; but the principles which they advanced ascribed no greater sanctity to monarchy than to any other form of established government. See Wordsworth's Christian Institutes, vol. iii.

I shall conclude this digression into the field of Political Philosophy with a list of Tracts on non-resistance and passive obedience. Their name is Legion, but I shall confine it to those works which, having been collected in the State Tracts referred to in p. 9 and similar publications, are easily accessible—

The Declaration of his Highness, William Henry, Prince of Orange, &c. Of the Reasons inducing him to appear in Arms in the Kingdom of England, for preserving of the Protestant Religion, and for restoring the Laws and Liberties of England, Scotland and Ireland, is given entire in the Tryall of Dr. Sacheverell, pp. 179–185. State Tracts, 1660–89. Part ii., pp. 420–26. The opinion of Grotius referred to in the first volume, ut supra, was that our non-resistance should be ever measured by the intention of those who first framed the society. “The Rights of War and Peace,” b. i. c. iv. s. 7. See also Puffendorf “de Jure Naturæ et Gentium,” lib. vii. c. 7, s. 7. “The maxim, Fiat Justitia et ruat Cælum, let justice be performed though the universe be destroyed, is apparently false, and by sacrificing the end to the means, shews a preposterous idea of the subordination of duties.” Hume's Essays, xiii., On Passive Obedience.

The political Treatises of Samuel Johnson, Chaplain to Lord Russel, were collected in one volume, folio, 1710, e.g. Julian the Apostate; being an Account of his Life, and the sense of the primitive Christians about his Succession, &c. (published in 1682). Julian's Arts to undermine and extirpate Christianity; together with Answers to Constantius the Apostate, and Jovian (published in reply to Hickes's Jovian, 1689). Remarks on Dr. Sherlock's book, entitled, The Case of Resistance of the Supreme Powers stated and resolved (published 1689). All these inquiries are collectively discussed in “Bibliotheca Politica; or an Inquiry into the Ancient Constitution of the English Government.” In thirteen Dialogues. Lond. 1694. The first dialogue relates to the question, whether monarchy be of divine right? the second, whether hereditary succession to crowns be a divine institution: the third, whether resistance of the supreme power by a whole nation, can be justified by the law of nature, or the gospel: the fourth, whether absolute non-resistance is enjoined by the gospel, or was the doctrine of the primitive church: the fifth, whether the king be the supreme legislative authority, and whether the parliament be a fundamental part of the government, or proceeds from the favour of kings: the sixth, whether the commons of England was one of the three estates of the kingdom, before the 49th of Henry III.: the seventh, the same question continued: the eighth, continuation of the same subject: the ninth, whether by the ancient laws and constitution of this kingdom, as well as by the statutes of the 13th and 14th of Charles II., all resistance of the king, or of those commissioned by him, is expressly forbidden upon any pretence whatsoever: the tenth, whether a king of England can ever fall from, or forfeit his royal dignity, for any breach of an original contract, or wilful violation of the fundamental laws of the kingdom; and whether King William the Conqueror did not acquire, by virtue of his conquest, an absolute and unconditioned right to the crown of these realms: the eleventh, in what sense civil power is said to be derived from God, &c.: whether the appointment of William Prince of Orange be in accordance to the constitutional maxims of the English Constitution: the twelfth and thirteenth dialogues are on matters of little public moment.

I find in "The Law of Christ respecting Civil Obedience, especially in the Payment of Tribute, &c., by John Brown D.D.," extracts on the Right of Resistance from numerous authorities, references to the most valuable of which I here subjoin:—

Loeke on Civil Government, chap. xix. Paley's Mor. and Pol. Phil., book vi. chap. iii. Hutcheson's Elements of Ethics, book iii. McCrie's Review of the first series of the Tales of my Landlord. Edinburgh Christian Instructor for 1817. "We can appeal to divines and dignitaries of the Church of England, who have sanctioned the principles of resistance on which our ancestors acted—to Jewel, Hooker, Bilson, Bedel, Burnet, Hoadly, and King. But this is unnecessary, as the whole convocation, the Church of England representative, in Elizabeth's reign, publicly acknowledged it 'glorious to assist subjects in their resistance to their sovereigns, and their endeavours to rid themselves of their tyranny and oppressions.'" Sir James Mackintosh's View of the Reign of James II. from his Accession to the Enterprize of the Prince of Orange, chap. x. Jus Populi; or, a Discourse wherein clear satisfaction is given as well concerning the Right of Subjects as the Right of Princes: showing how both are consistent, and where they border one upon the other; as also what there is divine and what there is humane in both; and whether is of more value and extent, pp. 63-65, 4to Lond. 1664. It has been ascribed, obviously in mistake, to Milton.

"The reader," adds Dr. Brown, "who wishes to see what can be said against a principle which is so powerfully supported in these extracts, and in favour of its opposite, will do well to consult a small but most elaborate dissertation, in the form of a sermon, entitled Passive Obedience, or the Christian Doctrine of not resisting the Supreme Power, proved and vindicated upon the Principles of the Law of Nature, in a discourse preached at the College Chapel, by George Berkeley, M.A., Fellow of Trinity College, Dublin, (afterwards Bishop of Cloyne). 'Nec vero aut per senatum aut per populum solvi hac lege possumus.'—Cic. fragm. de rep. Lond. 1713. This without doubt, and beyond comparison, the ablest defence of Passive Obedience and Non-resistance on philosophical principles consistent with revelation, is a curious display of the characteristic extreme acuteness, yet unsoundness of the mind of its singularly gifted and most estimable author—'ingeniosa et sagax hariolatio viri disertissimi.' The scriptural argument in favour of these doctrines is fully stated in Dean Sherlock's 'Case of Resistance,' &c. . . . And the argument from the doctrine and practice of the primitive Christians may be found in Archbishop Usher's tract, entitled, The Power communicated by God, &c. Few questions have been more thoroughly discussed. A specimen of the advocacy of what we regard as the right side is presented to the reader, and it is but justice to say that if that side of it which we consider untenable has been disgraced by the impiety of Hobbes and the unprincipled meanness of Parker—the learning of Usher, the judgment of Sanderson, the wit of South, the subtilty and candour of Berkeley, and the sanctity of Ken, are more than enough to entitle to careful consideration any principle which they entertained," &c. Abednego Seller, in his History of Passive Obedience since the Reformation, 4to Amsterdam, 1689, maintained that the Church of England "in contradistinction both to Papists and to Dissenters has constantly asserted the principles of Obedience to Princes, as the best ages of Christianity practised it."

Hurd's remark cited supra, p. 37, on the opinion of most of our reforming and reformed Divines, is illustrated also in Jovian (chap. 10), in which are produced not only Statutes and Judgments of Convocations, but numerous authorities both legal and ecclesiastical. Kettlewell, in his Treatise on Christianity, A Doctrine of the Cross; or, Passive Obedience under any pretended Invasions of Regal Rights and Liberties (in the second volume of his Works, fol. Lond. 1719), adduces also the Statutes, and concludes, p. 181: "By all which I conceive it plainly appears, 1. that the Two Houses sit with the King in Parliament, and concur in making laws, not as co-ordinate Powers that are equal to him, but as subordinate under him; not in place of Sovereigns, but of Subjects under him, their sole Sovereign." The theory of a co-ordinate monarchy had been adopted to justify the war which the two houses were waging against King Charles I., and is the subject of a short pamphlet, entitled, A fuller Answer to a Treatise written by Dr. Ferne, entitled, "The Resolving of Conscience," 1642, 4to., the writer of which, according to Dr. Wordsworth, in Christian Institutes, vol. iii. p. 14, was Charles Herle, rector of Winwick in Lancashire, one of the licensors of the press under the two houses, a member of the Assembly of Divines, &c. &c. The subordination of the Three Estates of Scotland, Lords temporal and spiritual, and Commons, is zealously advocated in Abercromby's Martial Atchievements of the Scots Nation, folio, Edinb. 1715. See Index in vol. ii. s.v. Antimonarchical Authors Confuted, (George Ridpath, &c.)

On the other side Sir Robert Howard, in the History of the Reigns of Edward and Richard II., Lond. 1690, quotes reformed Divines asserting and supporting a contrary doctrine, viz. Zuinglius, Calvin, Bucer, Peter Martyr, Paræus, &c. (as we are frequently reminded by Papal writers, e.g. Brekeley or Anderton, Parsons, Patenson); extracts the original agreement in Magna Charta, and the opinion of Bracton and Fortescue; and subjoins from Hooker's Ecclesiastical Polity the rationale of civil governments, according to which they have only an executive government committed to them by the people, in which he was defended by Bishop Hoadley — after Locke the most formidable adversary of the Patriarchal Scheme of Filmer, vol. ii. pp. 250-86.

"Hitherto we have only seen the most decent part of the controversy, which at this time raged between the King and the Church of England, when they stood forth on each side in their own characters, and for that reason were obliged to observe decorum; but in the two following pieces (A New Test and Some Considerations, &c.) or in the first of them at least, we shall find that the same temper and decency were not always observed. The Church of England, it is plain, could not act up to her own professions, and the moment she hesitated, the king forgot her services. In the expostulations that followed, the gall of each party overflowed; and, as on the one hand, the courtiers would not allow the churchmen to be loyal, so, on the other, the churchmen were resolved not to lose the first opportunity that offered to make the courtiers eat their words, or, if not, to make them sensible that they had given them a sufficient provocation to be otherwise."  Respecting Queen Elizabeth's "grace towards such as in her wisdom she knew to be Papist in conscience, and not faction and singularity," dilated on in Sir F. Walsingham's Letter, and, on the other hand, "the undutiful and traitorous affection borne against her Majesty by her Roman Catholic subjects," I shall give the testimonies not only of Protestants but of those who are represented as persecuted, in chronological order, because the lenity of the Queen and the Government for the first ten years of her reign is acknowledged by Parsons himself, and in the works of the Secular Priests ut infra; and the institution of a seminary at Douay in 1569, followed by another at Rome ten years later, which together sent three hundred priests into the English harvest (as Rishton in his Continuation of Sanders de Schism. Angl. relates) with the deposing bull of Pius V. (dated by Sanders February 27, 1569-70; by Catena in his Italian translation of it in his Life of Pius V. February 25, and 5 Kal. A Viewe of a seditious Bul sente into Englande from Pius Quintus, Bishop of Rome, Anno 1569. By John Jewel, Bp. of Salisbury. "Bishop Jewel has left some able and eloquent strictures upon the manifesto of Pius V. in his View of a Seditious Bull, &c. Scarcely any portion is more remarkable for his characteristic excellences than that in which he chastised the low-minded reflexion of the pontiff upon the shelter afforded to the unhappy persons whom he persecuted out of his country, and who, he would be doubly mortified to find, had escaped his fury by finding an asylum in the dominions of the British Queen. And yet it appears from the orders for enquiry by Elizabeth and the Archbishop of Canterbury that great care was taken in this work of exemplary charity to distinguish between those who came into the country for conscience sake and those who came from improper motives." Nic. Sanderi de visibili Monarchia Ecclesiæ, Libri viii., Lovanii, 1571, Antw. 1581, Witeburg. 1592. It appears that this work of Father Sanders gave great uneasiness to the Government of Queen Elizabeth, on account of its advocating the deposing power of the Pope, and defending the Bull of Pius V. To counteract his designs, Elizabeth framed her Six Celebrated Questions, which were proposed to all Catholic missionaries, and to which Questions she required explicit and satisfactory answers. Two of these Questions, the third and the fifth, applied to Father Sanders; and the fifth especially relates to this work. See Butler's English Catholics. "In this book Sanders doth avow the bull of Pope Pius V. against Qu. Elizabeth to have been lawful, and affirmeth that by virtue thereof one Dr. Moreton, an old fugitive and conspirator, was sent from Rome into the north parts of England, to stir up the first rebellion there, whereof Charles Nevile, Earl of Westmoreland, was head captain."—Wood, vol. i. col. 471. It is full of scurrilous abuse of England and English affairs. He wrote likewise Pro defensione Excommunicationis a Pio V. late in Angliæ reginam, lib. i. Printed, but afterwards suppressed by the author.

A brief Treatise of diuerse plaine and sure Wayes to find out the Truthe in this doubtful and dangerous time of Heresie. By Richard Bristow D.D. 16mo Antw. 1574. This work, generally entitled Dr. Bristow's Motives, was reprinted Antw. 1599, 8vo; translated into Latin by Dr. Worthington 1608, 4to. The "particular Declaration," mentioned infra, and Butler's Memoirs of the Catholics, give extracts from Bristow and from Sanders de V. M. E. "Whereby it is manifest they do miserably forget themselves, who feare not excommunications of Pius quintus of holy memory, in whome Christ himselfe to have spoken and excommunicated as in St. Paul, they might consider by the miracles that Christ by him as by St. Paul did worke." — Bristowe, in his Sixth Motive, fol. 31. Oliver Carter, a Fellow of Christ's College in Manchester, "writt a book in answer to Bristowe's Motives." — Hollingworth's History of Manchester.

A Declaration of the true Causes of the great troubles presupposed to be intended against the Realme of Englaunde, &c. By Robert Parsons, 1581, 1592.

One of the rarest and most interesting volumes relating to English history ever published. It was looked upon to be so dangerous a piece as to receive an answer from Bacon, under the title, Certain Observations upon a libel printed this present year, 1592.

"From Persons we may prove the necessity of the penal laws enacted under Elizabeth against a priesthood which had then openly made a league with persecution, with treason and with massacre." Southey's Vindiciæ.

The Execution of Justice in England for maintenaunce of publique and Christian Peace against certeine Stürers of Sedition and Adherents to the Traitors and Enemies of the Realme without any persecution of them for Questions of Religion, as is falsely reported and published by the Fautors and Fosterers of their Treasons &c. By William Cecil, Lord Burleigh. 1581.

In the second volume of the Harleian Miscellany; Somers' Tracts, vol. i. p. 192; Gibson's Preservative, vol. xvii.; Stowe's Annals; and in a Collection of several Treatises concerning the reasons and occasions of the Penal Laws: i. The Execution, &c.; ii. Important Considerations, ut infra; iii. The Jesuits' Reasons, &c., ut supra, p. viii. Printed 1677, 1687, 1688. "This is a defence of the penal laws against Catholics, instituted in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. These were chiefly occasioned by the violence of those Papists who acknowledged the bull of Pius V. excommunicating Queen Elizabeth, and absolving her subjects from their allegiance. In January 1581-2 a severe statute was passed, declaring those guilty of high treason who should dissuade English subjects from their allegiance, and from the established religion, or who should reconcile them to the church of Rome: and the same penalty of high treason was denounced against those who should be so dissuaded or reconciled. It is probable that this pamphlet, which has the air of being written by the royal command, was intended as a commentary on so severe an act.

Great, and natural, and laudable anxiety is shown in this curious treatise, to draw a distinction between the executions made in Queen Mary's time, on account of religion alone, and those examples which Elizabeth had made amongst the Catholics, not on account of their abstract religious tenets, but because they had warped with them political doctrines inconsistent with the safety of the state. Elizabeth was anxious to escape the reproach of persecution, and to show that in those priests who, acting on the bull of Pius V., endeavoured to excite her subjects against her, she punished, not the Catholic, but the traitor." Somers' Tracts, vol. i.

"For the complete vindication of this much injured princess (Q. Eliz.) from the main if not precisely every particular of her alleged offences, especially her conduct in respect of severity towards her papal subjects, it would be abundantly sufficient to refer any impartial reader to Lord Burleigh's Execution of Justice; to the generally received history of Europe at the time, particularly to the Life and Letters of Pius V.; and for a modern historian, to Sharon Turner, who by travelling even out of the country to the real sources of what was transacting in it, has produced a more rational and just account of the reign of Elizabeth than ever appeared before in our language. I refer with much satisfaction to the elaborate biography of her most eminent minister, Lord Burghley, by Dr. Nares." Mendham.

Rationes decem oblati Certaminis redditæ Academicis Angliæ. Ab

Edmundo Campiano Soc. Jesu. 1581. Claramontanæ 1583. Rochelle 1585. Herbipol. 1589. Rorschachii 1606. Cadomi 1616. Colonia Agripinæ 1625. Antverp. 1631. Translated into English 1671.

Campian's Rationes, or Reasons for embracing the Faith of Rome, addressed to the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, occasioned numerous replies and rejoinders from Whitaker, Charke, Lawrence Humphrey, and from John Dorey or Duræus, also a member of the Society of Jesus, and Parsons. The reply provoked from Whitaker, 1581, was translated by Richard Stoke under the title of "Answer to the Ten Reasons of E. C. Jesuite, in confidence whereof he offered disputation to the Ministers of the Church of England in the controversy of Faith," 4to Lond. 1706. (See Baines's Lancashire.) It was also translated under the title of "A seasonable Preservative against Popish Delusions. Or, an Answer," &c. To which is prefixed an Account as well of the Jesuit, as the Professor, together with some Remarks (subjoin'd to the Ten Reasons) upon a late boasted Performance, entitled, The Conversion and Reformation of the Church of England compar'd, &c. By Thomas Dawson, D.D. 8vo Lond. 1732. In his animadversions on the Preface, or the Letter sent by Campian to the two Universities, "The honour of our Schools and the angel of our Church, learned Whitaker, than whom our age saw nothing more memorable" [Bishop Hall] exclaims, "But who are you and what's the religion you profess, that you take upon you to upbraid us with cruelty? Hear me, dear Campian, and deny it, if you can, There have been more of us destroy'd at one sentence, in one day, and at one fiery stake, by your Party than all that you can reckon up together amongst yourselves that suffer'd at different times, and by different punishments, for the Popish Cause, all this happy reign of Queen Elizabeth." Dorey's "Confutationes" [Paris 1582. Ingolst. 1585] are inserted with a Rejoinder, in Whitakeri Opp. fol. Genevæ, 1610.

Concertatio Ecclesiae Catholicae in Anglia adversus Calvinopapistas et Puritanos sub Elizabetha Regina quorundam hominum doctrina et sanctitate illustrium renovata et recognita. Quæ nunc de novo centum et eo amplius Martyrum, sexcentorumque insignium virorum rebus gestis variisque certaminibus, lapsorum Palinodiis, novis persecutorum edictis, ac doctissimis Catholicorum de Anglicano seu muliebri Pontificatu, ac Romani Pontificis in Principes Christianos auctoritate; disputationibus et defensionibus aucta, &c. A Joanne Aquapontano (John Bridgewater.) Aug. Trev. 1594. [First edition 1583, second 1588, third 1594.]

The first part contains, Duas Epistolas Edmundi Campiani [the original, in English, of that addressed to Everard Mercurian, will be found in Fuller's Church History, and that of the Letter to the Lords of the Council in Strype's Annals, vol. iii. p. vi.] eiusdemque Rationes decem &c. una cum Epistola alterius docti viri, in qua explicantur crudelissimæ leges Calvinistarum in Catholicos editæ. De Persecutione Anglicana Epistola [Paris 1582, Romæ 1582, 8vo], which has been ascribed to Parsons. An English translation was printed at Douay 1582, 16mo. The second part, Martyria aliorum Catholicorum, consisting principally of extracts from the seventh book of Sanders de Visibili Monarchia, and the third book of the same author's De Origine ac Progressu Schismatis Anglicani, lib. iii. etc. [Col. Agrip. 1585, Rom. 1586, Ingolst. 1588, Col. Agrip. 1590, 1610, 1628.] The latter of these is the work in which were first published the "calumnies" relative to the birth and parentage of Queen Anne Boleyn. Campian's Narratio Divorcii Henrici VIII. ab uxore Catharina, published in his Opuscula, Ingolst. 1602, Mediol. 1625, Antwerp 1631, is inserted at the end of Harpsfield's Hist. Eccl. Angl. "A Diary kept by the Rev. Mr. Rishton, a prisoner in the Tower, in which he gives a description of the various modes of torture inflicted on the Catholic prisoners from 1580 to 1585, was first published in Latin at the end of Sanderus de Schismate." Butler's Book of the R. C. Church. Lingard supplies some extracts from it in the Appendix. In the last edition, 1628, Rishton, or Rushton, added a third part and a fourth by way of Appendix, together with "Summarium de Morte Mariæ Stuartæ." It has been translated under the title of "The Rise and Progress of the English Reformation," &c., Dublin, 1827, 8vo. At the end of the first volume of Burnet's History of the Reformation is an Appendix concerning some of the Errors and Falshoods in Sanders' Book of the English Schism. To Dr. Cowell is generally attributed Anti-Sanderus, duos continens Dialogos, in quibus variæ N. S. aliorumque Romanensium Calumniæ in hæc Anglorum ab Excuso Pontifice Tempora confictæ refelluntur, Cantab. 1593, 4to. A Life of Sanders will be found in Wood's Ath. Oxon.—To return to the Concertatio. The second part contains also "Certamina quatuor nobilium Puerorum, Thomæ, Roberti, Ricardi ac Joannis Worthingtoniorum. Item Georgii Hather-salli nobilis, Gulielmi Crumelhumii, Humfredi Maxfeldii laicorum, Thomæ Worthingtonii et Thomæ Browni Sacerdotum." This narrative gives considerable information relative to the Romanists in Lancashire. Cf. Hollingworth's Chronicle, p. 94. "Certamen Dominae Alanæ, viduæ fratris Illustrissimi Cardinalis Gulielmi Alani." "Palinodia Antonii Tyrelli." [There is an English original of his Recantation, 1588.] — The third part, "Apologia Martyrum, qua ipsorum innocentia variis rationibus demonstratur; eosque solius religionis Catholicæ causa, quam susceperant propagandam et propugnandam, crudelissime enecatos fuisse." "Literæ et Confessio Publica Joannis Nicolai," etc. See Lingard's History, vol. vi. p. 343. "Apologia doctissimi viri D. Gul. Alani pro sacerdotibus societatis Jesu, cum duobus Edictis Elizabethæ Reginæ Angliæ." [Printed Aug. Trev. 1583.] Additur eiusdem "piùssima Admonitio et Consolatio vere Christiana ad afflictos Catholicos Angliæ." [Ibid. 1583.] The original of the former was "Apologie, and true declaration, of the institution and endeavours, of the two English Colleges;" the one in Rome, the other now resident in Rhemes, &c. Printed at Mounts in Henault 1581, against "certaine sinistre Informations given up against the same." With the latter compare Saunders's Address to the Irish Nobility in Ellis's Second Series of Letters, vol. iii. p. 92. "Ad Persecutores Anglos pro Catholicis domi forisque persecutionem sufferentibus contra falsum, seditiosum et contumeliosum Libellum, inscriptum, Justitia Britannica [ut supra] Responsio." Ingolst. 1584, 8vo. This is Cardinal Allen's work translated, "A true and modest Defence of the English Catholicks that suffered for their faith at home and abroad, against a Libel entituled "The Execution of Justice in England." Or, Justitia Britannica; per quam liquet perspicue aliquot in Anglia perditos ciues, propter turpes proditones, morte mulctatos esse; propter Religionem vero aut ceremonias Romanas neminem, 1584. Annexed to this celebrated volume is "De summa eorum Clementia, qui habendis quæstionibus præfuerant contra proditores quosdam, deque tormentis quæ in eosdem ob Proditionem, non ob Religionem, exprompta sunt." In the third Part, pp. 313-545, this most accomplished scholar replies to Cardinal Allen's books here referred to. In his booke on Purgatory, Antwerp 1565, Allen inculcates the belief in the Pope's supremacy, which subsequently he maintained so strenuously. “There was much to reprehend in the scurrilous language of this instrument; and several passages in it appear to call for an answer from the leaders of the Spanish party among the exiles. Two were soon published: one by Persons under the title of Responsio ad edictum, for an accurate account of which I shall refer the reader to Mr. Butler's Memoirs, vol. iii. p. 236 ; and another by F. Creswell, intituled Exemplar literarum missarum à Germania ad D. Gulielmum Cecilium, consiliarium regium. Impressum Anno Domini MDXCII."

"It is difficult to speak of these tracts with the severity which they deserve. They might please the king of Spain, and might uphold his hope of effecting the conquest of England ; but they were calculated to irritate Elizabeth, to throw suspicion on the loyalty of the Catholics, and to increase the pressure of persecution. The real motive of the authors may perhaps be discovered from the conclusion of each tract. They seem to have believed that the queen was alarmed, and they hoped, by adding to that alarm, to extort her assent to the following proposals : that she should make peace with Philip, should tolerate the exercise of the Catholic worship, and should allow all men, without distinction of religion, to partake of the favours and protection of government. "This discourse was composed by a priest of the Church of Rome, with the consent and in the name of many more, and was then a preface to a treatise, &c. (Important Considerations, ut supra.) The Epistle is the same as that in the same treatise." In Gibson's Preservative, fol. vol. iii. p. xvii. 8vo. "For further decisive, and it should appear, sincere acknowledgments of clemency by Romanists themselves, I refer to certificates by twenty-one individuals in 1584, (Gibson, ibid.), and of thirty-two more in 1585, (Stow's Chron. p. 710) ; the Protestation of thirteen Secular Priests in 1602, (given at length in Dodd's History, vol. ii. pp. 292-3, and Butler's Historical Memoirs, vol. i. p. 261) ; the relation of the faction at Wisbich, (Gibson, ibid.) ; and the admissions of Warmingham, Barclay, Widdrington, and Peter Walsh, with others adduced in the Brief Historical account of the Jesuits," [ibid. at the end.] Mendham's Notes as above. To her (Elizabeth's) eternal honour she ordered seventy popish priests, either under sentence of death or awaiting it, to be released from prison, the rack and the scaffold. (Camden's Annals; Mackintosh's Hist. of England, vol. iii. p. 287; Gibson, as above, p. 22.) It was in 1580 the Jesuits first came into England, and therefore they had no right to complain of penal inflictions, since the Act against Papal Bulls was adopted in 1572. They voluntarily incurred the evil they braved and suffered from; and it was the peculiar character of these laws that they were defensive, not attacking measures. See Mackintosh, ibid. p. 161, and Sharon Turner's History of Edw. VI., Mary and Elizabeth, Book ii. ch. 32.

The following works, containing reflections on the preceding reign, were published after James's accession and at a subsequent period.

The Catholikes Supplication unto the King's Majesty; for Toleration of Catholike Religion in England: with short Notes or Animadversions in the margine. Whereunto is annexed Parallel-wise, a Supplicatorie Counterpoysse of the Protestants, unto the same most excellent Majesty. Together with the reasons of both sides, for and against toleration of diuers religions. By Gabriel Powell. pp. 39, 4to Lond. 1603.

The "Counterpoysse" is nothing more than a parody of the Supplication. See Tierney's Dodd, vol. iv. Appendix p. lxxiv.

In 1604 there was also published by Gabriel Powell, A Consideration of the Papists Reasons of State and Religion, for toleration of Poperie in England, intimated in their Supplication, &c. 4to Oxford, 1604.

An exact Discoverie of Romish Doctrine in the case of Conspiracie and Rebellion, by pregnant observations: collected (not without direction from our Superiours) out of the expresse dogmaticall principles of Popish Priests and Doctors. pp. 54, 4to Lond. 1605.

The principal authors of this rebellious doctrine are here enumerated, viz. Tollet, Bellarmine, Allen, Molina, Gregorie of Valentia, Stapleton, Dominicus Bannes. "We have also alleaged The Resolution of the Jesuites Colledge of the Universitie of Salamancha in Spaine, anno 1602, as likewise Creswels Philopater, printed at Rome, Licentia Superiorum, signifying the Jesuites. What shall I neede to mention Reynolds (in his Rosæus) a Doctor of Divinity, and chiefest man in the English Seminarie at Rhemes? Father Parsons (in his Dolman) a principal Rector of the Seminarie at Rome?" There were seminaries also at Valladolid, Saville, St. Omer's and Douay.

Those who desire information respecting the contest between the Seculars and the Jesuits in these Seminaries will find their curiosity amply fed in Dodd's "History of the English College at Doway from its first Foundation in 1568 to the present year, 1713;" and "The Secret Policy of the English Society of Jesus, discover'd in a series of Attempts against the Clergy, &c. &c. 1715." Cardinal Alan, or Allen, the founder of this College and of others, especially the Roman College, is eulogized in the following terms in the Preface to the Galathæus, sive de Moribus Liber Italicus, of Joannes Casa (the Italian Chesterfield), Romæ, 1595: "Cardinalis Alanus (Deus bone, qualis et quantus vir) familiaribus multam sæpe prudentis disputationis materiem subjecit; fecitque dubitando disceptandoque, ut et aula ejus videretur schola, et mensa cathedra pietatis et prudentiæ."

We have now arrived at the year of the Gunpowder Plot, and it will not perhaps be impertinent to our subject to introduce an anecdote locally connected with Manchester, and politically with the causes of one of the most remarkable occurrences in English history. It appears that at the assizes at Manchester, in the summer of 1604, several Jesuits or seminary priests were tried, condemned and executed, under the statute 27th Elizabeth, for high treason for remaining within the realm after the time prescribed by the royal proclamation. Mr. Pound, an aged Roman Catholic gentleman residing in Lancashire, who had been imprisoned in Queen Elizabeth's time on account of his religion, presented a petition to the King complaining generally of the persecution of the Roman Catholics, and in particular of the rigorous proceedings and alarming doctrines of the Judges at Manchester. He was prosecuted by the Attorney-General in the Star Chamber for a contempt, and no pains were spared to render this judicial proceeding against an inoffensive old man as imposing as possible. Sir Edward Coke inveighed violently against the doctrines and practices of the Romanists; the Lords of the Council and Judges followed in the same strain; and in the end Mr. Pound was sentenced by the Court to be imprisoned in the Fleet during the King's pleasure; to stand in the pillory both at Lancaster and Westminster; and to pay a fine of one thousand pounds. Many members of the Court proposed to add to this severe sentence that the old man should be nailed to the pillory and have both his ears cut off. This barbarous proposition was negatived by one or two voices only. (Rushton Papers, MSS.

of Sir Thomas Tresham, discovered at Rushton, in Northamptonshire, quoted by Jardine; see Winwood's Memorials, vol. ii. p. 36, where this sentence is somewhat differently stated.)

An Answer to the Fifth Part of Reportes lately set forth by Sir Edward Cooke, Knight, the Kinges Attorney generall. Concerning the ancient and moderne Municipall lawes of England, which do apperteyne to Spirituall Power and Jurisdiction, etc. By a Catholike Deuyne [Robert Parsons]. 4to 1606. See chap. xv.

An Epistle of Comfort to the Reverend Priestes, and to the Honorable, Worshipful and other of the Laye sort restrayned in Durance for the Catholicke Fayth. 16mo Paris [1605].

This work is presumed to be by the Martyr Southwell, and the same as that assigned to him by Dodd by the title of a Consolation for Catholics imprisoned on account of Religion. See Turnbull's edition of Southwell's Poems, Memoir, p. xxxv. Notes and Queries, second series, vol. iii. pp. 376, 475.

Brereley (John) Priest. [James Anderton, of Lostock in Lancashire.] The Protestants Apologie for the Roman Church. Divided into three several Tractes. The first concerneth the antiquity and continuance of the Roman Church and Religion, ever since the Apostles times. The second 1. that the Protestants Religion was not so much as in being, at or before Luther's first appearing. 2. That the Marks of the true Church are apperteyning to the Roman, and wholly wanting to the several Churches, begun by Luther and Calvin. The third that Catholics are no less loyall and dutifull to their Soueraigne than Protestants. All which is undertaken and proved by testimonies of the learned Protestants themselves. With a conclusion to the Reuerend Judges, and other the grave and learned Sages of the law. 4to 1608.

The first edition 1604; the second 1608; the third 1615. Translated into Latin by Rayner. 4to Paris 1615. The Preface is an examination of the chargeable demeanour of the Protestants towards their Soueraignes. "There was a Printing-house supprest about three years since (1621) in Lancashire, where all Brerely his workes, with many other popish pamphlets, were printed." The Foot out of the Snare, by John Gee, 4to Lond. 1624, p. 97. Reprinted in Sir Walter Scott's edition of the Somers Tracts, vol. iii. p. 49.

An Apologie for the Oath of Allegiance. Against the Two Breves of Pope Paulus Quintus, and the late Letter of Cardinall Bellarmine to G. Blackwell the Arch-priest. Premonition to all Most Mightie Monarches, Kings, Free Princes and States of Christendome. King James's Works, fol. Lond. 1616. In page 250 of the former and page 336 of the latter, James sacrifices to the Manes of his late Predecessor (to the propriety of these words Parsons objects in his Replie to Barlow, pp. 166-68, which, however, are defended by the latter in his Answer, ut infra, p. 70, et seqq.) by declaring his conviction that "the punishment of the Papists was ever extorted out of her hands against her will by their own misbehaviour," &c. Cf. Nowell's Confutation of Dorman, p. 258, 4to Lond. 1567. It is a curious circumstance that an answer to Sir Henry Saville's translation of King James's Apology for the Oath of Allegiance, which was made by command of the Conclave by Francisco Suarez, and entitled Defensio Fidei Catholicæ, was interlined by the Inquisition at Rome with the doctrine of deposing and killing Princes; though detested by the writer of the Answer. See Dr. King's Letter to Walton, prefixed to Hooker's Ecclesiastical Polity. An imperfect list of the books published on occasion of the Apology will be found in the Appendix to Harris's Life of James I. See also Lowndes's British Librarian.

An Answer to a Catholike English-Man (so by himselfe entituled), who, without a name, passed his Censure upon the Apology, for the Oath of Allegiance; which Censure is heere examined and refuted. By the Bishop of Lincoln (Willam Barlow), 4to Lond. 1609. See pp. 64-102. 'But to conclude this complaint of Queene Elizabeth's crueltie, an Italian, no Protestant shall speake; (Bizar. Histor. Genuens, p. 568.)

"So great and so apparant was the moderation of her minde, and her inbred clemencie, that (not undeservedly) it may be said of her, which the ancient Histories haue left to posteritie of Alexander Seuerus, borne of his Mother Mammæa, nempé anæmaton, hoc est, Citra Sangvinem; namely, that she hath gouerned her Kingdome without blood-shed, cum svapte natvra semper a cædibus et crvdelitate abhorreat; for even her natvre doth abhorre the thought of slaughter or crveltie: and so he goeth on in a large discourse; in this her praise; and when he wrote thus, she had reigned twenty yeeres." p. 92.

A Discussion of the Answer of M. William Barlow D. of Divinity to the Booke intituled The Judgment of a Catholike Englishman living in banishment for his Religion &c. Concerning the Apology of the new Oath of Allegiance. Written by the R. Father, F. Robert Persons of the Society of Jesus. Whereunto since the said Father's death, is annexed a Generall Preface, &c. Permissu Superiorum. 1612. "This excellent work, (The Judgment, &c.) equally distinguished by strength of argument and eloquence, is now extremely scarce." Butler, iii. 180.

The Second Part about the Breves of Paulus Quintus. Concerning M. Barlowe his exorbitant flattery in exaggerating Queene Elizabeth's vertues and sanctity, pp. 159-228. After the Pope forbade the people to swear allegiance to the King a long controversy began among the Romanists on the extent of the deposing power; but the result was that the foreign Pontiff was obeyed. Obedience to the temporal sovereign was decided to be inconsistent with religious duty. "Widdrington, a Benedictine Monk, published a masterpiece in defence of the Oath. The Jesuits to a man refused it. The generality of the Clergy were for it. The Pope is advised with. He puts forth several Bulls to prohibit it; but they were neglected by many, in the same manner as those had lately been which absolved the English from their allegiance to Queen Elizabeth. . . . If the Jesuits could find a means to evade the Bull, which absolved all subjects from their obedience to Queen Elizabeth, under penalty of excommunication; why could not such as took the Oath of Allegiance make use of the same pretence, to excuse themselves from submitting to those Bulls, which forbid the Oath of Allegiance?" Dodd's Secret Policy of the English Society of Jesus. Cf. The Difference between the Church and Court of Rome considered in some Reflections on a Dialogue entitled, A Conference between two Protestants and a Papist. 4to Lond. 1674. — Pseudo-Martyr; shewing that Roman Catholics in this kingdom may and ought to take the Oath of Allegiance. By John Donne, D.D. 4to Lond. 1610. — A Pattern of Christian Loyalty: whereby any prudent man may clearly perceive in what manner the new oath of allegiance, and every clause thereof, may in a true and catholike sense, without danger of perjury, be taken by the roman catholikes Collected out of authors who have handled the whole matter more largely. The Jesuits Downefall, threatened against them by the Secular Priests for their wicked lives, accursed manners, hereticall doctrine, and more than Machiavillian police. Together with the Life of Antilogia adversus Apologiam Andreæ Eudæmon-Joannis Jesuitæ pro Henrico Garneto Jesuita Proditore. Qua mendacissimi Monachi adversus Ecclesiam et Remp. Anglicanam violatæ religionis et justitiæ nomine calumniæ refutantur; et Jesuitarum, Garneti vero maxime, proditoria consilia et conjurationes exploratissima veritate referuntur. Authore Rob. Abboto. 4to Londini 1613. Vide cap. iv. An account of this rare work will be found in Jardine's Narrative of the Gunpowder Plot. Lond. 1857. The real name of the author of the several works published under the title of Eudæmon-Joannes was L'Heureux. He was a native of Candia and a Jesuit of high reputation for learning, who taught theology at the University of Padua, and was appointed by Pope Urban VIII. Rector of the Greek College at Rome. See the Act of Parliament 3 Jacobi cap. 4, 5, where we are told by the Parliament of the hellish conspiracies of the Jesuits and Seminary Priests. For a particular narrative of the horrid Powder Plot consult Williams's History of the Gunpowder Treason, Lond. 1678, and those authors out of which he collected it, in the last page of that tract. Reflections upon the Oath of Supremacy and Allegiance. By a Catholic Gentleman, an obedient Son of the Church, and loyal Subject to his Majesty [John Sergeant] 1661, 12mo. "He understands by the former oath, that prescribed by queen Elizabeth; by the latter the oath prescribed by James: he shows, with great clearness, that the oath of supremacy can not be conscientiously taken by the roman catholics, and that the oath of allegiance, though in other respects defensible, was substantially objectionable, from its declaring the deposing doctrine to be heretical." Without title-page. In the ninth volume of the Somers Tracts, p. 151, where it is ascribed to Bishop Burnet. See note to No. 20 supra.

“His Majesty commanded the stationers not to print any answer to Bishop Parker’s book. This was very surprising from a Bishop of the Church of England, and the more so when it was found that he had treated the chief Divines of it with an insolence superior to any of its open enemies. Therefore, notwithstanding the King’s commands, several sharp answers came out against it; but none made greater noise than that written by Dr. Burnet; out of which we may take notice of two or three passages. He unluckily turns these words in the titlepage, Written for the Author’s own satisfaction, and now publish’d for the Benefit of all others whom it may concern. But says he the words are certainly wrong plac’d, for the truth of the matter is that it was written for the Author’s own Benefit, and now publish’d for the Satisfaction of all others whom it may concern . . . ‘With what sensible regret must those who were edify’d with the gravity, the piety, the generosity and charity of the late Bishop of Oxford, look on, when they see such a Harlequin in his room.’ Having charg’d Dr. Burnet with writing Lampoons upon the present Princes of Christendom, the Doctor retorts it upon him with this satyirical period: ‘It is Lampoon enough upon the Age, that he is a Bishop, but it is a downright Reproach that he is made the Champion of a Cause, which if it is bad of itself, must suffer extremely by being in such hands.’” (Echard’s history of England, vol. iii. pp. 838, 839.) It was translated likewise into French by Monsieur Le Clerc, who inserted it in the collection of miscellaneous discourses of Mr. Locke, printed in 1710." Of the discourses written on occasion of the King's most gracious letters of indulgence.

C. L. 39. A Letter to a dissenter, upon occasion of his majesty's late gracious declaration of indulgence. pp. 7, 4to 1687

By George Savile, Marquis of Halifax, born about 1630, died 1695. In the State Papers, 1693, part i. p. 294. Somers Tracts.

“The Marquis of Hallifax, whose dexterity had been the active cause of throwing out the Bill of Exclusion, was in active opposition to King James ere he had held the throne two years, on which Ralph has the following sensible remarks: ‘It is no uncommon thing for statesmen to look one way and row another: and yet there is scarce any circumstance of this reign more worthy of remark than the inconsistent parts now acted by two such eminent men as the Marquis of Hallifax and the Earl of Sunderland, and the inconsistent behaviour of his majesty towards them. The latter, who had gone warmly into the exclusion, under a seeming conviction of the many evils likely to befall the public under a catholic king, and who was now the oracle of the cabinet, laboured with all his might to introduce those very evils, if not to entail them on posterity. The Marquis, on the contrary, who had been indefatigable to shew that exclusion alone was a greater evil than all those put together, and yet was now out of place and favour, for that reason probably, took as much pains to convince the world that his former triumph was but a lucky mistake, and rather owing to the superiority of his parts than the goodness of his cause.’” Ralph’s History, vol. i. p. 953.

“Of the numerous pamphlets in which the cause of the Court and the cause of the Church were at this time eagerly and anxiously pleaded before the Puritan, now, by a strange turn of fortune, the arbiter of the fate of his persecutors, one only is still remembered, the Letter to a Dissenter. In this masterly little tract all the arguments which could convince a Nonconformist that it was his duty and his interest to prefer an alliance with the Church to an alliance with the Court, were condensed into the smallest compass, arranged in the most perspicuous order, illustrated with lively wit, and enforced by an eloquence earnest indeed, yet never in its utmost vehemence transgressing the limits of exact good sense and good breeding. The effect of this paper was immense; for as it was only a single sheet, more than twenty thousand copies were circulated by the post; and there was no order of the kingdom in which the effect was not felt. Twenty-four answers were published, but the town pronounced that they were all bad, and that Lestranger's was the worst of the twenty-four. The government was greatly irritated, and spared no pains to discover the author of the Letter; but it was found impossible to procure legal evidence against him. Some imagined that they recognised the sentiments and diction of Temple. (Note. The letter was signed T. W. Care says, in his Animadversions, This Sir Politic T. W. or W. T.; for some critics think that the truer reading). But in truth that amplitude and acuteness of intellect, that vivacity of fancy, that terse and energetic style, that placid dignity, half courtly half philosophical, which the utmost excitement of conflict could not for a moment derange, belonged to Halifax, and to Halifax alone."—Macaulay, vol. ii. p. 217.

"Lord Halifax published, on the same occasion, a Letter to a Dissenter; the most perfect model, perhaps, of a political tract; which, although its whole argument, unbroken by diversion to general topics, is brought exclusively to bear with concentrated force upon the question, the parties, and the moment, cannot be read, after an interval of a century and a half, without admiration of its acuteness, address, terseness, and poignancy."—Mackintosh's History of the Revolution. p. 174.

40. ✠ Answer to a Letter to a Dissenter, upon occasion of His C. L. Majesties late Gracious Declaration of Indulgence.

pp. 6, 4to Lond. 1687.

In the Bodleian Catalogue is "An Answer to the Letter to a Dissenter, detecting the unjust insinuations which highly reflect on his majesty, as likewise the many false charges on the dissenters." "It is justly observed by Sir Walter Scott that the object of the poem (The Hind and Panther) shews that Dryden was not in the secret of James the Second, as the purpose of the monarch was to introduce a free exercise of the catholic religion, not by an union between its adherents and the members of the established church, but by uniting the dissenting congregations in a common interest against the exclusive power and privileges of the panther and her subjects." — Butler's Memoirs of the English, &c., Catholics.

pp. 40, 4to Lond. 1687

See No. 24 supra. A. Wood gives this account of Henry Care: "He is several times reflected upon by Roger L'Estrange in his Observers, for a poor snivelling fellow; who after he had wrote several things in behalf of the church of England and the presbyterians, and had reflected on both the Universities in several of his writings as popishly affected, was at length prevailed upon in the time of James II. to write for the Roman Catholics, against the Church which he before had eagerly defended; whereby it was made manifest that what he wrote was not for religion, or conscience' sake, which he before did pretend, but for interest." Peck gives the title, "Animadversions on a late pamphlet," &c., but the original reads "paper," as above.—J. H. T.

pp. 50, 4to Lond. 1687

Born 1616, died 1704. The Letter is incorporated. "This," concludes L'Estrange, "is enough for my present purpose; and if it be not so for common satisfaction, my Third Volume of Observers has fifty times as much upon this Subject" (the King's Prerogative, and the Duty of a Subject).

“The most just principles of unbounded freedom in religion were now the received creed at St. James’s. Even Sir Roger L’Estrange endeavoured to save his consistency, by declaring that though he had for twenty years resisted religious liberty as a right of the people, he acquiesced in it as a boon from the King.—Mackintosh, p. 174.

48. The Reasons of the Oxford Clergy against addressing.

In the ninth volume of the Somers Tracts will be found — “A Copy of an Address to the King by the Bishop of Oxon, to be subscribed by the clergy of his Diocess; with the Reasons for the Subscription to the Address, and the Reasons against it.” With the following note: “That the declaration might be so much the less unpalatable, and that those of the legal church might not be rendered desperate, his majesty had been advised to open it with a clause that seemed to be in their favour, viz.: ‘In the first place we do declare that we will protect and maintain our archbishops, bishops and clergy, and all other our subjects of the church of England in the free exercise of their religion as by law established; and in the quiet and full enjoyment of all their possessions, without any molestation or disturbance whatsoever.' Now there wanted not undertakers, even among the bishops themselves, to procure addresses of thanks from the clergy of their respective dioceses to his Majesty, for the instances of his gracious regard towards them. Those of Durham, Chester, Lincoln, Litchfield and Coventry, and St. David's had their endeavours countenanced at least, if not fully answered; for after the form which had been set by the first of those right reverend fathers, the rest, at different times, made their compliments to the throne. But Samuel Parker, Bishop of Oxford, not satisfied with this simple mode of proceeding, insisted upon his clergy joining him in the address, which produced the following controversy."

See also Ralph's History, vol. i. p. 947, where are enumerated some of "the varieties of adulation that steam'd up to the Throne from every corner of the Kingdom, on this occasion."—Mackintosh's History of the Revolution, p. 176.

pp. 63, 4to Lond. 1687

How vast the contrast between the autonomic independency inculcated in the writings of De Foe, (see A New Test of the Church of England's Loyalty; or Whiggish Loyalty and Church Loyalty compared ; in the ninth volume of Somers Tracts, p. 569, in the original edition, vol. iii. fourth collection, pp. 1-15,) and the suicidal extravagances of loyalty scattered through the pages of the most eminent Divines of the seventeenth century, e.g. Sanderson, South, Kettlewell. These champions of Divine Right, not content with the limited obedience advocated by Grotius and Puffendorf, ut supra, p. 39, and Barclay, De Regno, et Regali Potestate, 4to Parisiis 1600, were ready in their impolitic and servile speculations to sacrifice the redemption of the whole world to the Juggernaut processions of their Sovereign Lord, or Vicarius Dei. "No conjuncture of circumstances whatsoever, can make that expedient to be done at any time, that is of itself and in the kinde unlawful. For a man to blaspheme the holy name of God, to sacrifice to idols, to give wrong sentence in judgement, by his power to oppresse those that are not able to withstand him, by subtilty to overreach others in bargaining, to take up arms (offensive or defensive) against a lawfull Sovereign : none of all these, and sundry other things of like nature, being all of them simply and de toto genere unlawful, may be done by any man, at any time, in any case, upon any colour or pretension whatsoever ; the express command of God himself only excepted, as in the case of Abraham for sacrificing his son. Not for the avoiding of scandal ; not at the instance of any friend, or command of any power upon earth ; not for the maintenance of the lives or liberties either of ourselves or others ; not for the defence of Religion ; not for the preservation of Church or State : no nor yet, if that could be imagined possible, for the salvation of a soul, no nor for the redemption of the whole world." Sanderson's twelfth Sermon ad Aulam, p. 232, fol. 1656. See also De Foe's New Test ; Edinburgh Review, vol. lv. p. 51, (Bowles's Life of Bishop Ken) ; and Mackintosh's History of the Revolution, pp. 153 and 294. This is perhaps an instance of the solidity of sense and matter being outweighed by high-sounding Ciceronian sentences, in which, as has been observed by Bacon, many absurdities have originated, and which often mislead writers who are over studious of the fascinations of diction. "How many false thoughts has the desire of maintaining a nicety produced ? . . . Who would not laugh to hear Bembo cry that the Pope was elected by the favour of the Immortal Gods" ? Port Royal Logic. I have said perhaps an instance, because Burnet states that Bishop Parker had exalted the King's authority in matters of religion in so indecent a manner that he condemned the ordinary form of saying the King was under God and Christ as a crude and profane expression; saying, that though the King was indeed under God, yet he was not under Christ, but above him. Burnet, vol. iii. p. 1186; (fol. 1724, vol. i. p. 696.) In the reign of James I. Bishop Parry "made an apology in the preface to his Welsh version of the Bible, for preferring the Deity to his majesty, after which we cannot be surprised at any instance of adulation." — Barrington's Observations on the Statutes.

“These Reflections appear now too late to have one effect that was designed by them, which was, the diverting men from making Addresses upon it; yet if what is here proposed makes men become so far wise as to be ashamed of what they have done, and is a means to keep them from carrying their Courtship farther than good words, this Paper will not come too late.” (In State Tracts, 1693, vol. ii. p. 292, 293.) In reference to this tract Mackintosh observes: Burnet the historian, then at the Hague, published a letter of warning to the Dissenters, in which he owns and deplores “the Persecution,” acknowledging the “temptation under which the Nonconformists are to receive every thing which gives them present ease with a little too much kindness”; and blames most severely the members of the Church who applauded the Declaration, but entreats the Nonconformists not to promote the designs of the common enemy. The residence and connections of the writer bestowed on this publication the important character of an admonition from the Prince of Orange. He had been employed by some leaders of the Church to procure that Prince’s interference with the Dissenters, to prevent their being misled by the King; and Dykvelt the Dutch minister, assured both the Church and the Dissenters of his Highness’s resolution to promote union between them, and to maintain the common interests of Protestants. “The stand which the bishops and clergy of the church of England made against the indulgence was ascribed by their antagonists, whether catholics or dissenters of the more violent sort, to a spirit of intolerance and persecution. Dryden, whose Hind and Panther appeared about this time, charges this arbitrary and tyrannical temper upon the church in the following lines :

‘If you condemn that prince of tyranny
Whose mandate forced your Gallic friend to fly,
Make not a worse example of your own.’

This was not a charge under which the church of England could remain with safety, at a period when the king was seeking to unite against the establishment dissenters of every persuasion. Various papers were therefore published to take off the edge of that imputation, and to propitiate the minds of protestant nonconformists.” — Sir W. Scott’s edition, vol. ix. Their Highness the Prince and Princess of Orange's opinion about a general Liberty of Conscience, &c., being a Collection of four C. L. select Papers, viz.

Written in 1687.

"The eyes of all men were at this time turned on the Prince of Orange, whose opinions respecting James's proceedings were very likely to crush the opposition made to them, or to blow it into an irresistible flame. 'Complaints,' says Burnet, then resident at the Hague, 'came daily over from England of all the high things that the priests were every where throwing out. [See a remarkable Letter from a Jesuit, of the state of England, in Echard's History, vol. iii. pp. 811-13.] Penn the quaker came over to Holland. He was a talking, vain man, who had long been in the king's favour, he being the vice-admiral's son. . . . He undertook to persuade the prince to come into the king's measures, and had two or three long audiences of him upon the subject; and he and I spent some hours together on it. The prince readily consented to a toleration of popery as well as of the dissenters, provided it were proposed and passed in parliament; and he promised his assistance, if there was need of it, to get it to pass; but for the tests he would enter into no treaty about them. He said it was a plain betraying the security of the protestant religion to give them up. . . . To all (Penn's promises in the name of the king) the prince replied that no man was more for toleration in principle than he was; he thought the conscience was only subject to God; and as far as a general toleration even of papists would content the king, he would concur in it heartily. But he looked on the tests as such a real security, and indeed the only one, that he would join in no counsels with those that intended to repeal those laws that enacted them. Penn said the king would have all or nothing; but that if this was once done, the king would secure the toleration by a solemn and unalterable law. To this the late repeal of the edict of Nantes, that was declared perpetual and irrevocable, furnished an answer that admitted of no reply. So Penn's negotiation with the prince had no effect.'—Burnet, vol. iii. p. 1182. It became necessary to apprize those who opposed James's measures, i.e. almost all his protestant subjects, of the sentiments of the prince of Orange concerning the penal laws and dispensing power. This was through the medium of the letter from the grand pensioner of Holland, which was industriously dispersed through England." Somers Tracts, vol. ix. p. 183. II. Reflexions on Monsieur Fagel's Letter. In State Tracts, 1693, part ii. pp. 338–42. III. Fagel's second Letter to Mr. Stewart. IV. Some Extracts out of Mr. Stewart's printed Letter, 4to 1689.

Answer to Mr. Fagel's Letter concerning the Penal Laws and Tests. By James Stewart. 4to Lond. 1688. The same in French, 4to Lond. 1688.

"A Scotch Whig, named James Stewart, had fled some years before to Holland, in order to avoid the boot and the gallows, and had become intimate with the Grand Pensionary Fagel, who enjoyed a large share of the Stadtholder's confidence and favour. When the Indulgence appeared, Stewart conceived that he had an opportunity of obtaining not only pardon but reward. He offered his services to the government of which he had been the enemy: they were accepted: and he addressed to Fagel a letter purporting to have been written by direction of James. In that letter the Pensionary was exhorted to use all his influence with the Prince and Princess, for the purpose of inducing them to support their Father's policy. After some delay Fagel transmitted a reply, deeply meditated and drawn up with exquisite art. No person who studies that remarkable document can fail to perceive that although it is framed in a manner well calculated to reassure and delight English Protestants, it contains not a word that could give offence, even at the Vatican. It was announced that William and Mary would assist in abolishing every law which made any Englishman liable to punishment for his religious opinions. But between punishments and disabilities a distinction was taken. To admit Roman Catholics to office would, in the judgment of their Highnesses, be neither for the general interest of England, nor even for the interest of the Roman Catholics themselves. This manifesto was translated into several languages, and circulated widely on the Continent. Of the English version carefully prepared by Burnet, near fifty thousand copies were introduced into the eastern shires, and rapidly distributed over the whole kingdom. No state paper was ever more completely successful. The Protestants of our island applauded the manly firmness with which William declared that he could not consent to entrust papists with any share in the government. The Roman Catholic princes, on the other hand, were pleased with the mild and temperate style in which the resolution was expressed, and by the hope which he held out that under his administration no member of their Church would be molested on account of religion."—Macaulay, vol. ii. pp. 261-262.

The Anatomy of an Equivalent. [By George Savile, Marquis of C. L. Halifax. In State Tracts, 1693, Part ii. pp. 300-309.]

"Even Penn, intemperate and undiscerning as was his zeal for the Declaration, seems to have felt that the partiality with which honours and emoluments were heaped on Roman Catholics might not unnaturally excite the jealousy of the nation. He owned that if the Test Act were repealed, the Protestants were entitled to an equivalent, and went so far as to suggest several equivalents."—Macaulay, vol. ii. p. 238. "This project," says Echard (Hist. of England, vol. iii. p. 850), "was soon shattered, and the word sufficiently dissected by the admirable pen of the Marquiss of Halifax, in a pamphlet etc. in which are many notable passages, but that towards the conclusion is worthy of a place in History, and of the remembrance of all Princes and great Ministers." Barclay, in his Argenis, presents some political counsels equally appropriate, lib. i. cap. xviii. The king declared that he would maintain his loving subjects in their properties and possessions as well of church and abbey lands as of any other. In opposition to the doctrine of resumption founded on the Council of Trent, was published, by his Majesty's command, The Assurance of Abbey and other Church Lands in England to the Possessors, cleared from the doubts and arguments raised about the danger of Resumption etc. By Nathaniel Johnston M.D. 12mo Lond 1687. On the other side appeared, Abby and Church-Lands, not yet assured to such Possessors as are Roman Catholicks: dedicated to the Nobility and Gentry of that Religion. In State Tracts, Part ii. pp. 326-330, and the ninth volume of Somers Tracts, p. 68. See also Burnet's History of the Reformation, part ii. fol. 297, and A Letter written to Dr. Burnet giving some Account of Cardinal Pole's secret Powers; from which it appears that it never was intended to confirm the Alienation that was made of the Abbey-lands. To which are added Two Breves that Cardinal Pole brought over, and some other of his Letters that were never before printed, 1685. In the seventh volume of the Harleian Miscellany, pp. 258-270.

Mr. Massey's Licence, Dispensation and Pardon, 1686.

The Editor of the State Letters and Diary of Henry Earl of Clarendon observes, But of all the papers which enrich the Appendix, the Dispensation to Massey, Dean of Christchurch, is the most remarkable; as the existence of any such Dispensation seems to have escaped the enquiries of every Historian of James's reign. When Bishop Burnet tells us that the Deanery of Christchurch was given to Massey, one of the new converts; who at the first went to prayers in the Chapel, but soon after declared himself more openly; by this lame account the Bishop allows his readers to believe that some appearances were saved, and that Massey had not absolutely disclaimed Protestantism till after he was in possession of his Deanery. But we now know the contrary; and future Historians will justly treat the Dispensation granted to this Popish Dean of Christchurch as the most alarming of all the attacks made by King James the Second on the Constitution. It will be found also in Gutch's Collect. vol. i. pp. 294-299. "This dispensation to Massey contained an ostentatious enumeration of the laws which it sets at defiance."—Mackintosh. The Trial of Sir Edw. Hale, Bart., for neglecting to take the Oaths of Supremacy and Allegiance, with his Plea thereto, upon the King's dispensing with the Stat. 25 Car. II., and the Opinion of the Judges thereupon.

"Armed with the sanction of the law, the king was resolved to push the advantages of victory, and to exercise in a wider range that branch of the prerogative which had hitherto been palliated with the pretence of gratitude; and confined to those officers, who had meritoriously served him during the rebellion of Monmouth." Somerville's History of Political Transactions, &c. Cf. Jus Regium Coronæ. Accordingly he made an attempt to exercise this unlicensed and obnoxious power in the University of Cambridge and at Magdalen College, Oxford. The rights vested in the Crown are marked out, in a great measure, by the titles which the early law writers give the King, as will be seen in this tract and in Dr. Pusey's publication, "The Royal Supremacy not an arbitrary Authority but limited by the Laws of the Church, of which Kings are Members, Oxford 1850," in which the legitimate authority of Christian Princes has been shewn from ancient Precedents. "The word consecrated King occurs first in the Saxon Chronicle in the reign of Offa, King of Mercia, the contemporary of Charlemagne about 1000 years since ; and it is very probable that the ceremony of Ethelred was then used. From the peculiar and mixed authority conveyed by this ceremony to the head of the government, it has become a sacred fountain which has poured from its elevation similar streams on all lesser powers. The chief reason why it is now pointed out to the observation of the reader is to shew this ancient service of the consecration of our Kings, as furnishing in reality such a social contract, such proper origin of government, as the politicians and philosophers of modern times think ought to exist, and without which it is asserted power is an usurpation. Similar ceremonies have long been used in the great kingdoms of Christendom ; and notwithstanding, by a strange fatality, no author writing on the origin of power in states, has ever turned his eye to it, to read the plain declarations laid down in it." — The Coronation Service, or Consecration of the Anglo-Saxon Kings, as it illustrates the Origin of the Constitution. Some sober and weighty Reasons against persecuting Protestant Dissenters for Difference of Opinion in Matters of Religion. Humbly offered to the Consideration of all in Authority.

“This tract seems designed to reconcile the church of England to the toleration as if it were chiefly intended for the benefit of the protestant dissenters. But the truth is that the protestant dissenters were at the first publication of the indulgence so elated with their victory over the church of England, so irritated at the remembrance of past severities, and so dazzled with the unexpected and unusual blaze of royal favour, that they were for a time ready to throw themselves into the arms or at the foot of the monarch.” — Somers Tracts, vol. ix. As is manifested by The Dissenters’ Jubilee, ut supra, and by A Letter from a Dissenter to the Petitioning Bishops ut infra. See also Brethren in Iniquity: or, The Confederacy of Papists with Sectaries, for the destroying of the True Religion, as by Law Establish’d, plainly detected. Wherein is shewn a farther Account of the Romish Snares and Intrigues for the destroying of the True Reformed Religion, as professed in the Church of England, and established by Law, and for the Introducing of Popery or Atheism among us; clearly shewing from very authentic Writers and Testimonies. That the principal ways and methods whereby the Papists have sought the ruine of our Religion and Church, from the beginning of our Reformation to the present Times, and by which they are still in hopes of compassing it, are by promoting of Toleration, or pretended Liberty of Conscience; and that for above these sixscore years the Papists have so craftily influenced our Dissenters, as to make them the unhappy Instruments of effecting their most pernicious designs, which they contrived for the Subverting our Church and State. 4to Lond. 1690. And, A Representation of the threatening dangers, etc. ut supra p. 82.

The Toleration Act, which was passed in 1689, was considered as having given to the Dissenters the possession of all they had a right to claim; but the Act by which Dissenters were kept out of Corporations was not repealed till the year 1828, although their claims were in 1787, 1788 and 1789 so maturely considered and thoroughly understood that, but for the indisposition of the King, their applications for redress would perhaps even at that time have been successful. Two Speeches delivered in the House of Commons on Tuesday the 2nd of March 1790, by the Right Honourable Charles James Fox, in support of his Motion for a Repeal of the Corporation and Test Acts. Lond. 1790. In the time of George the First a clause was introduced for repealing certain parts of these Acts into a bill introduced into the House of Lords, but failed, although it was supported by some men of most eminent for loyalty and public spirit, and likewise by some of the most learned among the Bishops, but more especially by Hoadley, bishop of Bangor, and Kennet, bishop of Peterborough. See a list of Tracts written by Bishop Hoadley in the Bangorian Controversy, as it was afterwards called, Works, vol. ii. p. 379. A defence of these Acts by Warburton, Sherlock, Ellys and Horsley will be found in the Churchman armed against the Errors of the Time. It is stated above that the indisposition of the king arrested the progress of the repeal of these acts; but it must be remembered that it was the boast of George the Third that he would bequeath the government to his successor in the same state as that in which he received it. C. L. The Petition of William Sancroft, Archbishop of Canterbury and six other Bishops to his Majesty touching their not distributing and publishing the Declaration of Conscience.

“The dispute between the King and the Church was now drawing to a crisis. The King renewed his declaration of indulgence upon 27th April 1688, and upon the 4th May following enjoined the bishops to disperse it through their several dioceses for the purpose of its being read by the clergy in all the churches. The six bishops were St. Asaph, Ely, Bath and Wells, Peterborough, Chichester and Bristol. They laid before him the reasons that determined them not to obey the order of Council that had been sent them. This flowed from no want of respect to his Majesty’s authority, nor from any unwillingness to let favour be shewed to Dissenters, in relation to whom they were willing to come to such a temper as should be thought fit, when that matter should be considered and settled in Parliament and Convocation.” — Burnet’s History. The Declaration of Charles II. in 1662 and 1672, which was pronounced unconstitutional in Parliament, dispensed only with penal laws. See Marlow’s Account of the Growth of Popery. Many there doubtless were who, like the author of this Tract, saw, or wished to see, nothing in the present national crisis, save the exaltation of dissenters of every description over their old enemies of the church of England." Here it will not be out of place to notice The Protestant Reconciler, by Daniel Whitby, 1683, whose "piety, learning, and extensive charity will not be disputed, but his judgment, sagacity, and reasoning powers do not appear to have borne a due proportion to his extensive acquirements." (Note in The Diary and Correspondence of Dr. Worthington, vol. ii. part i. p. 202.) What a violent storm this performance drew upon its author will be seen in Biog. Brit. and Chalmers.

- ✠ An Answer to a Paper importing a Petition of the Archbishop of Canterbury and six other Bishops to his Majesty touching their not distributing and publishing the late Declaration for Liberty of Conscience. 4to Lond. 1688

In the ninth volume of Somers Tracts, pp. 119-31. "The bishops had no sooner taken their ground in direct opposition to James's measures, than pamphlets and libels of every description were published against them with unreserved hostility, under the authority of government. They had sedulously avoided the appearance of giving publicity to their petition; but that to which they themselves seemed decently averse, was privately managed by others, for the petition was scarce presented before it got into print, and was dispersed over the whole Kingdom by the clergy instead of the Declaration of Indulgence. The King therefore resolved no longer to keep terms with the church of England but to publish the petition in his own way, and with his own comments. Accordingly the following piece which appears to have been printed by authority, is a sort of casting the gauntlet by the crown to the church." It is inserted, with some Proceedings thereupon, in the first volume of Gutch's Collect. Cur. pp. 335-62. The calumny insinuated in this "Answer" (p. 122) in the Life of James II. vol. ii. p. 158, and Macpherson's Original Papers, vol. i. p. 151, is refuted by Mackintosh, p. 248.

✠ The Examination of the Bishops upon their refusal of reading his Majesty's most gracious Declaration; and the Non-concurrence of the Church of England in Repeal of the Penal Laws and Test fully debated and argued. 4to Lond. 1688.

In the ninth volume of Somers Tracts, pp. 134-51, and Fourth Collection, vol. ii. pp. 222-43. After having traced the progress of the penal laws and the test, the author remarks:—"Jealous as the founders of that test were (or pretended to be) of the danger of popery, they very well knew the church of England had two impregnable bulwarks, the two great acts of Uniformity, that themselves sufficiently alone established, guarded and preserved the church of England in all points without any fortification from the test, nor indeed was the test wanted in the ecclesiastic administration, those very statutes being a greater and stronger test before: for by those statutes is the whole liturgy, the administration of the sacraments, and indeed all the canons and articles of the church supported. For by the fence of those laws first no Romanist can possibly be admitted into the clergy Secondly, no other divine service as the mass or the like can be introduced into our churches already constituted or assigned for the divine service of the church of England." Our author's memory must have failed him, when he asks—"Wherein and what have our churchmen or our non-dispensing churchmen suffered by all this toleration? Have they lost the least particle of their government, discipline, rights, privileges, or professions whatever?" p. 150. "Doubtless," observes Hallam, "the administration of James II. was not of this nature (an extreme case of intolerable tyranny.) Doubtless he was not a Caligula, or a Commodus, or an Ezzelin, or a Galeazzo Sforza, or a Christiern II. of Denmark, or a Charles IX. of France, or one of those almost innumerable tyrants whom men have endured in the wantonness of unlimited power. No man had been deprived of his liberty by any illegal warrant. No man, except in the single though very important instance of Magdalen College, had been despoiled of his property." Has reference to his reading the Declaration. Thomas Watson appointed 1687 and deprived for simony, May 1699, is here intended. "He was one of the worst men in all respects, that ever I knew in Holy Orders: passionate, covetous, and false in the blackest instances, without any one vertue or good quality, to balance his many bad ones. But as he was advanced by King James, so he stuck firm to that Interest; and the Party, tho' ashamed of him, yet were resolved to support him, with great zeal: he appealed to a Court of Delegates; and they about the end of the year confirmed the Archbishop's sentence." — Burnet's History.

Among the various localities from which addresses "steamed up to the Throne" on this occasion (see Ralph, Mackintosh, and the Somers Tracts), Chester may be mentioned as very conspicuous for its adulation and servility. In the Political History of the City of Chester, the Charter of King Henry VII. &c., Chester, 1814, there is a circumstantial account of the preparations made by that corporation during the royal progress of James II. in 1687, with the address presented by the dissenters. "The Corporation," said the recorder Levinz, "is your Majesty's creature, and depends merely on the will of its creator, and the sole intimation of your Majesty's pleasure shall ever have with us the force of a fundamental law." Cf. Ormerod's History of the County Palatine and City of Chester, vol. i. p. 211. Nor in the diocese of Bishop Cartwright (of whose character see p. 27 supra) were obedient clergymen wanting to acknowledge the King's supremacy, and their duty to publish in their churches whatever was enjoined by the King or by their Bishop. See Echard, vol. iii. p. 876. "James thought himself secure of the Tories, because they professed to consider all resistance as sinful—and of the Protestant Dissenters, because he offered them relief. He was in the wrong as to both. The error into which he fell about the Dissenters was very natural. But the confidence which he placed in the loyal assurances of the High Church party was the most exquisitely ludicrous proof of folly that a politician ever gave." Macaulay's Review of Sir James Mackintosh's History of the Revolution.

This tract contains severe animadversions on Pensioner Fagel and Dr. Burnet.

CHAP. V.

Of the Discourses written in the representing controversy.

51. ✱ A papist misrepresented and represented, or a twofold character of popery. The one containing a sum of the superstitions, idolatries, cruelties, treacheries, and wicked principles of that popery which hath disturbed this nation above 150 years; filled it with fears and jealousies, and deserves the hatred of all good christians. The other laying open that popery which the papists own and profess; with the chief articles of their faith, and some of the principal grounds and reasons which hold them in that religion. [Narraverunt mihi iniqui fabulationes: sed non ut lex tua. Psal. 119 [sic] v. 85.] By J——L——, [pp. 128 and R. C. Principles, pp. 1–8], s.l. 4to 1685. [To which is annexed, Roman-catholic principles, in reference to God and the King.] And note, there are two more parts of this book. See Nos. 63, 72, infra. And four defences of this part. See Nos. 53, 56, 58, 60, infra.

Dodd attributes this book to John Gother, or Goter. I suppose the initial letters stand for Joannes Lisboensis. “John Goter: born in Southampton, educated a member of the church of England [compare the Introduction to No. 51, p. xi.] but afterwards becoming a catholick was sent over to the English College at Lisboe; where he was ordained priest and returned back into England upon the mission. He resided for the greatest part of his time in London; and appeared at the head of the controversial writers, all king James Second’s reign.” vol. iii. p. 482. The date 1665 found in some copies was probably intended to mislead his adversaries, because, as Dr. Todd observes, the author says expressly in the Pref. to part iii. (No. 72 infra) that the work was not published until 1685: “This book was not publish’d till after the adjourning of the first sitting of Parliament 1685, and at the opening of that Parliament the assault was given by Dr. Sherlock in his Sermon before the two Houses,” (sheet a, p. 8.) “Gother’s work has always continued to be in great repute among Papists. It was republished in an abridged and expurgated form by their great champion Bishop Challoner, who was Vicar Apostolic of the London district from 1741 to 1780. It has often been reprinted since, and the twenty-eighth edition was published at London in 1832." Cunningham's Preface, etc. ut infra.

On the tract, Roman Catholic Principles, see page 6, supra.

The declaration of indulgence was both preceded and followed by one of the most fierce polemical controversies between Romanists and Protestants which ever agitated England. Burnet, who was deeply engaged in it, gives the following account of the manner in which it was carried on by the church of England: "Many of the clergy acted now a part that made good amends for past errors. They began to preach generally against popery, which the dissenters did not. They set themselves to study the points of controversy; and, upon that, there followed a great variety of small books that were easily purchased and soon read. They examined all the points of popery with a solidity of judgment, a clearness of arguing, a depth of learning, and a vivacity of writing, far beyond anything that had before that time appeared in our language. The truth is, they were very unequally yoked; for, if they are justly to be reckoned among the best writers that have yet appeared on the protestant side, those they wrote against were certainly among the weakest that had ever appeared on the popish side. Their books were poorly, but insolently writ, and had no other learning in them but what was taken out of some French writers which they put into very bad English; so that a victory over them might have been but a mean performance.

"This had a mighty effect on the whole nation; even those who could not search things to the bottom, yet were amazed at the great inequality that appeared in this engagement. The papists who knew what service the Bishop of Meaux's book had done in France, resolved to pursue the same method here, in several treatises, which they entitled, 'Papists Represented and Misrepresented;' to which such clear answers were writ, that what effect soever that artifice might have where it was supported by the authority of a great king, and the terror of ill usage and a dragoonade in conclusion, yet it succeeded so ill in England, that it gave occasion to enquire into the true opinions of that church, not as some artful writers had disguised them, but as they are laid down in the books that are of authority among them, such as the decisions of council received among them and their established offices, and as they are held at Rome, and in all those countries where popery prevails without any intermixture with hereticks, or apprehension of them, as in Spain and Portugal. This was done in so authentical a manner, that popery itself was never so well understood by the nation as it came to be upon this occasion. The persons who managed and directed this controversial war were chiefly Tillotson, Stillingfleet, Tennison, and Patrick; next them were Sherlock, Williams, Claget, Gee, Aldrich, Atterbury, Whitby, Hooper; and, above all these, Wake, who, having been long in France chaplain to the Lord Preston, brought over with him many curious discoveries that were both useful and surprising. Besides the chief writers of those books of controversy, there were many sermons preached and printed on those heads that did very much edify the whole nation. And this matter was managed with that concert, that, for the most part once a week, some new book or sermon came out which both instructed and amused those who read them." Fol. 1724, p. 673-4.

See Cat. No. 18. [State, p. 11.] Contin. p. 10. Born about 1601, died 1707. "While sermons in defence of the Roman Catholic religion were preached on every Sunday and holiday within the precincts of the royal palaces, the church of the state, the church of the great majority of the nation, was forbidden to explain and vindicate her own principles. The spirit of the whole clerical order rose against this injustice. William Sherlock, a divine of distinguished abilities, who had written with sharpness against Whigs and Dissenters, and had been rewarded by the government with the Mastership of the Temple and with a pension, was one of the first who incurred the royal displeasure. His pension was stopped, and he was severely reprimanded." — Macaulay.

 It is curious that Wood, although he gives Nos. 64 and 69, in his list of John Williams's works, omits No. 65. This must have been a mere oversight; but Dr. Bliss has not supplied the defect. The clause in brackets in the title as above has been omitted by Gee and Peck. It is added here from the original. J. H. T.

- C. L. 66. Transubstantiation no doctrine of the primitive fathers, being a defence of the Dublin letter herein against the papist misrepresented and represented, Part II. cap. 3. [By John Patrick, M.A. preacher at the Charterhouse.]

pp. 72, 4to Lond. 1687

See Cat. No. 26. Contin. p. 22 [and p. 70]. I cannot find any copy of "the Dublin letter," nor can I tell who was its author. Dr. Wake, Contin. (p. 22) says, "The next that gave occasion to the revival of this controversy" [i.e. the next after the author of a Discourse of Transubstantiation (Tillotson, 1685), see No. 125] "was the author of the Dublin Letter, who being answered by the Representer in his second part, cap. 3, a learned man of our communion [viz. John Patrick] made good his party in an excellent discourse," &c. The Representer (loc. cit.) quotes what these authors call "the Dublin letter," under the title of "The Papists doctrine of Transubstantiation not agreeable to the Primitive Fathers." But I can find no title answering to this title in the Catal. of the Dublin Univ. or of the Bodl. Libraries; nor does it appear in Abp. Marsh's Library, or in the large collection of these tracts in the Library of Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin. J. H. T.

- C. L. 67. Wholesome advices from the blessed Virgin to her indiscreet worshippers. Written by one of the Roman Communion, and done out of the French into English, by a Gentleman of the Church of England, with a Preface shewing the Motives to the Translation. [Anon.] By James Taylor, Gent.

pp. 20, 4to Lond. 1687

See Cat. No. 27. [State, p. 27. Contin. p. 53.] This tract is by Mr. Adam Widenfelt, "a person of high employment under the Prince of Suarzenburgh." (Translator's Pref.) It is alluded to, and the Preface attacked, by the Representer (No. 63) part ii. cap. 4, p. 29, and therefore comes into this controversy, as its object was to shew that authors of the Romish Communion made the same represensation of abuses of which Protestants complain. Taylor is the translator of the book and the author of the Preface. J. H. T.

The original work is mentioned in "A Catalogue of Books exclusively relating to the Church of Rome: her doctrines, worship, discipline, controversies and annals; including the Histories of her various Religious Orders; their peculiar Missals, Breviaries, &c.: the Tracts published during the reign of James II.; and a set of Canonizations from 1800 to the present time. On sale by Howell and Co., 295, Holborn, London, 1829."

The curious work which forms the first in the above Collection is an attack on the worship of the Virgin, in which the author puts into her mouth, that she detests the worship because God alone ought to be honoured and loved. It created a great noise at the time of its publication, and was the cause of no less than forty-seven writings being published on both sides of the question. Its end however was being strictly prohibited, first by the Inquisition and then at Rome. The two next in the volume were published in favour of it."

By the same Layman [i.e. James Taylor] who translated the Wholesome Advices &c., and made the Preface to them.

pp. 16, 4to Lond. 1687

See Cat. No. 28. [State, p. 28. Contin. p. 53.] It seems as if Dr. Clagett, State, p. 28, imagined this tract to have been written by the Representer, and written on the popish side; but this error Dr. Wake corrects. Contin. p. 53. J. H. T.

CHAP. VI.

Of the Discourses in the expounding controversy.

C. L. 73. ✠ An Exposition of the doctrine of the Catholic Church in matters of controversie. By the Right Reverend James Benigne Bossuet, Counsellor to the King, Bishop of Meaux, formerly of Condom, and Preceptor to the Dauphin; first Almoner to the Dauphiness. Done into English from the 5th edition in French, [by Joseph Johnston, O.S.B.]

pp. 48, Advertis. pp. 22, 4to Lond. 1685

The Advertisement prefixed to this work is by Bossuet himself. It was first printed with the French edit. of 1679. We learn from it that two answers had at that time appeared in France; one anonymous (by M. De la Bastide) approved by the ministers of Charenton; the other by M. Nougier, vol. xviii. Œuvres de Bossuet, Versailles, 1816. The Exposition is followed by a "Remarque," intended as an answer to the accusation (made by Dr. Wake, in the Pref. to his answer—see No. 74) of having suppressed the first edition, and materially altered several passages in it. This is followed by some letters relative to the Exposition. And these by "Fragmens sur diverses matières de controverse, pour servir de réponse aux écrits faits par plusieurs ministres, contre le livre de l'Exposition de la Doctrine Catholique."

The Bodl. Cat. attributes this translation to John Dryden; and the Hist. de Bossuet says that it was translated into English by the Abbé de Montaigne in 1672 (vol. i. p. 280, note.)

The first French edit. Paris (Chamoisy), 1671, 12mo., consisted of about twelve copies only, privately printed, and sent by the author to some friends, whom he requested to return them with their remarks. It is supposed that not more than three or four copies of this edit. remain. Another, which is the first published edit., was printed in December of the same year 1671 in 12mo., also printed by Chamoisy in Paris, pp. 189, and it is said there was a second issue in the same month, which differed in some respects from the former (Hist. de Bossuet, vol. i. p. 278). See the Pièces Justificatives, ibid. p. 467. The Exposition was translated into Latin by Fleury, Hist. de Bossuet (vol. i. p. 289.) Cardinal de Bausset, author of the Hist. de Bossuet (vol. i. p. 280 note) says that it was translated into Irish by Father Porter O.S.F. superior of the Convent of S. Isidore at Rome, which translation was printed at Rome 1675 at the press of the Propaganda, a high sanction to the work. It was also translated into Italian, and printed at the same press. I have not seen either of these versions.

Twelve editions of the Exposition were published in French during the lifetime of Bossuet. But the sixth, issued in 1686, was the last which he himself corrected, and all subsequent editions were reprints of this. (Hist. de Bossuet, vol. i. p. 291, note.)

See State, p. 14, 15-18, where a particular account is given of the occasion for which this book was written. Contin. p. 12. J. H. T.

It is extracted below. In Howell's Catalogue, already mentioned, it is stated that in an 8vo edit. 1685, there is "prefixed a very entertaining history of this famous work by the translator."

74. An exposition of the doctrine of the Church of England in the several articles proposed by Mons. de Meaux, late Bishop of Condom, in his Exposition of the doctrine of the Catholic Church. To which is prefix'd a particular account of Monsieur de Meaux's book. The 3rd edit. [Anon.] By Wm. Wake, M.A. pp. 87, and Pref. pp. xxxviii. 4to Lond. 1687 C. L.

75. ✠ A vindication of the Bp. of Condom's Exposition of the doctrine of the Catholic Church. L.

See Contin. p. 16. This is no doubt by Jos. Johnston, an English Benedictine, of the King's Chapel, who is the translator of the Exposition. The letter from Bossuet which is appended to it was addressed to J. Shirburne, superior of the English Benedictines, who had written to Bossuet, enclosing a letter from Johnston, which asked for information to enable him to reply to Wake and others. The whole correspondence is given in the Versailles edit. of Bossuet's works, vol. xviii. p. 169. J. H. T.

Wherein the doctrine of the Church of Rome is detected, and that of the Church of England expressed from the publick acts of both Churches. To which are added reflections on his Pastoral Letter. [Anon.] By John Gilbert M.A. Vicar of S. John Baptist's Church in Peterborough. pp. 128, Pref. iv., 4to Lond. 1686

See Cat. No. 40. [State, p. 14.] Contin. p. 13. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1132. Fasti Oxon. vol. ii. col. 213. An advertisement prefixed to this work states that it was laid by as useless when Wake's answer (No. 78) appeared — the imprimatur of Wake's book is March 1, 1685-6, that of Gilbert's is June 4, 1686, — "till upon an after view it was thought it might be serviceable; because of a more particular explication of the Church of England's sentiments in it, and likewise of a more full expression of the Romish doctrines from the publick acts of that Church, and its direct answering M. Condom's reasons, which the other author" [viz. Wake] "does not propose to himself." J. H. T.

78. A defence of the exposition of the doctrine of the Church of C. L. England against the exceptions of Monsieur de Meaux, late Bishop of Condom, and his Vindicator. The contents are on the next leaf. [Anon.] By Will. Wake M.A. (Gibson, vol. xii. fol. iii.) pp. 166 and errata 2 pp., 4to Lond. 1686
 See Cat. No. 41. [State, p. 19.] Contin. p. 13. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1059. The Appendix, p. 105, to this work contains some valuable pieces, on the question of idolatry, and particularly an account of the suppressed sheets of the Epistle of St. Chrysostom to Cæsarius, cut out of M. Bigot's edit. of Palladius. Paris 1680.— This book was published a couple of months before No. 77, and ought to have been placed before it. J. H. T.
79. ✠ A reply to the defence of the exposition of the doctrine of C. L. the Church of England; being a further vindication of the Bishop of Condom's exposition of the doctrine of the Catholic Church. With a second letter of the Bishop of Meaux. Permissu Superiorum. pp. 190, with Pref. and catal. of Authors (at the beginning of the book) pp. 30, and at the end, Index pp. 6. 4to, Lond. 1687
 It is probable that this book is also by Johnston, the translator of the Exposition; but the letter from Bossuet, annexed to it, does not occur in the correspondence appended to the Exposition in the Versailles edit. of his works, vol. xviii., already referred to. J. H. T.
80. A second defence of the exposition of the doctrine of the C. L. Church of England against the new exceptions of Monsieur de Meaux, late Bishop of Condom, and his vindicator. The first part. In which the account which has been given of the Bishop of Meaux's Exposition, is fully vindicated; the distinction of old and new Popery historically asserted; and the doctrine of the Church of Rome in point of Image-worship more particularly consider'd. [Anon.] By Will. Wake. (Gibson, vols. xii. and xiii. fol. iii.) pp. 100, with Postscript, pp. 2, being a full answer to a pamphlet published the last night, called A third part of a Papist misrepresented, and Table pp. 8, 4to Lond. 1687

See [Cat. No. 42.] Contin. pp. 14, 15. Section iii. (p. 94) of this tract contains a list of the books published in this controversy on the Protestant side which had not been answered by the Papists. J. H. T.

- C. L. 81. ✠ A full answer to the second defence of the exposition of the doctrine of the Church of England, in a letter to the defender. pp. 12, a sheet and a half.

See Contin. p. 15. This is also probably by J. Johnston. In answer to the list of books on the Protestant side remaining unanswered this author says (p. 12), "Your third section is taken up by giving us a Catalogue of books unanswered; but you should first have told us whether they were worth answering in particular or no, when all that is said in them is obviated in many Treatises. There are several also of ours that remain unanswered; the Guide in Controversie [see Nos. 189–193 incl.] especially, which for anything that I see must remain so, unless some such bold attempter attack them as attack'd the other Discourses [see No. 167] of the same author lately published at Oxford, with the like misfortune." J. H. T.

- C. L. 82. An answer to the Representer's reflections upon the State and View of the Controversy. With a reply to the Vindicator's full answer; shewing that the Vindicator [of the Bishop of Meaux] has utterly ruined the new design of expounding and representing popery. [Anon.] By Nicholas Clagett, M.A. pp. 130, with Pref. and Contents 8 pp., and Rich. Chiswell's list of books at the end, 2 pp. 4to Lond. 1680

See Cat. No. 43. Contin. pp. 11, 12. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 327. Dr. Bandinel's Bodl. Catal. attributes this book as well as No. 6 to Nicholas Clagett, D.D. of Christ's Coll. Camb., archdeacon of Sudbury; but Abp. Wake (Contin. p. 12) a contemporary, one engaged in the same controversy, and the intimate friend of Wm. Clagett, could scarcely have been misinformed; and he clearly attributes this to the Dr. Clagett who died in the beginning of 1688. J. H. T.

83. A second defence of the Exposition of the doctrine of the Church of England against the new exceptions of Monsieur de Meaux and his Vindicator. The second Part. [Anon. By Wm. Wake, M.A.] pp. 198, and Rich. Chiswell's list of books, 2 pp. (Gibson, vol. xiii. fol. iii.) 4to Lond. 1688
 See Cat. No. 44. Contin. p. 15. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1059. [See Part i. No. 80 supra.] Wake (Contin. loc. cit.) gives the following summary of this second part, which Gee and Peck have copied as if it was on the title-page. Part ii. In which the Romish doctrines concerning the nature and object of religious worship of images and reliques are consider'd, and the charge of Idolatry made good against those of the Church of Rome upon the account of them. "There is much artifice in the general list, subjoined to the editions of the Canons and Decrees of the Council, of the Prelates and others who attended it. The last column designates the country of each. That of Italy is subdivided into almost the minutest portions imaginable; evidently for no other purpose than to disguise the disproportionate and extravagant superiority in number of the Italians.—Mendham's Memoirs of the Council of Trent. C. L. Two short discourses against the Romanists. 1. An account of the fundamental principle of popery, and of the insufficiency of the proofs which they have for it. 2. An answer to six queries proposed to a gentlewoman of the Church of England, by an emissary of the Church of Rome. With a new preface particularly relating to the Bp. of Meaux and other modern complainers of misrepresentation. By Henry Dodwell, M.A. late of Trinity College, near Dublin, now Camden professor of Oxford. pp. 32, pref. xii. 4to Lond. 1688

On the fundamental principle of popery, as to which there can be “no pretence of misrepresentation, and on which depend all other disputes betwixt the Romanists and the other Communion of Christendom,” see Chaps. xviii. and xix.

“You must understand that the project of Converting the French- Protestants, which has been more or less carried on ever since Henry the Fourth’s time, was more especially agitated at the conclusion of the Pyrenean Treaty almost 30 years since; the Spaniards being apprehensive of the French Power, and willing to divert it by an undertaking, which they thought might find them work at home, and not leave them at leisure to disturb their neighbours. It was resolved then at the same time that the Civil Power began to oppress them, the Church should offer some Terms of a Reunion to them, and all possible endeavours be used to encline them to accept it: to this end Money was secretly given to several of the Ministers, to favour this project: but the design being discover’d by a Minister of Bas-Languedoc, the Synod of Nismes, Ann. 1662, and that of Cevennes being assembled not long after, appear’d so vigorously against it, that they were forc’d to lay aside the design for some time. About ten years after it broke out again, but the Ministers of Languedoc and the Synod of the Isle of France opposing it, as those of Nismes and Cevennes had done before, it came to nothing.

“Now this second attempt was dated precisely at the same time that the Bishop of Condom’s Exposition began to see the light: and that which convinces me that it was purposely contriv’d for the advancing this design is this, that the Marshal de Turenne, who was this Bishop’s Convert, and the principal Defender of this Exposition, was also at the same time the great Undertaker for this project. Tis well known how to this end he sent a Person through the several Provinces of France, with private Instructions to those Ministers, which he thought he could most influence to close with it: and in effect he did obtain several of their Subscriptions, whom when the Protestant Synods would afterwards have censur’d for their so doing, the Kings Commissioners took their parts, and would not suffer them to do it.” The Present State of the Controversie etc. by Will. Clagett, D.D. pp. 15-17.

Préservatif contre le changement de Religion, ou Idée juste et véritable de la Religion Catholique Romaine, opposée au portraits flatez que l’on en fait, et particulièrement à celui de Monsieur de Condom, 1682. Suite de Préservatif, ou Réflexions sur l’adoucissement proposé par M. Brueys, Avocat de Montpellier, 1683, par Pierre Jurieu, La Haye.

It is observed by Jurieu in the latter work: “Bossuet’s Exposition was condemned by some in his own church;” and Father Maimbourg said of Bossuet’s work, “Has the church required him to make an Exposition of her doctrines?” Jurieu’s Pastoral Letters, Rotterdam 1686-89, the first volume of which was translated, Lond. 1689, were intended to furnish arguments against the publications of Bossuet, Brueys and other defenders of the persecution. Bayle’s “Commentaire Philosophique” upon those words of Scripture, “Compel them to come in,” was written by way of reflection upon the compulsory conversions effected in France. An Examination of the Reasons which have occasioned the Separation of Protestants. By M. de Brueys. 1683

De Brueys was born of Protestant parents, and in 1682 published an answer to Bossuet's Exposition of the Doctrine of the Church, but afterwards became a convert and cast himself at the feet of the author whose doctrine he had attacked. In Traité de l'Obeissance des Chrétiennes aux Puissances temporelles, Montpellier, 1709, he attacked Professor Noodt's eloquent discourses on Sovereign Power and Liberty of Conscience; and in the following works he describes the Protestants as having been influenced only by rebellious motives in refusing to yield to the measures of the king for their conversion. About this time also the Duke of Savoy, instigated by y^e French King to extirpate the Protestants of Piedmont, slew many thousands of those innocent people, so that there seem’d to be an universal designe to destroy all that would not go to masse, throughout Europe. Compendious History of the Reformation in France and of the Reformed Churches, in that Kingdom, from the first beginning of the Reformation to the Repealing of the Edict of Nantes. By Stephen Abel Laval. 3 vols. 8vo 1737-41

An enumeration of Authorities giving a descriptive account of the persecutions of the French Protestants would be imperfect, if reference were not made to Burnet's Memoirs of his Own Times, and his Letters during his travels in the years 1685-6; to Quick's Synodicon in Gallia Reformata; or the Acts, Decisions, Decrees and Canons of the National Councils of the Reformed Churches in France, 2 vols. fol. 1692; and Voltaire's Siècle de Louis XIV. ch. 36. The Roman Catholics must not indiscriminately be charged with this crusade: it was through the instrumentality of the Jesuits, Louis became the "Scourge of God," of whom it has been said: "It will be difficult to select from the whole course of history a single mortal whose follies have been so injurious, and whose faults have been so fatal to his fellow creatures as were those of Louis XIV."—Lectures on the French Revolution by Professor Smyth. See the Pref. and Append. to Burnet's Hist. of the Rights of Princes. In the disgraceful reign of Louis XV. the "dragonnades" were again exercised. The benevolent projects of Louis XVI. were denied opportunity for development. "The work of Rulhière, Eclaircissemens sur les causes de la Révocation de l'Edit de Nantes (Œuvres v.) is no other than a perpetual commentary on a State-Paper sufficiently evincing the profound attention which Louis XVI. would have devoted to Ecclesiastical peace, if the hurricane of the Revolution had not swept away all Ordinances Divine and Civil."—Smedley's Hist. of the Reformed Religion in France, vol. iii. p. 321.

CHAP. VII.

Of the Discourses written on the occasion of Mr. Thomas Godden's Conference with Dr. Edward Stillingfleet, the Dean of St. Paul's.

85. A Letter to Mr. [Thomas] G[odden] giving a true account of the late conference at the dean of S. Paul's. Imprimatur Guil. Needham, Martii 12, 168⁶. pp. 8, 4to Lond. 1687

See Cat. 47. Contin. p. 40. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1070. This letter is signed E. S. i.e. Edward Stillingfleet, and dated March 7, 168⁶. Thos. Godden was president of the English College in Lisbon, where he took the degree of D.D. in 1656. In 1678 his servant Hill was executed for the murder of Sir Edmundbury Godfrey (Burnet, Own Times, vol. i. 445, sq.) After this he was almoner and chaplain to the queen dowager, and died about Dec. 1688. Ant. Wood says (Ath. Oxon. loc. cit.) "We may here take notice that Dr. Tho. Godden before mention'd who (as Dr. Stillingfleet saith [Pref. to the Defence of his Discourse and against a Book called Catholics no Idolaters] was the most considerable adversary that had appeared against him) was born, as I have been informed in London of the same family with Sir Adam Browne of Surrey (his right surname being Browne) bred in S. John's Coll. in Cambridge, where he was bach. of arts, but leaving the English church he went to Lisbon in Portugal, where spending some time in the English coll. he was sent on the mission to England," &c. I believe however that his real name was Tilden, see Ath. Oxon. ed. Bliss vol. iv. col. 93.

Gee calls him Mr. Peter Gooden (Cat. p. 9) which I believe is a mistake; and tells us that he had a conference with Dr. Claget about Transubstantiation, Feb. 21, 1686, which was published under this title, The sum of a conference on Feb. 21, 1686, between Dr. Claget and father Gooden about the point of transubstantiation, 8vo Lond. 1689. Also published at the end of Dr. Clagett's Seventeen Sermons preached on several occasions. This was Dr. W. Clagett of Eman. Coll. Cambr. J. H. T.

86. ✠ A letter to the D.[ean] of P. [S. Paul's] in answer to the C. L. arguing part of his first letter to Mr. G[odden]. Anon. By Mr. John Sergeant, or Sargeant. pp. 36, 4to Lond. 1687

See Contin. p. 40. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1069. This Sergeant, alias Smith, was a secular priest, see Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 247 and 1068. But he seems to have also gone by the name of Holland, and he wrote his book called "Sure Footing in Christianity Examined" under the name of George Hughes. He was a native of Lincolnshire and had been a Sizar of S. John's Coll. Cambr. and A.B. of that University, and was for some time secretary to Dr. Tho. Morton Bp. of Durham. In 1642 he seceded to Romanism and went to the English Coll. of Lisbon; and was in 1652 sent back to England as secretary to the secular clergy of the Mission: in which employment he remained to his death in 1707. He was accused of heretical opinions by Peter Talbot, tit. Abp. of Dublin. See Stillingfleet's nature and grounds of the Certainty of Faith (No. 95 infra) p. 4 sq. against which charge he defended himself in a book entitled Vindiciæ contra Pet. Talbotum &c. 8vo 1678. John Sergeant wrote against Bramhall under the initials S. W. from which some have given him the Christian name of William, but Wood (loc. cit.) and Dodd (Ch. Hist. vol. iii. part viii. bk. ii. art. 5, pp. 472 sq.) call him John. And in this controversy with Stillingfleet his initials are J. S. See the new edition of Bramhall's Works (Anglo Cath. Libr.) - C.L. 90. A second Letter to Mr. G. in answer to two Letters lately published concerning the conference at the D. of P. Imprimatur Guil. Needham. April 22, 1687. Anon. By Edw. Stillingfleet, D.D. pp. 44, 4to Lond. 1687

See Cat. No. 48. Contin. p. 40. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1069, where however there is nothing about this second letter of Stillingfleet, which was written not against Sargeant (Nos. 86, 88 supra as Peck states) but against Mr. M. who had been present at the conference with Godden, and who seems to have published two letters in defence of Godden, of which Peck makes no mention. But Wake (Contin. p. 40) notices them thus: "In return to this [i.e. to Stillingfleet's first letter, No. 85 supra] Mr. M. who was with Mr. G. at the conference returned a letter or two to Dr. Stillingfleet concerning the conference; and these produced a second from the Dean of S. Paul's, called &c. A copy of one of these letters, under the initials E. M. [i.e. Edw. Meredith] is in Trin. Coll. Library, Dublin, with this title, A letter to Dr. E. S. concerning his late letter to Mr. G., and the account he gives in it of a conference between Mr. G. and himself. 4to, Lond. 1687.

T.C.D.

There must also have been another letter, as Stillingfleet distinctly speaks of two in his title-page, and in his book more than once, as p. 36, "The Author of the first letter desires information," &c.; p. 40. For as the Author of the first letter well observes, "I love to spare my own pains. But I took the opportunity of your Absence. Herein Mr. M. did me injury;" which words seem to make Mr. M. author of this letter also. And yet in his opening sentence p. 3, he speaks of "two gentlemen who have appeared in print so lately." At all events it is evident that the second letter to Mr. Godden (which is dated April 21, 1687) had no reference to Sergeant's letters; which Stillingfleet afterwards answered in a distinct book. See No. 95 infra. J. H. T.

91. ✠ A third Catholic letter in answer to the arguing part of Dr. Stillingfleet's second letter, &c. [Anon.] By John Sargeant. 4to Lond. 1687

See [Contin. p. 40] Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1069, from whence this title is copied, for Peck does not appear to have seen any of Sargeant's letters. Wake speaks of a fourth and fifth Catholic Letter, and says expressly (Contin. p. 41) that the fifth was so called. They are not given by Wood under that name; and hence Peck suggests that the two tracts, Nos. 93 and 94, although not called "Catholic letters" in the title he has given, may nevertheless be those referred to by Wake. See his note after No. 94. J. H. T.

I have been furnished with the following titles, which prove Peck's suggestion to be groundless: "The fourth Catholick letter in answer to Dr. Stillingfleet's Sermon (as infra) address to his Auditory," 1688, 4to. "The fifth Catholick letter in reply to Dr. Stillingfleet's [pretended] Answer about the 40th part of J. S.'s Catholick letters, address to all impartial readers," by John Sargeant. 1688 4to. "Your second falshood is that Dr. St. has reply'd to my first Four Letters: and this is a most notorious Banger. For, first, it is shown in my fifth Letter Page by Page to every Examiner's Eye, from Page 154 to Page 173, that he has omitted so much as to take notice of (much more to Answer) Thirty Nine parts of Forty of my First and Third Letters.' See Cat. No. 50; [Contin. p. 40;] Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1069. In the preface to this Sermon, Stillingfleet says: "I intend, God willing, to publish in a little time a full answer to J. S. his Catholick Letters, so far as I am concerned in them." See No. 95. Works, vol. i. p. 393. J. H. T.

- C. 1. 93. ✱ An answer to Dr. Stillingfleet's sermon at Guildhall Chapel, 27 Nov. 1687. By Mr. John Sargeant. 4to

See [Contin. p. 40;] Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1069; [where Wood says: "This was going to press the latter end of January the same year [viz. 1687], and I think it was printed in qu. but I have not seen it." I have not seen any copy of it, nor do I know whether it was ever published.] J. H. T.

"He owes me a full Answer to my Fourth Letter laying open the vanity of his insignificant Guildhall Sermon; to which he has hitherto said nothing." In A Letter to the Continuator, p. 12. The original title is as follows, "The Fourth Catholick Letter in Answer to Dr. Stillingfleet's Sermon, Preach't at Guild-Hall, November 27th, 1687. Entitled, Scripture and Tradition Compared, Addrest to his Auditory. pp. 35, Pref. v. 4to Lond. 1688.

94. ✱ The nature and grounds of the certainty of faith. By Mr. John Sargeant.

See Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1069. These two last pieces, I conceive, make up Mr. Sargeant's fourth and fifth Catholic Letters to Dr. Stillingfleet, spoken of in the Continuation of the present Controversy, p. 41. However quære.

I know not where Peck got the title of this last book, for which I can find no authority. It is not mentioned in the place of Ath. Oxon. to which he refers; and I think it must have been taken from the title of No. 95, on the presumption that J. S. had written a book with a corresponding title. But this I believe is a mistake. J. H. T.

The following works of Sargeant relate to the subject here under consideration, the Rule of Faith: Sure-Footing in Christianity, or Rational Discourses on the Rule of Faith. With short Animadversions on Dr. Pierce's Sermon (viz. The Primitive Rule of Reformation, pp. 341-90 in his Collection of Sermons, 4to Oxford 1671); also on some passages in Mr. Whitby and Mr. Stillingfleet which concern that Rule: (viz. Whitby's Romish Doctrines not known from the Beginning. Lond. 1662, 4to. Stillingfleet's Rational Grounds of the Protestant Religion, &c. Lond. 1665.) A Discovery of the groundlessness and insincerity of my Lord of Down's Dissuasive, being the fourth Appendix to Sure-Footing. 8vo Lond. 1665. Errour Non-plust, or Dr. Stillingfleet shown to be The Man of no Principles. With an Essay how Discourses concerning Catholick Grounds bear the highest Evidence. 8vo 1671, 1673. A Letter of Thanks from the Author of Sure-Footing to his Answerer, Mr. J.[ohn] T.[illotson]. 8vo Paris 1666. Faith Vindicated from a possibility of Falshood (against some part of a Sermon of Mr. Tillotson on Job xxviii. 28), printed 1667, 8vo. The publications of his adversaries will be found in Dodd and the British Librarian, col. 1080, 1081. See also chaps. xx., xxi., xxii. infra, and compare Sergeant's Rule of Faith with that of Thomas White, or the author of those Dialogues which pass under Rushworth's name, 1640. Reprinted 1654. And Chillingworth's Answer (subjoined to the best editions of his works, as the folio, 1704, and the new edit. Oxford, 1838, three vols. 8vo.), of whose Conference with White on Tradition an account is given in An Historical and Critical Account of the Life and Writings of William Chillingworth. By Peter Des Maiseaux, 1725.

"Sergeant was the very genius of controversy, and there was no great English Protestant writer of his own time that he did not encounter. As if it were not sufficient to be pitted against Hammond, Bramhall, Jeremy Taylor, Stillingfleet, Tillotson, Whitby, Pierce and Tenison, he got into fierce conflict with Talbot, the Catholic Archbishop of Dublin, who endeavoured to represent his doctrine as heterodox, especially concerning the Rule of Faith. A very curious account of the proceedings in relation to Talbot's charges against him is contained in Sergeant's 'Clypeus Septemplex' (Duaci 1677, 12mo), his Vindiciæ alteræ (12mo), and in a later work of his, of great scarcity, which appears to have escaped Dodd and other historians altogether, entitled, 'Raillery defeated by calm reasoning' (Lond. 1699, 12mo), in which he gives an interesting narrative of the whole transaction."—Worthington's Diary, vol. ii. part i. p. 193, note.

95. A discourse concerning the nature and grounds of the certainty of faith in answer to J. S. his Catholick Letters. By Edward Stillingfleet D.D., Dean of St. Paul's, London, pp. 116, and Cat. of Books printed for Henry Mortlock, 2 pp. 4to Lond.

See Cat. No. 51; Contin. p. 41; Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1069; [Stillington's Works, vol. vi. p. 361.] He published in 1673 A Second Discourse in vindication of the Protestant Grounds of Faith, against the pretence of Infallibility in the Roman Church: in Answer to the Guide in Controversies, by R. Holden; Protestantism without Principles; and Reason and Religion, or the Certain Rule of Faith, by E. Warner. With a Particular Enquiry into the Miracles of the Roman Church.

In this he replies also to Cressy, who had published, in a Collection of several Treatises, Stillington's Principles, giving an account of the Faith of Protestants, considered by N. O. Paris 1671, 12mo. E. Worsley also was an Anti-Stillington in The Infallibility of the Roman Catholick Church and her Miracles, defended against Dr. Stillington's Cavils, unworthily made publick in two late Books. The one called An Answer to Several Treatises, &c. The other, A Vindication of the Protestant Grounds of Faith, &c. Antwerp 1674, 12mo.

96. An historical discourse concerning tradition [in answer to Mr. John Sargeant.] By John Williams M.A. [afterwards Bishop of Chichester.]

See Cat. No. 52; Contin. p. 41; Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1119. Although this book is mentioned under the above title (omitting the words in brackets) by Wood and Gee, yet I much doubt if it ever was published. It does not exist in the Dublin Univer. or Bodl. Libraries. I believe the only reason for supposing it to have been published is the following passage in Wake's Contin. p. 41, speaking of John Sergeant's "Fifth Catholic Letter." He says: "There is a very learned person hath undertaken to answer not only that fifth letter, but the other discourses of the Romanists about Tradition in an Historical Discourse concerning Tradition. This we may expect to have published very shortly." If Bp. Williams ever designed such a work, it is probable that he has given us the principal part of his collections for it in his "Examination of the texts cited in proof of the insufficiency of Scripture and necessity of tradition." See No. 376 infra. J. H. T.

97. The Council of Trent examin'd and disprov'd by Catholick C. L.
 Tradition in the main points in controversie between us and the Church of Rome; with a particular account of the times and occasions of introducing them. Part I. To which a preface is prefixed concerning the true sense of the Council of Trent, and the notion of Transubstantiation. [Anon.] By Edw. Stillingfleet, D.D. Gibson vol. xi. fol. ii. Works vol. vi.
 pp. 147, 4to Lond. 1688

See Cat. No. 54; Contin. p. 42. Quære, if Part ii. was ever published?

There can be no doubt that Part ii. never was published. It does not appear in the collected edition of Stillingfleet's works, where this first Part is given, vol. vi. p. 423. Bp. Gibson, in his Preservative, vol. ii., Append. p. 103, has printed a portion only of this work, viz.
 to the end of the fifth point, (pp. 1-74 of the orig. edit.,) but without any intimation of having omitted anything.

The first Part was intended by the author to prove that there was no Catholic Tradition for the Tridentine doctrines: the second, to give an account by what steps and degrees and on what occasions those doctrines and practices came into the Church.

A second edition of this book was published in London the same year. Stillingfleet's works are edited in a most unsatisfactory manner; the titles of his controversial tracts abridged without notice, often with the omission of essential particulars, and not a word of note to record the circumstances under which they were written. It is a disgrace to the Church that the works of such a man have not yet been collected under a competent editor. J. H. T.

The pagination is very incorrect. One of the treatises in vol. v. is pagged irregularly 1-54, and 333-576. In vol. vi. there is a chasm from page 224 to 361.

98. An appendix [to the Council of Trent examin'd, Part I.] in C. L.
 answer to some passages of J. W. of the Society of Jesus, concerning the Prohibition of Scripture in vulgar languages, in the Council of Trent. By Edward Stillingfleet, D.D.

2 sheets 4to

This appendix appears at the end of the second edition of the book, 4to Lond. 1688. There is a copy in Trin. Coll. Library, Dublin; and see Stillingfleet's works, vol. v. p. 511. J. H. T.

The subject of the first Part had already been elaborated by Bishop Hall in The Peace of Rome proclaimed to all the World by her Famous Cardinal Bellarmine, &c. Lond. 1609. Reprinted by the Rev. Peter Hall, Oxford 1838. That of the second Part — the theological history of the Tridentine doctrines — by Chemnitius in his Examen Concilii Tridentini, fol. Genevæ, 1641. Translated into English, and entitled A Discourse and Batterie of the Great Fort of unwritten Traditions; otherwise called an Examination of the Counsell of Trent. Lond. 1582, 4to.

CHAP. VIII.

Of the discourses written on occasion of the conference between father Andrew Pulton and Dr. Thomas Tenison.

99. ✠ A true account of the conference between Dr. Thos. Tenison and Andrew Pulton. By Andrew Pulton.

See Contin. p. 61. "They met on the account of a Boy whom Mr. Pulton had perverted from our Religion. Great things were presently talked, as usual on such occasions, concerning this Conference; and the Papists fail'd not to boast of a mighty conquest made over the Doctor. This forced him to resolve on a Publication of what passed, tho' otherwise as little fit, as designed, to be communicated to the world." — Contin. p. 61. See also a Letter from Dr. Horneck in Tenison's Account, p. 79.

The same with that in Tenison's account, pp. 59–71.

- C. L. 100. ✠ A true and full account of a conference held about religion between Dr. Thomas Tenison and Andrew Pulton, one of the masters in the Savoy. pp. 18, Pref. 4

See Contin. p. 61. No books under these titles are in the Bodl. Cat., nor are they in the Trin. Coll. Library, Dublin. Dr. Tenison's account of the conference contains a Paper entitled, "The account written by Mr. Pulton, a true account of a conference had about Religion between Dr. T. and A. P. on the 29th of September 1687 in Long-Acre London" (pp. 59, see No. 101 infra); and there is a reference (p. 78 ibid) to a more full account which is spoken of as "Mr. Pulton's second Narrative," but which is not given. J. H. T.

The account referred to is this No., in the beginning of which is this Advertisement: — "A. P. having been eighteen years out of his own country, pretends not yet to any Perfection of the English Expression or Orthography, wherefore for the future he will crave the favour of treating with the Dr. in Latine, since the Dr. finds fault with his English." On which Macaulay remarks: "His orthography is indeed deplorable. In one of his letters wright is put for write, wold for would. He challenged Tenison to dispute with him in Latin that they might be on equal terms." In a contemporary satire, entitled The Advice, is the following couplet:

"Send Pulton to be lashed at Busby's school,
That he in print no longer play the fool."

See Cat. No. 170. Contin. p. 62, 63. This Vindication refers to some passages in Dr. Tenison's account of the conference with Pulton, wherein Cressener was alluded to, he having been present, and taking some part, at the conference. See No. 101 supra, p. 63. J. H. T.

Together with an appendix, in which some passages of the doctor's book entitled, Mr. Pulton considered, are reconsidered; and in the close the best means of coming to the true faith proposed. To all which is added a postscript, in answer to the pamphlet put forth by the school-master of Long-acre. By Andrew Pulton. 4to Lond. 1688

T.C.D.

See Contin. p. 62. Peck ascribes this, as above, to A. Pulton. But it is evidently by Edw. Meredith, as distinctly stated by Wake, Contin. loc. cit., and as appears from the book itself, a copy of which is in the Trin. Coll. Library, Dublin. Meredith had been proposed by Pulton as a witness of the conference; Tenison's three objections were 1. That Meredith had not acted fairly in the conference between Stillingfleet and Godden. 2. That he had in a Coffeehouse pitied the state of St. Martin's (of which Dr. T. was rector) as being under one man, although it was capable of maintaining 30 friars. 3. That he was a convert from the Church of England, and therefore (as was usual with converts) possessed with a spirit of fiercer bigotry. J. H. T.

See Cat. No. 173. Contin. p. 59. Gee tells us, and is copied by Peck, that this book is "by Mr. H., a Divine of the Church of England." I know not whether it was any additional information that made Peck alter the word "Divine" into "Minister," but I have not been able to learn who Mr. H. was. There is nothing in the book itself to guide us even to the amount of information that Gee has communicated. The title page makes no mention of Mr. H. The letter to Mr. Pulton is signed "Anonymous." Bp. Gibson, who has reprinted this book (Preserv. against Popery, vol. iii. tit. xiii. p. 3) attributes it to "Dr. Hicks" (Titles of the Treatises in vol. iii. p. 6), meaning I presume the celebrated Dr. George Hickes, but it is not in the list of his works given in Bayle's Dict. by Bernard, Bird, and Lockman, nor in that given Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1002 sq., nor can I find any other authority besides Gibson's for attributing it to Hickes. J. H. T.

That this and the following tract were not written by George Hickes is certain, because in a Catalogue which he presented to Thoresby in 1708 of his own Books, Sermons and Tracts, these are not mentioned. See Thoresby's Diary and Correspondence, vol. iv. pp. 115-20, 208, 209.

Oxon. vol. ii. col. 909 and 1056, where Wood informs us that Mr. E. M. was Edward Meredith, "son of a father of both his names, minister of Landulph in Cornwall," who had been Stud. of Ch. Ch. in 1666, but left without taking a degree, and afterwards became secretary to Sir Wm. Godolphin, when he was ambassador in Spain, and a strict Roman Catholic. See No. 102 supra. Mr. Meredith is mentioned by Tenison in his Account of a Conference with Pulton (No. 101 supra), where there are some notices of the Conference with Stillingfleet. The late Conference here spoken of is not that between Stillingfleet and Godden, but that between Tenison and Pulton. See Nos. 102, 106. J. H. T.

The sequel of the conference between father Andrew Pulton and Dr. Thomas Tenison ; or an account of the Speculum Ecclesiasticum and the discourses written thereupon.

The conference and dispute between father Pulton and Dr. Tenison produced another, which opened with 109. ✠ Speculum Ecclesiasticum ; or an ecclesiastical prospective glass. By T. Ward, a Roman catholick soldier.

See Contin. p. 63. The Bodl. Cat. attributes this work to the Thomas Ward, who was the author of the “Errata of the Protestant Bible” and other works. I have not seen the original edition which is in folio, a single sheet. It did not however contain the name of T. Ward, as Peck’s mode of transcribing the title might lead one to suppose. Wake (Contin. p. 62) says, “written, we are told, by a souldier of that party, T. Ward.” J. H. T.

Note, this Roman catholick soldier was soon after followed by “The protestant Footman.” And each party boasted much of their particular champion. See chap. x. infra.

The Speculum Ecclesiasticum was reprinted with No. 115 infra. C. L. Peck.

110. Six conferences concerning the Eucharist ; wherein is shewed, C. L. That the doctrine of transubstantiation overthrows the proofs of christian religion. Imprimatur Jo. Battely, Sept. 12, 1687. [Anon.] By Monsieur de la Placette. Translated and published by Thomas Tenison, D.D.

pp. 120 and 2 pp. Cat. of Books, 4to Lond. 1687

See Cat. No. 77 ; Contin. p. 24. This work is a translation from a French writer, M. Jean de la Placette, as we learn from Gee and Peck, who add to the above title, as if it had formed part of it, “Written by M^r de la Placette, and translated and published by Dr.

Tenison. This latter statement, that it was published (not that it was translated) by Tenison is evident from the following advertisement prefixed to the work Nov. 5, 1678. Mr. A. Pulton, Jesuit, having in his remarks (published Nov. 4) declared in effect (in pp. 29, 30) that the principles of philosophy which contradict the doctrine of Transubstantiation are to be renounc'd, and that Christians have the same ground to believe Transubstantiation as the blessed Trinity, and demanding how great the confusion of Dr. Tillotson will be at the Day of Judgment, when he shall find that tenet true; the said Dr. Tenison, the Publisher of this book does so far as concerns these particulars, refer Mr. Pulton to it, and for the rest of his remarks he will in due time give a very just answer to them."

I have thought it worth while to transcribe this, as it exhibits the rise of a subsequent controversy, "the Doctrine of Transubstantiation and the Trinity compared." J. H. T.

C. L. 111. Of the incurable scepticism of the church of Rome. Impri-matur Guil. Needham, Oct. 20, 1687.

pp. 160 and Cat. of Books 4 pp. 4to Lond. 1688

See Cat. No. 103. Contin. p. 7.

This work by the same Johannes de la Placette was first published in Latin at Amsterdam in 1596, 4to under the title, "De insanabili Romanæ ecclesiæ scepticismo dissertatio." The present translation is by the learned Henry Wharton, who when a very young man was employed by Dr. Tenison to make it. See Life of Wharton, in the Appendix to D'Oyly's Life of Sancroft, vol. ii. p. 119, where it is said that he completed the translation in a fortnight. J. H. T.

John de la Placette, born in 1639, died in 1718. Another work of this eminent French Protestant minister ought here to be mentioned, Traité de la Foi Divine. 1697 12mo, and 1716 4to.

112. ✠ A full answer to Dr. Tenison's conferences concerning the Eucharist.

Peck does not profess to have seen this book; he probably inferred its existence from the following which was in his collection. I have never seen either. J. H. T.

113. Of transubstantiation; or a reply to a late paper called a full answer to Dr. Tenison's conferences concerning the eucharist.
A single half sheet, fol. 1688

114. ✠ A letter to the author of [the reply to] a late paper called B.L. a full answer to Dr. Tenison's conferences concerning the T.C.D.
eucharist. A single sheet, 4to 1687

Peck marks this as having been written on the Popish side. although from the title as he gives it it would seem as if it had been written in defence of Tenison. He has omitted, however, the words in brackets. The Bodl. puts this under W. D. Who was W. D.? J. H. T.

115. The pamphlet entitled Speculum Ecclesiasticum, or an ecclesiastical prospective glass considered in its false reasonings and quotations. There are added by way of preface two farther answers; the first, to the defender of the Speculum; the second to the half sheet against the six conferences. [Anon.] By Henry Wharton, M.A.

pp. 72 and Cat. of Books 4 pp. 4to Lond. 1688

See Cat. No. 171. Contin. p. 62. Ath. Oxon. vol. iii. col. 874.

This begins by a letter from Thomas Tenison to Mr. A. B. [i.e. Henry Wharton] communicating to him certain papers written in defence of the Speculum by its author, which had in some way, as he says, "by a very strange Providence of God," fallen into Tenison's hands. Then the answer from A. B. to Tenison (page 7) in which Wharton examines the references to the Fathers, made by the author of the Speculum, proving them to have been either quoted from spurious writings, or containing nothing to the purpose. Then (page 22) the answer to the half-sheet (see No. 112 supra). Then follows (page 25) a reprint of the Speculum itself "according to the copy bought of the woman in the Savoy, to whom Mr. Pulton directed." At the end of which is "Per T. W." [i.e. Thomas Ward] the only intimation of the author's name which the Tract contains. Then follows another title page (included, however, in the pagination as page 45) exactly the same as the former with the omission of the clause, "There are added by way of preface," &c. and page 47-72 Wharton's admirable exposure of the gross dishonesty of quotations, citing of forged writings, &c. of the author of the Speculum. J. H. T.

Born in 1664, died in 1694. "Conspicuous amongst the recruits whom Cambridge sent to the field was a distinguished pupil of the great Newton, Henry Wharton, who had, a few months before, been senior wrangler of his year, and whose early death was soon after deplored by all parties as an irreparable loss to letters. See the preface to Henry Wharton's Posthumous Sermons." Macaulay.

116. ✠ The Roman catholick soldier's letter to Dr. Thomas Tenison.

This letter was reprinted with the next number.

I know not if it was ever printed elsewhere, although Peck says it was reprinted. It occurs page 9 of the next number, and is there subscribed T. Ward. In the answer the original edition of the letter is alluded to thus: "Now in your absence the author of the Ecclesiastical Prospective Glass has wrapt up your Speculum examin'd in a little bit of coarse paper." The letter (which makes but two pages) was therefore probably printed originally on coarse paper for sale in the streets, or cheap distribution. J. H. T.

C.L. 117. An answer to the letter of the Roman catholic souldier [as he calls himself]. In a letter from C. D. to A. B. the examiner of his Speculum. The souldier's letter is added at the end. Imprimatur H. Maurice. [Anon.] By Thomas Tenison, D.D. pp. 10. 4to 1688

See Cat. No. 172. Contin. p. 62.

Although Gee and after him Peck expressly attribute this tract to Tenison, I have no doubt from the style that it was by Henry Wharton. The Bodl. Catal. also attributes it to Tenison. J. H. T.

118. ✠ Monomachia; or a duel between Dr. Thomas Tenison, pastor of St. Martin's, and a Roman catholick soldier, wherein the Speculum Ecclesiasticum is defended against the frivolous cavils, vain objections and false aspersions of Dr. Tenison;

the doctor also put to defend his form of ordination and to prove himself priest and pastor of St. Martin's, and lastly to hear the confessions of his parishioners, and give them absolution.

See Contin. p. 63.

This is probably by Thomas Ward. See the Answer (No. 117) page 7, where it is called "your mannerly and learned pamphlet called the Duel." Two copies of it in the Trin. Coll. Library, Dublin. J. H. T.

Dodd mentions it in his list of Ward's works. Of his Hudibrastic poem, England's Reformation, see Retrospective Review, iii. 329.

"Before The Speculum Ecclesiasticum considered was published, the Doctor obtained a copy of the Defence which the Soldier had prepared of his Quotations, but was not yet come from the Press; and to finish all at once, an Answer was set forth to that too at the same time, ere it could appear abroad in the world. This the Soldier resented, and expressed his sense of it in a Letter to Dr. Tenison; which, together with a Reply to it, were published under the title of An Answer to the Letter, &c. However, not long after this, the Defence was publish't with a dreadful name, viz., Monomachia, &c. And so I think this worthy Controversie ended." Contin. p. 63.

The author of the Speculum Ecclesiasticum divides it into eight parts or columns; and in them undertakes to prove the doctrines of the Church of Rome from Scripture, and the testimonies of the Fathers of the Church for the first 500 years. I. The Succession of the Church. II. The Primacy of the Pope. III. The Infallibility of the Church. IV. The Unity of the Church. V. Transubstantiation. VI. Auricular Confession and Absolution. VII. Invocation or Prayer to Saints, &c. VIII. Purgatory and Prayer for the Dead. Lastly, that Apostolical Tradition is the true Rule of Faith.

Of the discourses written about the conversions of several persons to the Church of Rome, with their motives ; and the churchmen's replies.

This discourse is placed in this section because it was attacked by the following, which it seems to have occasioned, but of course not in the sense of having occasioned Mr. Basset's conversion to Romanism, which is a mere pretence. J. H. T.

“Though some of their greatest wits, as Cardinal Perron, and of late Monsieur Arnaud, have undertaken the defence of it (Transubstantiation) in great volumes ; yet it is an absurdity of that monstrous and massy weight, that no humane authority or wit are able to support it : It will make the very pillars of St. Peter's crack, and requires more volumes to make it good than would fill the Vatican.” p. 42.

- C. L. 126. ✠ Reason and Authority ; or the motives of a late protestant's reconciliation to the Catholick Church. Together with remarks upon some late discourses against Transubstantiation. Publisht with allowance.

pp. 130, 4to Henry Hills, Lond. 1687

See Contin. p. 8. This work is attributed in the Bodl. and Dublin Catalogues to Josh. Bassett, Master of Sidney Coll. Cambridge. Dodd (Church Hist. vol. iii. p. 483) attributes it to Gother, which can scarcely be true ; for the writer of this work represents himself as having been converted to Romanism after the publication of Tillotson's discourse against Transubstantiation, which was published in 1685. “At least (he says) I was recommended to a late discourse against Transubstantiation. I read it over and over with great attention," &c. p. 43. It is very possible, however, that Gother may have written the matter of the book or supplied it to Bassett, who was probably a mere instrument in the hands of the party. The main object of the work is to attack this Discourse of Tillotson (pp. 43-113) and that by Dr. Wake (pp. 113 et seq.) See No. 280 infra. Joshua Bassett, S.T.B. - C. L. 128. ✠ The considerations which obliged Peter Manby, Dean of Derry, to embrace the Catholique Religion. Humbly dedicated to His Grace the Lord Primate of Ireland. Ps. xlii. Judica me Deus, et discerne causam meam, &c. Dublin Castle the 11th of March 1686-7. This following Discourse is allowed to be printed. Tho. Sheridan.

pp. 19, to the Reader pp. 6, 4to Lond. 1687

See Contin. p. 36. P. Manby had been a scholar of Trin. Coll. Dublin in 1660, Chaplain to Abp. Boyle, and Dean of Derry, September 17th, 1672. It is said that having been disappointed in obtaining a bishoprick, which he had hoped for from the influence of the Primate, he joined the Church of Rome. This is alluded to in Dr. King's answer to the present work, see No. 129. In 1686 he had a dispensation under the Great Seal to hold the Deanery notwithstanding his having declared himself a Roman Catholic, and therefore it will be observed that in the title page of the present work he styles himself "Dean," not late Dean, "of Derry." In 1688 the king made him an alderman of Derry. After the battle of the Boyne he retired into France; and died in Laiden in 1697. It is said that his brother, also a clergyman, was by his means converted to Romanism, and left two sons who both became Jesuits. Ware, Writers of Ireland (Harris's ed. p. 257), Cotton's Fasti, vol. iii. p. 332.

It is worthy of remark that the “Queries to Protestants, concerning the English Reformation, by T. W. Gent” (see No. 173 infra) are the same as those given in Latin, by Peter Manby, at the end of No. 128. J. H. T.

129. An answer to the considerations which obliged Peter Manby, C. L. Late Dean of London-Derry in Ireland (as he pretends) to embrace what he calls the Catholick Religion. By William King, Chancellor of St. Patrick’s Dublin. Isaiah i. ii. I have nourished and brought up children, and they have rebelled against me. pp. 104, 4to Lond. 1687

Cat. No. 139. Contin. p. 35. An edition was printed in Dublin (or with a Dublin title page) the same year. William King had been a scholar of Trin. Coll. Dublin; was Chancellor of St. Patrick’s 1679, Dean of St. Patrick’s 168 $\frac{8}{9}$, Bishop of Derry 169 $\frac{9}{1}$, Archbishop of Dublin 1703. He died May 8, 1729. His Answer to Manby gave rise to the following controversial tracts in Ireland.

✠ A reformed catechism in two dialogues, concerning the English Reformation, collected for the most part word for word out of Dr. Burnet, John Fox, and other Protestant Historians, published for the information of the people, in reply to Master William King’s Answer to Dean Manby’s Considerations. The first Dialogue. 4to Dublin 1687.

Here again, it will be observed, that the author styles himself “Dean Manby.” The second Dialogue never appeared. To this Mr. King replied in

A Vindication of the answer to the Considerations, which obliged Peter Manby, Dean of Derry, to embrace what he calls the Catholick Religion: being an answer to the first Dialogue, already printed, of his reformed Catechism. 4to Dublin 1688.

In the same year Manby published

✠ A letter to a friend, shewing the vanity of this opinion, that every man’s sense and reason is to guide him in matters of faith. 4to Dublin 1688.

And to this King again replied in

A vindication of the Christian Religion and Reformation against the attempts of a late letter wrote by Peter Manby, Dean of Derry, pretending to show that all religions have a like plea, and that there can be no such sins as heresy and schism if every man's sense and reason are to guide him in matters of faith. 4to Dublin 1688. J. H. T.

C. L. 130. ✠ Consensus Veterum; or the reasons of Edward Sclater, Minister of Putney, for his Conversion to the Catholic Faith and Communion. Jer. vi. 16. Thus saith the Lord, stand you in the ways, &c. Ecclesia Romana principem in ecclesias locum semper tenuit, et antiquarum traditionum tenacissima fuit. Dr. Walton, Prolegom. 10, non procul ab initio.

[pp. 100, to the Reader pp. 6], 4to Lond. 1686

See Contin. p. 43. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1083. Edward Sclater was of St. John's Coll. Oxford; M.A. 1647: a schoolmaster and afterwards minister of Putney; having joined the Church of Rome on the accession of James II. he had a licence to retain the income of the cure, employing a curate to do the clerical duty. See an allusion to the numerous scandalous cases of this kind that occurred at that time in "Some Dialogues between Mr. G." [a clergyman in exactly the same circumstances as Sclater] "and others." No. 254 infra. On Rogation Sunday, May 5th, 1689, he made a public recantation of the Roman Catholic Religion, and was received into the Communion of the Church of England in the Savoy Church, after which he lived privately near Exeter House or Change Wood. J. H. T.

"The dispensing power was, at the same time, employed for the purpose of enabling Roman Catholics to hold ecclesiastical preferment. The new Solicitor readily drew the warrants in which Sawyer had refused to be concerned. One of these warrants was in favour of a wretch named Edward Sclater, who had two livings which he was determined to keep at all costs and through all changes. He administered the sacrament to his parishioners according to the rites of the Church of England on Palm Sunday 1686. On Easter Sunday, only seven days later, he was at mass. The royal dispensation authorised him to retain the emoluments of his benefices. To the remonstrances of the patrons from whom he had received his preferment he replied in terms of insolent defiance, and, while the Roman Catholic cause prospered, put forth an absurd treatise in defence of his apostasy. But, a very few weeks after the Revolution, a great congregation assembled at Saint Mary's in the Savoy, to see him received again into the bosom of the Church which he had deserted. He read his recantation with tears flowing from his eyes, and pronounced a bitter invective against the Popish priests whose arts had seduced him.

After Dean of Derry, — a circumstance which is thus alluded to in Dr. King's Answer: — "Why did you defer publishing this paper (such as it is), which was ready some time before, till you thought you might be sure of keeping the profits of your Deanery? Either you are a Lay or Clergyman. If a Layman are you not abominably sacrilegious to have possessed, and still retain the Revenue of a Clergyman? Why do you retain the Title of Dean in the Frontispiece of a book, which is designed to prove you to be no Priest, and consequently incapable of it? If your orders had yielded you as much per annum as your Deanery doth, have we not reason to believe you would no more have renounced the one than the other? Exomologesis; or, a faithful Narrative of the Occasion and Motives of his Conversion unto Catholic Unity. By Hugh Paulin de Cressy.

18mo Paris 1647-1653

Cressy was a native of Yorkshire, but became Dean of Leighlin in Ireland. See Cotton's Fasti Eccl. Hibern. (Prov. of Dubl.) pp. 77, 174, 390. He afterwards joined the Benedictines in the English College of Douay, and took the name of Serenus (in religion). See Ware's Writers of Ireland by Harris, p. 356. J. H. T.

"This Exomologesis was the golden calf which the English papists fell down and worshipped. They brag'd that book to be unanswerable, and to have given a total overthrow to the Chillingworthians, and book and tenets of Lucius Lord Falkland." — Wood's Athenæ, ed. Bliss. vol. iii. col. 1014. The book and tenets of Lord Falkland will be found in the first volume of Dr. Hammond's works, fol. 1674. Compare Des Maiseaux's Life of Chillingworth.

The noble historian of the Revolution, in his Animadversions upon a book, entitled Fanaticism fanatically imputed to the Catholick Church by Dr. Stillingfleet, and the imputation refuted, by S.[erenus] C.[ressy], 8vo Lond. 1674, answers the arguments which are there adduced from the Catholic Unity of the Church, and charges the author with very different motives from those assigned in the Exomologesis for his conversion. In his dedication to Dr. Stillingfleet he speaks of Cressy as "a person whom he had long known and familiarly conversed with before he was perverted in his Religion, and had often seen since;" and (in p. 86) he asserts that "he never thought of entering the Religion he now professes till the same rebellious power that drove the King out of the kingdom, drove him likewise from the good preferments which he enjoyed in the Church, and then the necessity and distraction of his fortune, together with the melancholick and irresolution in his nature, prevailed with him to bid farewell to his own reason and understanding, and to resign himself to the conduct of those who had a much worse than his." His life may be seen in the third volume of Dodd. Cf. Dr. Oliver's Biography, p. 43.

CHAP. XII.

Of the discourses written by the country Parson and the Romish Missionary.

136. The Country Parson's admonition to his Parishioners. Malachi ii. 7: "The Priest's lips," &c. Heb. xiii. 17: "Obey them that have rule," &c.

Single sheet, pp. 14, 8vo Lond. 1686

Cat. No. 112. Contin. p. 29. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1026. William Assheton, D.D., Prebendary of York Cathedral and Rector of Beckenham in Kent, the son of the Rev. William Assheton, Rector of Middleton, Lancashire, was born in the year 1641, died in 1711. He was the first projector of a scheme for providing a maintenance for clergymen's widows and others. See Baines's History of Lancashire, vol. ii. p. 606-10.

[I have given the title above as I find it in my copy. But Peck (who had also a copy of the book) seems to describe a different edition. He gives the title thus:—

"The country parson's admonition to his parishioners, with directions how to behave themselves when any one designs to seduce them from the Church of England. By William Aslton, D.D., Rector of — in Surrey." 12mo Lond. 1686.

And this is also the title given by Gee and Wake. Ant. Wood (loc. cit.) gives a title differing from both, in these words:—

"The Country Parson's admonition to his Parishioners, in two parts, persuading them to continue in the Protestant religion, with directions how to behave themselves when any one comes to seduce them." 24mo Lond. 1689.

In the Library of Trin. Coll. Dublin, there is no printed copy of this book, but there is a MS. copy in the hand-writing of Dr. Claud. Gilbert, transcribed from a printed book, and evidently most accurately copied by him, for the purpose of completing his set of this class of works. In this MS. the title is given thus:—

"The Country Parson's Admonition to his Parishioners, persuading them to continue in the Protestant religion, with directions how to behave themselves when any one designs to seduce them from the Church of England. By Dr. Asheton, Minister of Beckenham in Kent. Lond. Printed for R. Wilde."

On the whole it seems probable that there were several editions of this tract, which varied in the title page, but otherwise agreed in substance.

It was necessary to give this explanation, lest it should be inferred from the foregoing great discrepancies that there had been published different books, agreeing nearly in the title. The "two parts," mentioned in Wood's title, evidently include the next tract (No. 137) as part ii. J. H. T.]

This tract ought to have been placed before No. 139, as it was published before it. See "The Argument" prefixed to No. 139, in which an account is given of the occasion of the controversy. A copy of this book, in MS. in the hand-writing of Dr. Claud. Gilbert, from the ed. of London 1687, is in the Library of Trin. Coll. Dublin.

It would seem that these tracts were highly valued, and that they must have become very scarce at the beginning of the last century, since Dr. Gilbert took the trouble of transcribing them in his own hand, in order to complete his set. Dr. Claud. Gilbert was elected a Fellow of Trinity College in 1693, Senior Fellow 1698, Vice Provost 1716, Regius Professor of Divinity 1722. In 1735 he accepted the living of Ardstraw, and at the same time gave to the College Library his splendid collection of books, consisting of upwards of 13,000 volumes; which he saw arranged and placed on the shelves of the library as they now stand before he retired to his living. His bust in marble is preserved in the library, and there is a picture of him in the provost's house. J. H. T.

141. The child's monitor against popery. Written at first for the private use of a child, who hath Popish parents, and now made publick for the benefit of others. 24mo Lond.

See Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1026. Peck and Wood give only as the title of this book, "The child's monitor against popery." Wood adds, but not as part of the title, "written to preserve the child of a person of quality from being seduced by his popish parents." I do not know who were the popish parents of this child of a person of quality; nor have I ever seen a copy of this tract. I have taken the title as given above from the list of books at the end of No. 137. J. H. T.

These tracts were all reprinted in 1751, Lond. 4to., with the following advertisement:—

“It may be necessary to observe that, since the time of their C. L. original editions mentioned in their respective title pages, each of these pieces (the Child’s Monitor only excepted) was reprinted in the year 1706. Which edition, like the former, is now very difficult to be met with. No apology, therefore, need be offered for introducing these papers into a new acquaintance with the world, as this will be a means the better to promote their dispersion into the hands of unlearned readers, for whose benefit they were principally designed. But a particular reason for their present appearance from the press is, to recover them from an obscurity, in which they have lain so long as to become, in a manner, lost to the world; in order to assist such persons who are collecting these tracts, which have done such honour to the Protestant cause, to make their sets as complete as possible. The four first of them are exactly reprinted according to their original editions, but a printed copy of the Child’s Monitor, being too scarce to be obtained, this impression is taken from a transcript of it, communicated by a worthy clergyman.”

In the Hist. and Crit. Dict. fol. 1735, there is an analysis of these tracts, art. Assheton.

This account bears the following title:—Schisme unmask't, &c., ut infra. J. H. T.

pp. 40, 4to Lond. 1687

See Contin. p. 36. Peck, doubtless by an error of the press, has omitted to mark this book as being on the popish side.

In the Preface from "The Publisher to the Reader," we are told that "in the year 1676, there happen'd a conference about points of Religion, between some Protestant Divines and some Roman Catholic Gentlemen, which, after a long silence, has been now lately set out the second time, in a fine Dress and with a long Preface: this (the publisher says) gave me the curiosity to seek further into those matters, and meeting accidentally with the copy of another conference held in 1671, wherein some of the same persons were concern'd, I thought good to present you with it." It does not appear, however, who the "two divines of the Church of England," engaged in the conference of 1671, or who the "three persons of quality" for whose satisfaction it was intended, were. The other conference alluded to is thus described in the margin: "A relation of a Conference, Apr. 3, 1676," and is doubtless that which Thomas Burnet, in his Life of the Bishop, published at the end of the second volume of Burnet's Own Times (vol. ii. p. 685), thus notices: "As the apprehensions of popery grew daily stronger, the most eminent divines of the Church of England signalized themselves in the Romish Controversy: nothing of that kind was more taken notice of than the Account our author printed, in the year 1676, of a Conference, which himself and Dr. Stillingfleet were engaged in with Coleman and the principal of the Romish priests: this made him considered as one who stood in the very front of the opposition to popery."

I have not seen the original edition of this conference, but I have a copy of it, which I doubt not is the same which the publisher of the Conference of 1671 speaks of (in the words just quoted) as having been "lately set out the second time." Neither Peck nor Wake have noticed the Conference of 1676, published by Bishop Burnet, nor does it occur in the Bodl. Cat. I have a copy of the second edition of it, although it is not so called in the book itself, nor any hint given that it was published before.

The first edition of this Conference was printed in 8vo, 1676, under the title: "A relation of a conference held about religion at London, 3 April, 1676, by Edward Stillingfleet D.D. and Gilbert Burnet," &c. See chron. account of Burnet's Works, Own Times, vol. vi. p. 336, (Oxford ed.), fol. vol. ii. p. 727. J. H. T.

156. The Reformation of the Church of England justified, according to the canons of the Council of Nice, and other general councils and the traditions of the Catholick Church. Being an answer to a paper reprinted at Oxford, called the Schisme of the Church of England demonstrated in four arguments, formerly proposed to Dr. Gunning and Dr. Pearson, the late bishops of Ely and Chester, by two Catholic disputants, in a celebrated Conference upon that point. In which answer the unworthy and false dealings of the Papists are shewed, and the charge of schisme returned upon them, and the Church of England proved truly Catholick and Apostolick in her doctrine and constitution. Anon. By William Saywell D.D., C. L.

Master of Jesus College, Cambridge (afterwards Archdeacon of Ely). pp. 33, with title and pref. pp. 6, 4to Camb. 1688

Cat. No. 142. Contin. p. 37. See above No. 154. Wake (loc. cit.) tells us that Dr. Saywell "was particularly related to one of the abused bishops." I believe Bishop Gunning is meant, to whom Saywell was chaplain, (Fasti Oxon. vol. ii. col. 177,) this being the relation spoken of, not any consanguinity. J. H. T.

With a brief Recapitulation; wherein at one view may be seen the whole drift of this Conference, for such as want either learning to reach or leisure to read the whole Tract. And all is concluded with a decision of the main question, whether Protestants or those of the Roman Church be schismatiques. Also an Index is drawne pointing at the principal matters. Paris (cum privilegio), 8vo 1658

We learn from the Preface to this production that the conference began a little before Whitsuntide (May) 1657. See an account of the book (which it appears was disavowed by one of the Romish disputants) in the preface to the answer to it (No. 156 supra), and in the Engl. transl. of Bayle's Dictionary by Bernard, Birch and Lockman: art. Pearson, John; where we are informed that one of the Roman disputants went under several names, as Spencer, or Tyrwhitt, or Hatcliffe; and that the other was a Physician.

But "The Schism of the Church of England demonstrated" (No. 154) is not a reprint of this account of the Conference (as the translators of Bayle assert, note (A) loc. cit.) but only a Paper added at the end of it, and which (as Dr. Saywell remarks in the Preface to his answer, see No. 156 supra) "the authors do not so much as say that it was a part of their dispute, but a pure addition of their own," &c. See also Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 766, where we read, "Upon the title of this book bishop Barlow wrote:—"I am told that John White (author of a Letter to a person of Honour, in vindication of himself and his doctrine, printed 1659, Oct.) was he who did principally manage and put out this disputation." To which he afterwards added this note: "Others say his name was Spencer (the same who answered Dr. Laud's book), and Dr. Lenthall was his associate, who was first of Christ's Coll. in Cambridge, then Fellow of Pembroke Hall, a preacher and in orders; afterwards turning papist, would have professed the civil law, and a physician now he is in 1663. This Dr. Breton, master of Emanuel Coll. (who was at the debate), assures me. A Jesuit, who went by the name of Spenser, a Lincolnshire man, is said to be the author of Questions propounded for resolution of unlearned pretenders in Matters of Religion, to the doctors of the prelati-cal, pretended reform'd Church of England. Paris (alias Lond. as it seems) 1657, 8vo, 4 sh." In a note in Bliss's ed. of the Ath. Oxon. (loc. cit.), on the authority of Baker, who refers to Baxter, Of the True Church, vol. iii. p. 1, we are told that "one of the disputants of the Romish persuasion was Wm. Johnson, alias Terret." This was one of the aliases of the person above spoken of as White, Spencer, Tyrwhitt (Terret ?), or Hatcliffe. J. H. T.

“Spencer John — (the account of this great polemical writer is anything but circumstantial in p. 52 Florus Anglo Bavaricus) — sometimes called Vincent Hatlife, was born in Lincolnshire in 1601 Died 1671. F. Spencer ranks amongst the ablest polemical writers F. N. Southwell p. 504 of the Bibliotheca, &c., says that he was the Author of an 8vo work published in London, intitled, ‘Aut Deus aut Nihil,’ also ‘Schism detected;’ see Florus Anglo Bavaricus.” From Dr. Oliver’s Biography, who mentions two other works he has seen written by Spencer. This publication, “Schism Unmaskt,” is ascribed by Dolman to John Sergeant.

A relation of a conference held about religion, at London, by Edward Stillingfleet, D.D. &c., with some gentlemen of the Church of Rome.

pp. 64, and preface with title pp. 8, 4to Lond. 1687

The preface states that this conference was undertaken at the request of Lady T. for the satisfaction “of her husband and some others of the Church of Rome, as well as for clearing such scruples as the perpetual converse with those of that religion had raised in the Lady.” This conference took place April 3, 1676. The divines on the side of the Church of England are mentioned in the conference as D. S. and D. B. i.e. Dr. Stillingfleet and Dr. Burnet. The divines on the other side were M. C. (i.e. Mr. Coleman, a Jesuit, secretary to the Duchess of York), and a person called N. N., who did not take any part in the discussion until towards the end. This is no doubt the personage whom Thomas Burnet calls “the principal of the Romish Priests,” and I think he must have been either John Gother or John Leyburn. The letters N. N. are the last letters of the Christian and Surname of John Leyburn. The other parties whose initials appear in the narrative are M. L. T. and her husband, S. P. or S. P. T. i.e. My Lady Tyrwhit or Terwhit and Sir Philip Terwhit. M. W. appears to have taken an active part on the Romish side, but I do not know who is designated by these letters; possibly Mr. Woodhead; see No. 189 infra.

The Relation of the Conference was drawn up by Burnet, and is subscribed (with their names in full) by Gilbert Burnet, Edward Stillingfleet, and Will. Nailor, a gentleman whom they brought with them to be a witness on their side. [See Burnet's account of this conference, Own Times, vol. i. p. 395. "Sir Philip Terwhit (he says) had married a zealous Protestant, who, suspecting his religion, charged him with it. But he denied it before marriage, and carried it so far that he received the sacrament with her in her own church. After they were married, she found that he had deceived her; and they lived untowardly together. At this time some scruples were put in her head," &c.] Then follows (p. 11) "The relation which N. N. desired might be subjoined to the Relation of the Conference," with the answer. Then (p. 16) "The Letter which we promised, wherein an account is given of the doctrine of the church for the first eight centuries demonstrated to be contrary to Transubstantiation in a letter to Lady T." signed by Stillingfleet and Burnet. Also (p. 29) "A discourse shewing how unreasonable it is to ask for express words of Scripture in proving all articles of faith," by Burnet: and lastly (p. 44) "A discourse to shew that it was not only possible to change the belief of the church concerning the manner of Christ's presence in the sacrament; but that it is very reasonable to conclude both that it might be done, and that it was truly changed."

With respect to the Conference of 1671 (No. 155) it is evidently a report drawn up on the side of the Roman Church. The publisher tells us that "some of the same persons" were engaged in it, as were afterwards in a similar way "engaged" in the conference of 1676. This is sufficiently vague. But it is all the information I possess as to the dramatis personæ of the conference in 1671, the subject of which was schism. The dialogue seems to imply that two doctors on the side of England were engaged against one on the side of Rome: they are designated as Dr. 1, Dr 2, and Cath., and the Protestant doctors are sometimes made to speak together, when their words are given as coming from Drs. There was also a "Company" present who are more than once addressed by "Cath." (p. 10, 16) and who on some occasions took a part in the discussion, where they are called Gentlemen (p. 9), Gentlem. and Gent. (pp. 36, 37, 39), and who always spoke together and on the Popish side. There is also a mysterious personage who made two pretty long speeches, and who is called Narr. (p. 15) and Nar. (p. 28), both on the Romish side. Or perhaps this does not mean any individual present, but rather a Narrative of something which did not take place at the conference. J. H. T.

- C. L. The True Catholic and Apostolic Faith maintained in the Church of England. Being a Reply to several Books published under the names of J. E., N. N., and J. S., &c. By Andrew Sall, D.D. 8vo Oxford 1676

This very interesting volume, written in reply to Nicholas French's "Bleeding Iphigenia," and his "Dolefull Fall of Andrew Sall," also to the "Unerring Unerrable Church," commences with a Dedication to the Earl of Essex, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland; followed by a Letter from J. Free, the Superior of the Jesuits in Ireland, with Sall's Reply; the Licence granted to Sall, when Rector of the Irish College at Salamanca, to keep and read Prohibited Books, by the Bishop of Valencia in 1652; then a Letter of Nicholas French, Bp. of Ferns, and his Elogium upon Sall. In "The Literary Policy of the Church of Rome exhibited in an account of her Damnatory Catalogues of Indexes, both prohibitory and expurgatory," by the Rev. Joseph Mendham, M.A., Lond. 1830, will be found a Papal revocation of the licence of reading heretical works, on the ground of the apprehended conversion of those who were to confute the heretics. "Ferraris, Prompta Bibl. under Fides, will show with what alarm Rome beheld the discussions of her sons with heretics, and how carefully the Propaganda provided against mischief." Addit. Suppl., p. 16, ibid. With what chains the human intellect has been shackled in Papal countries is evinced by the precautions of revision, correction and expurgation, which have been used in the most orthodox books, as will be seen in the licenses prefixed to the second and later editions of the Historia Pontifical by Yllescas. See Southey's Vindiciæ Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ, p. 392. Concerning this book, which is the most rare of all Sall's publications, see also No. 218 infra.

"The Bleeding Iphigenia" of Dr. French has long been known as a book of uncommon rarity, and has been eagerly sought after by book collectors. Whenever it or the 'Sale and Settlement of Ireland' have appeared at an auction room, crowds of bidders have attended, and the contents of this little volume, in the reader's hands, have sold for no less a sum than £40." Advertisement to the Bleeding Iphigenia in the "Historical Works of the Right Rev. Nicholas French, C. I. D.D., Bishop of Ferns, &c. &c. Now for the first time collected." James Duffy, Dublin, 18mo 1846.

"As for the Bleeding Iphigenia there came three copies to this town, sent by Bp. French. The people are so taken with it as, in my opinion, if 20,000 volumes of it had come over, they would all have been bought up." From a letter from a friar in Connaught, in Dr. O'Connor's Catalogue of MSS. in Stowe Library, vol. i. p. 264. An account of this author is given in Ware's Irish Writers, by Harris, p. 166 et seq. [The Bleeding Iphigenia is really the suppressed Preface to the Doleful Fall of Andrew Sall, as appears by comparing the printer's signatures in the original editions. The Bleeding Iphigenia was reprinted Dublin 1829, in Fac Simile so far as the lines go and pages, but not as to type. This edition has a preface signed O. [Rev. Cæsar Otway] giving an account of the Author, etc. A copy of this reprint on vellum is in the Library of Trin. Coll. Dublin. We have also the orig. edit. without a title page.

The person who wrote against Sall under the initials J. S. was Ignatius Brown (Ware's Writers of Ireland, by Harris, pp. 186-7.) N. N. was Nicholas French, tit. bishop of Ferns. I do not know who J. E. was, but his book is in the Library of Trin. Coll. Dublin. J. H T.]

Of the Romanists charge of an Agreement between the church of England and the church of Rome; with the churchmen's replies.

157. ✠ An agreement between the Church of England and Church C. L. of Rome, evinced from the concertation of some of her sons with their brethren of the Dissenters. Published with allowance. pp. 88, and pref. and title pp. 8, 4to Lond. 1687

See Contin. p. 18, where this tract is attributed to the Representer, but it is not mentioned among his works by Dodd. See No. 51 supra. In p. 61 there is a paper, which the preface tells us was drawn up by another hand, entitled, "The Necessity of an Agreement between the Church of England and the Church of Rome, evinced from the nature and constitution of a National Church episcopally established." J. H. T.

"I must observe, by the way, that though the Prefacer does ascribe this learned Piece to another Author, yet he has concealed the true Father: His other Author was a good Roman Catholick, who disputes in good earnest from the Subordination of Pastors in the Church to prove the Supremacy of an Oecumenic or Universal Pastor; but the true Author was an Independent Protestant, from whom this honest Romanist borrows every argument, and almost every word, excepting such little variations as a Papist must of necessity make in an Independent's writing, without ever confessing his Benefactor, or owning from whence he had it. The title of the Book is, The Catholick Hierarchie, or the Divine Right of a Sacred Dominion in Church and Conscience, truly Stated, Asserted, and Pleaded. Printed for Sam. Crouch at the Princes Arms in Pope's Head-Alley in Cornhil, & Tho. Fox at the Angel in Westminster-hall, 1681. In the XIV. Chap. of which Book, p. 76, being a Digression concerning the Subordination of Pastors; whoever has the curiosity may find this entire Treatise of the Necessity of Agreement between the Church of England and the Church of Rome, onely with this difference, that the Independent disputes against the Subordination of Pastors by this very Argument,

That the Asserting the Subordination of Pastors in the Church, doth by all good consequence infer the Supremacy of an Oecumenical or Universal Pastor." Sherlock's Vindication, &c., p. 63.

CHAP. XVI.

Of the discourses written by the Romanists reflecting upon the Reformation of the Church of England; with the Churchmen's replies.

160. ✠ The Church of England truly represented according to Dr. Peter Heylin's history of the Reformation.

See Contin. p. 36. [And No. 181, infra.]

“Sanderson, in his History of the Life and Reign of King Charles, layeth a scandal upon the Doctor that he was an Agent for the See of Rome. The Doctor indeed in all his writings did ever assert the King's Prerogative, and the Churches Rights, for which he incur'd the Odium of the opposite Party, with whom 'tis ordinary to brand such persons with the ignominious name of Papists, or being Popishly affected, as abhor the other extreme of Puritanism, in which kind of Calumnies the Doctor hath sufficiently had his share, though no man hath written more sharply against the Church of Rome, as appears from most of his Books, and particularly in his Theologia Veterum, and his Sermons upon the Tares: but though these have not been able to secure him from the malicious Tongues and Pens of ill men, yet his innocence hath found very worthy Advocates. Among whom I thank particularly the Reverend and Learned Dr. Stillingfleet in his Answer to T. G. [see No. 85 supra] who would have made use of the Puritans accusation for the Papists purpose, but the worthy Doctor quickly refuted him out of the fourth Sermon of Doctor Heylin upon the Tares, where he lays at the door of the Papists the most gross Idolatry, greater than which was never known among the Gentiles.

“But against these things 'tis commonly said, and as commonly believed, that some persons, and those of most illustrious quality, [i.e. the Duchess of York] have been perverted from the Protestant Faith to Popery, by reading some of the Doctors Books, and particularly that which he writ about the History of the Reformation, called Ecclesia Restaurata. This Objection having many particular charges contained in it, will require as many distinct Answers, which I shall give in short. And first, if it be true that any have embraced the Roman Faith, by means of that Book, he may conclude them to be very incompetent Judges in the matters of Religion, that will be prevailed upon to change it upon the perusal of one single History; and especially in the Controversies between us and the Papists, which do not depend upon matter of fact, or an Historical Narration of what Occurrences happened in this Kingdom, but upon doctrine of Faith, what we are to believe and disbelieve, in order to our serving God in this life, and being Eternally blessed with him in the next."—Life of Heylin, prefixed to his works, pp. 24, 25. The charge above referred to is not confirmed by his other work published in 1657, viz.,

Ecclesia Vindicata; or, the Church of England Justified; I. In the C. L. Way and Manner of Reformation. II. In Officiating by a Public Liturgy. III. In prescribing a Set Form of Prayer to be used by Preachers before their Sermons. IV. In her Right and Patrimony of Tithes. V. In retaining the Episcopal Government, and therewith, VI., The Canonical Ordination of Priests and Deacons. By Peter Heylin, D.D. (Compare Woodhead on Church Government, part v., pp. 250-54,) Nor by that published in 1645, The Parliament's Power in Lawes for Religion, or an Answer to the Calumny of the Papists, nicknaming the Church of England by the name of a Parliamentary Religion, 4to Oxf. 1645.

161. The State of the Church of Rome when the Reformation C. L. began; as it appears by the advices given to Paul III. and Julius III. by creatures of their own. With a Preface leading to the Matter of the Book. Anon. By Will. Clagett, D.D. pp. 34, and pref. pp. 8, 4to Lond. 1688

See Cat. No. 137. Contin. p. 35.

It is scarcely possible that Dr. Clagett could have been the author of the translation of the documents which he has published in this tract. For in one place the well known theological phrase, ex opere operato, is translated (p. 24) "by the works done," and there are several other errors of ignorance or of carelessness. It is probable, therefore, that Dr. Clagett only wrote a hasty preface to the publication, and that the translation was executed by some inferior hand, and yet he apparently adopts the translation as his own when he says in the Preface, "I thought a few hours spent in translating them into our language would not be thrown away." It is most unfortunate, however, that one of the documents thus put forth, viz., "the advice to Julius III." (which the Preface tells us was "the most fatal thing that ever happened to the reputation of the Roman cause") is a manifest pasquinade, the production of the celebrated Peter Paul Vergerio, bishop of Capo d'Istria. How any one could read it, and believe it to be a serious document, addressed by three bishops to a Pope is very surprising; and even Dr. Clagett seems to think some apology to be necessary, for he says in the Preface, "that the nine" (who wrote the first letter) "were serious and seemed to be so: the three (who wrote the second letter) were serious and seemed not to be so; which makes the advice of the former look like sincerity and that of the latter to look like wit," &c.

Nevertheless the Consilium was published as a serious document by John Wolfius in his Lectiones Memorabiles (vol. ii. p. 549), by W. Crashaw (from a different copy); and afterwards by Edw. Browne (who reprinted Crashaw's edition) in his additions to the Fasciculus of Orthuinus Gratius. In Wolfius the Consilium is addressed to Paul III., not Julius III., and a passage at the end relating to England and queen Mary (Clagett's ed. p. 33) is omitted, we may therefore perhaps infer that the first edition of the Pasquinade was put forth in the time of Paul III., and that another edition which Crashaw reprinted, addressed to Julius III., with the allusion to queen Mary's persecution of the Protestants in England, came out afterwards. At all events it does not appear to have deceived anybody when first published, nor to have been intended to deceive, for Vergerio has given it as his own in his works; a fact which Crashaw endeavours to explain by telling us that Vergerio inserted it in his works because he had found it in the Pope's private study — "Hoc Vergerius in conclavi privato (pessimarum Musarum Museo) Papæ, inter secretiora et sacratiora papalis Imperii arcana inventum, amicis primo privatis communicavit, deinde suis inseruit operibus." And yet the document so far from being communicated only to his private friends had been printed and published in 1549, and afterwards in 1553, whereas the works of Vergerio, in which it appears, bear date Tübingen, 4to 1563, two years before the author's death. The other document, viz., the "Advice" given to Paul III. by nine bishops is probably genuine; or at least it cannot be suspected of a protestant origin, as it appeared in Crabbe's edition of the Councils, 1551; and in the Acts of the first Council of Pisa, Paris 4to 1612. See Mendham's Literary Policy of the Church of Rome, pp. 48, 49, and Index of Greg. XIV. pp. 75-83. Also an Article in the British Magazine (vol. xxxv. for 1849, pp. 538-42), on Dr. Cumming's edit. of Gibson's Preservative against Popery.

It is curious as showing the haste with which Dr. Clagett's tract was got up, that although he entitles this latter document "An Advice given to Paul III. by four Cardinals and five other Prelates," and speaks of it in his preface as signed by nine, yet he has printed the names of eight only of the subscribers, having omitted one name, and transposed the title of the omitted name to another bishop. The names of the prelates, as he gives them, are these: Frederick Archbishop of Brundusium, which ought to be Frederick Archbishop of Salerno. He then omits the name of "Jerome, Archbishop of Brundusium," but gives the remainder correctly, viz., "Joh. Matthew [Gibet] Bishop of Verona, Gregory [Cortese] Abbat of St. George at Venice, Fryar Thomas, Master of the sacred palace." And yet he seems to have taken some pains in the matter, as he inserts the surnames of Gibet and Cortese, which do not appear in Brown's reprint. Fascic. vol. ii. p. 236. In the signatures of the three bishops, at the end of the Advice given to Julius III., there are also mistakes of carelessness:—"Giles Talceta" ought to be "Giles Falceta," and "Gerards Burdragus" ought to be "Gerhard (or Gerhardus) Busdragus." The author of the paper in the British Magazine, above referred to, has shown that "Gerhardus Busdragus" was a name assumed by Vergerio in some of his similar pieces of ironical controversy. A good account of this singular man will be found in the English translation of Bayle's Dictionary, by Bernard, Birch and Lockman. J. H. T.

The title of the genuine Consilium is as follows: Consilium Delectorum Cardinalium et aliorum Prælatorum, de emendanda Ecclesia. S. D. N. Papa Paulo 3 ipso jubente conscriptum et exhibitum an. 1538. Libellus vere aureus. Ante annos 70 in Concil. Tridentino primum editus; deinde Romani Antichristi tyrannico jussu injuste suppressus. Nunc autem ab interitu vindicatus et renuo recusus. Ex Bibliotheca W. Crashawi. 4to Londini 1609. "This little-known but often-mentioned work was the result of the Consultations of the Cardinals and other divines appointed by Pope Paul III. to report on the state of the Church, and what necessity there might be for a Reformation. At the end of the volume is appended a list of those appointed to the important undertaking, and it includes the most learned and respected churchmen of the age, as Cardinals Pole, Contareni, Sadolet, &c. It produced an animated discussion between Schellhorn and Cardinal Quirini in the last century, the latter at first maintaining that the book was not authentic, but was put forth primarily by the Protestants; but he afterwards convinced himself of the contrary. This Advice is appended to Carranza's Summa Conciliorum, 1546 and 1551. This Counsel is transformed into a Council in Foster's translation of Ranke's History of the Popes, vol. i. p. 3, note, Lond. 1853, [Bohn, vol. i. p. 111,] and the same mistake appears twice in the Christian Remembrancer for July 1856, pp. 80, 92, where mention is made of the Council of Cardinals." Gibbing's Trial and Martyrdom of Carneseccchi. It will be found also in Durandus de Modo Concilii, etc. ad calc. 105-12. The title of the supposititious Consilium is: Consilium quorundam Episcoporum Bononiæ congregatorum quod de ratione stabilendiæ Romanæ Ecclesiæ Julio III. Pont. Max. datum est. Quo artes et astutiæ Romanensium et Arcana Imperii Papalis non pauca propagantur. Ex Bibliotheca W. Crawshaw, 4to Lond. 1613. For the history of this "Conciliabulum" consult Notes and Queries, first series, vol. ix. Schellhorn's remarks on these two documents are in the seventh volume of his Amœnitates Literariæ, p. 276 et seq.

[The true title of the original and excessively rare edition is as follows: "Consilium Delectorum Cardinalium & aliorum Prælatorum de emendanda Ecclesia, S.D.N.D. Paulo III. ipso iubente conscriptum & exhibitum, M.D.XXXVII." It has no place of printing, but has the arms of Paul III. on the title, and was printed 1538, the year after its being "Conscriptum et exhibitum." See Reprint of the Roman Index, by Rev. R. Gibbings, Pref. p. 20.

In some copies we find Concilium for Consilium.

Trin. Coll. Dublin has one with this title:—

Concilium delectorum Cardinalium et aliorum Prælatorum de emendanda ecclesia, S.D.N.D. Paulo tertio ipso iubente conscriptum, et exhibitum Anno M.D.XXXVIII. Accessit æquitatis Discussio super Consilio [sic] Delectorum Cardinalium, &c., ad tollendam per Generale concilium inter Germanos in religione discordiam. Antwerpia. In scuto Burgundiæ per Joannem Steelsium Anno a Christo nato M.D.XXXIX.

The author of the Æquitatis discussio was Joannes Cochlaeus.

There were two editions of Crashaw's reprint of this: one with the title as given supra, "Londini excudebat Felix Kynston sumptibus Richardi Boyle, 1609."

The other with some slight variations in the title, as "S.D.N.D. Paulo III." and "anno 1538," "Londini Excudebat N. O. sumptibus Richardi Boyle." This consists of a single sheet, with signature A., containing twelve leaves, and is therefore properly 12mo.

The short note, "Lectori," which follows the address to the Abp. of York in the 4to, does not occur in the 12mo. edit.

In both these editions the document is called Consilium. But it is Concilium, p. 130 of the Apologia sacri Pisani Concilii Moderni, at the end of the "Acta primi Concilii Pisani," 4to Lut. Paris, 1612, where the whole document is given. J. H. T.]

Reformation, and the lawfulness thereof examined by the Theses delivered in the four former parts. Anon. By Abraham Woodhead. pp. 260, with title, contents and address
pp. 12. 4to Oxford 1687

See Contin. p. 36. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 616-17. The title-page has a wood-cut ornament with a medallion head of King Alfred. The prefatory letter begins, "Sir, well knowing your fidelity and loyalty to your prince," &c. But there is nothing to show to whom this epistle was addressed. There is no doubt that the author was Abraham Woodhead, fellow of Univ. Coll. Oxford, one of the most zealous converts to the Church of Rome of that period, who died May 4, 1678 (æt. 70), leaving behind him a great number of works in MS. on the controversial questions at issue between the Roman and English Churches. Many of these, and the present amongst the number, were afterwards printed, at a private printing press which he had set up in his lodgings, by Obadiah Walker, Master of Univ. Coll., for which press (as the books printed by him could not have been licensed in the ordinary way) he had obtained the special licence of James II. This circumstance is the cause of the mistake committed by many and even by contemporary writers, that this, and some other of Woodhead's works, were written by Walker. Burnet, in the first part of his Reflections (No. 172 infra) on this treatise, says in the introduction, "We have been long in expectation of some extraordinary productions of the eminent convert of Oxford. His age [Walker was then, 1688, about 77 years of age], his learning, and the present conjuncture hath raised that expectation very high; and though the ill success of his discourses concerning the presence in the Sacrament and the adoration of it [see Nos. 279, 282 infra, which are also by Woodhead, although printed by Walker], hath sunk his reputation to a great degree," &c. Here it is evident that Walker must have been intended; for his being a head of a house in Oxford, his having avowed himself a Romanist in 1688, and his attempt to set up a chapel for the celebration of Mass in his College, all gave him a notoriety, which accounts for his being styled by Burnet "the eminent convert of Oxford." Moreover in 1688 Woodhead was dead, and therefore could not have been the person alluded to. Nevertheless it is clear that Burnet must have known very well that Walker was only the reputed author, for he adds (p. 4) "I am, I confess, much inclined to believe, he who hath published this book could not have writ it."

C. L.

This book is styled "Part V.," and "four former parts" are alluded to in the title. These were also by Abr. Woodhead, and had reference to the Presbyterian controversy. They were published together under the title, "A brief account of ancient Church-Government, with a reflection on several modern writings of the Presbyterians (the assembly of divines, their Jus Divinum ministerii Anglicani, published 1654, and Dr. Blondel's Apologia pro sententia Hieronymi, and others) touching this subject. Anon. Lond. 1662 4to (in four parts) reprinted in 1685. In the first ed. of the Ath. Oxon. Wood had stated, on the authority of "a certain R. Catholick, who was originally of Univ. Coll.," that this book was written by Obad. Walker. But in his second edit. he cancels this statement, and says, "Some say it was written by R. Holden, a Sorbon Dr., but falsely; for Abr. Woodhead was without doubt the author of it." Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 614 [ed. Bliss, vol. iii. col. 1159]. For an account of Obad. Walker, see Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 933 sq. J. H. T.

Walker had a license granted to him by the King, dated May 1686, for the exclusive sale of certain books for twenty-one years. The list of them was printed in the second volume of Gutch's Miscellanea Curiosa; they are all in favour of the Roman Catholic Religion.

The Contents of the four former parts are — I. The Apostles the successors of Christ. II. Bishops the successors of the Apostles. III. The Presbyterians plea against Bishops. IV. An answer to this their plea. Cf. Bentley's Phileleutherus Lipsiensis. "It was agreed over all Christendom at once in the very next generation after the Apostles to assign and appropriate to them the word Επισκοπος or bishop. From that time to this that appellation, which before included a Presbyter, has been restrained to a superior Order. And here's nothing in all this but what has happened in all languages and communities in the world. See the Notitia of the Roman and Greek Empires; and you'll scarce find one name of any State Employment, that in course of time did not vary from its primitive signification. So that should our Lutheran Presbyters contend they are Scripture Bishops, what would they get by it? No more than lies in the syllables. The time has been when a commander even of a single regiment was called Imperator: and must every such now a days set up to be Emperors? The one pretence is altogether as just as the other." Remark, xxxiv. Also Jer. Taylor's Episcopacy Asserted § 21 (Polemical and Moral Discourses, fol. 1657, p. 157, 8), Du Moulin and Andrews in Wordsworth's Christian Institutes, vol. iii., Pearson (Vindic. Ignat. part II. ch. iii. quoted ibid. p. 196.) "We shall find that the Dissenters in this Kingdom, usually passing under the title of 'the Three Denominations,' that is the Presbyterians, the Independents, and the Baptists (or more correctly, Anabaptists), declare for the parity of the ministers of the Gospel in matters of Church government. But we have seen that the Universal Church and our ancient Church, as a portion of it, was from its beginning established in Episcopacy. Our judicious Hooker asserts, ‘A thousand five hundred years and upwards the Church of Christ hath now continued under the sacred regimen of bishops.’ Salmasius of France, one of the most learned of all Presbyterians, admits, concerning Episcopal government: ‘The thing itself is most ancient; for, if the times of the Apostles are excepted, those two orders of bishops and presbyters have been distinct in the church.’ If this be conceded, then Salmasius gives up the contest; for it is evident, as has been already observed, that the Apostles themselves, as shewn in the New Testament, exercised this supervision, which, as an abiding part of their office, has descended to the bishops of the Church. Blondel, another very learned Frenchman and Presbyterian, singularly enough admits, ‘By all that we have said to assert the rights of the Presbytery, we do not intend to invalidate the ancient and Apostolical constitution of Episcopal pre-eminence.’ And the three leading Reformers, Luther, Melancthon, and Calvin, were all in favour of Episcopacy, as their works, if examined, will shew. If any doubt this assertion, especially as it regards Calvin, let such consult the ‘Life and Correspondence of Parker, Archbishop of Canterbury,’ as written and published by Strype, and they may be satisfied.” The Church of England apostolical in its origin, episcopal in its government, and scriptural in its belief. Wherein, also, its claims, in opposition to Popery and Dissent, are considered and asserted. By the Rev. Tho. P. Pantin, M.A. (The references are not given, because the tract itself, pp. 48 12mo., may easily be obtained from Mr. Stewart, King William-street, Lond.) “‘St. Hieronom himself when out of his anger against John Bp. of Jerusalem he endeavoured to equal the Presbyter with the Bishop, though in very many places he spake otherwise, yet even then also and in that heat, excepted ordination, acknowledging that to be the Bishop’s peculiar.” Jer. Taylor’s Sermon preached at the Consecration of two Archbishops and ten Bishops, Dublin 1661. “I shall say one thing more, which indeed is a great truth, that the diminution of Episcopacy was first introduced by Popery, and the Popes of Rome by communicating to Abbots and other mere Priests special graces to exercise some special offices of Episcopacie, hath made this sacred order to be cheap, and apt to be invaded.” — Ibid.

Of Tracts against Episcopacy there were, in Milton's words, "Numbers numberless." "Never did men so ply their adversaries with the hail-shot of Libels as Martin Marprelate and his followers plied upon the Bishops."—Heylin's Pref. to Ecclesia Vindicata. They were finally put down at Manchester by the Earl of Derby. See Baines's Lancashire, vol. ii. p. 263. Copious notices of them will be found in Fuller, Collier, Strype (Ann. vol. ii. p. 261), Wood by Bliss, Ames by Herbert, and Beloe. See also Maskell's Hist. of the Marprelate Controversy during the reign of Elizabeth. The Smectymnuans, viz. Marshall, Calamy, Young, Newcomen, and Spurstow, who wrote a celebrated book called Smectymnuus (a title made up of their initials, Christian and surname), although they were "undertaken" by Bp. Hall in The Humble Remonstrance, and by Heylin in his Hist. of Episcopacy and his Hist. of the Presbyterians, had a powerful effect, and, as Calamy affirms, gave the first deadly blow to Episcopacy. In this struggle to render Episcopacy, in Baillie's words, "a poor plucked crow," Milton joined the side of the Puritans, and in coming forward with his Apology for Smectymnuus and other tracts he may have been influenced by his regard to Thomas Young, one of the writers, who for some years had been his preceptor.—See Robert Baillie's Letters and Journals. - C. L. 164. Of the authority of Councils and the Rule of Faith. By a Person of Quality. With an answer to the eight Theses laid down for the trial of the English Reformation, in the book that came last week from Oxford.

pp. 113, Pref. pp. 1-6, 4to Lond. 1687

See Cat. No. 96. Contin. p. 31. Instead of "last week," Gee and Peck have it "the Book that came lately from Oxford." The Imprimatur is dated "March 22, 1686" (i.e. 168 $\frac{6}{7}$); so that Woodhead's Church Government, Part v., containing the eight theses (see No. 163) must have come out a week before that date, although it is dated 1687. Peck, copying Gee, says, "The first part (about councils) by — Hutchinson (Gee spells the name Hutchison) Esq., the rest by Dr. Clagett." But the book is in three parts; the first p. 1, "Of the authority of Councils;" the second, p. 63, "Of the Rule of Faith;" and the third, p. 101, "Postscript," in answer to Woodhead. It is this last that is by Dr. Wm. Clagett. The two former parts are by "a person of quality," i.e. Mr. Hutchinson.

See Pepys's Diary March 23, 1669 (vol. ii. p. 321), where a Mr. Hutchinson is mentioned, whose "vein" lay in matters of religion. J.H.T.

On the Tria Capitula referred to in the former tract, see Crakanthorp's Vigilius Dormitans, Romes Overseer Overseene. Or a Treatise of the Fift Generall Councell held at Constantinople, anno 553, under Justinian the Emperour in the time of Pope Vigilius: the occasion being those Tria Capitula, which for many yeares troubled the whole Church. Wherein is proved that the Popes Apostolicall Constitution and definitive sentence in matter of Faith was condemned as hereticall by the Synod. And the exceeding frauds of Cardinall Baronius and Binius are clearly discovered. Fol. Lond. 1631.

The story of the Council of Rimini or Ariminum, anno 359, also referred to in the former tract, is very elegantly told by Sulpitius Severus, and by Jerome in his Dialogues against the Luciferians. See also Palmer's Treatise on the Church on Arianism in connexion with synodical action.—Historical Collections concerning Church Affairs. By a Presbyter of the Church of England. Lond. 1696 4to.

“Here I had been obliged to shew some part of that Cloud of Witnesses wherewith we are encompassed in maintaining that the Fathers took the Holy Scriptures for the Rule of their Faith; but that this point is made out so learnedly and so plainly in the late Vindication of the Answer to some late Papers [No. 17 supra] from pag. 40 to pag. 50,” &c. Rule of Faith p. 80.

L. inferences deduced from them, in a Discourse entitl'd Church Government, Part v. lately printed at Oxford.* They went out from us, &c., 1 Joh. ii. 19. [Anon. By George Smallridge, B.A., of Christ's Church.] pp. 68, and to the University Reader pp. 2. 4to Oxford (printed at the Theater), a wood-cut of the Theater on the title page. 1687

See Cat. No. 141. Contin. p. 35. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1065. Gee says that this book is in two parts; meaning, I presume, the next article (No. 166) as the second part, but this last I think is not by Smallridge. Both are in answer to No. 163 supra. J. H. T.

Compare the King's Right of Indulgence in Spiritual Matters, p. 90 supra. Peter Walsh in his Hist. and Vindic. of the Loyal Formulary or Irish Remonstrance, 1674 fol., admits that ecclesiastical constitutions are not independent of the Prince's sanction. To the Title of Supreme Head over the Church, given to King Henry VIII. by the Parliament, the learned Jackson devotes a Chapter in his Treatise of Christian Obedience, being the Second Part of his Twelfth Book, concerning the Holy Catholick Faith and Church, vol. iii. pp. 920-30. For an account of Jackson, one of the greatest of English Theological Writers, see Worthington's Diary and Correspondence, vol. i. p. 282-3.

The following extract from the Advertisement to this treatise relates to the subject under consideration, whilst it is an interesting supplement to a note in p. 60 supra. "Whereas one, either the true or a personated Roger Widdrington and some others of Romish persuasion, had so much conscience and loyalty, He to write for the lawfulness of taking the Oath of Allegiance, and they to take the same: this J. E. [Matthew Kellison] in his fifteenth chapter (of the Right and Jurisdiction of the Prelate and the Prince, &c.) strives to prove that the Oath can neither be proposed nor taken without sin. Against this bold Author on the one hand, and on the other against such amongst us as yield not due obedience either to Laws Civil or Ecclesiastical, to their Prince or to their Prelate, doth our good Author level much of his Discourse. The Reader may (perhaps) be content to be advertised of one particular more, viz. That there be two Books which pass under the name of Roger Widdrington. One called Disputatio Theologica de Jurament. Fidelitatis, quoted often by J. E. in his fifteenth Chapter: the other, Responsio Apologetica, cited by J. E. pag. 295. But I have heard a very ancient and most learned Man, Mr. Herbert Thorndike of Happy Memory, say that the reputed Author (at least of one of those Books) was a Priest of the Church of Rome, called Father Preston, who was prisoner in the Clink in Southwark, and being afraid of hard usage, chose to continue so, rather to enjoy a dangerous liberty, esteeming his Prison a Castle or Sanctuary rather than a Gaol." Of Dr. Matthew Kellison, Dodd says, in The Secret Policy of the Society of Jesus, p. 180: "It speaks his worth enough to say he was President of Douay College, Royal Professor and Rector of the University of Rheims, and Parent to many excellent Pieces in defence of the true Religion." They are enumerated by Watt.

- C. 2. 166. Reflections on the historical Part of Church Government. Part v. He that is first in his own cause, &c., Prov. 18, 17.

pp. 99, 4to Oxford (printed at the Theater), a wood-cut of the Theater on the title page. 1687

See Contin. p. 35. This is attributed to Smallridge in the Bodl. Cat., probably on the authority of Gee (see last art.) But Smallridge, who is undoubtedly the author of No. 165, says (p. 65 of that tract), "I should now proceed to consider the Historical part of this Discourse; but that I understand is already under the consideration of another hand, from which the reader may shortly expect a satisfactory account." And the Introduction to the "Reflections," speaks of the "Animadverter," i.e. the author of the "Animadversions" (No. 165) which seems to imply that the "Animadverter" was not the author of the "Reflections." It was probably for this reason that Peck separated this tract from the preceding; without attributing it to Smallridge. And that the author of No. 165 was not the same as the author of No. 166, is further evident from the preface to Atterbury's Answer to the discourse concerning the spirit of Martin Luther" (see No. 168 infra) where he says: "In the Defence of our Reformation to come 'twill be found that the Considerer [i.e. the author of No. 167] is no good historian; the Replyer [see No. 281 infra] has proved him no good Catholic; the Animadverter [see No. 165] no good subject; and all together no good Disputant; so that I have no new side of him left to entertain the reader with." Here the author of the defence of the Reformation is apparently distinguished from the "Animadverter," who was certainly Dr. Smallridge. Nevertheless it is possible that Dr. Smallridge may have written the Reflections, with a design to pass for a different person from the author of the Animadversions: this, however, I think is not very likely, when we consider the language he has used, as quoted above, in reference to the Reflections.

Atterbury's tract, (No. 168), received its Imprimatur July 29, 1687, whereas "the Defence of the Reformation" (No. 166) was not licensed until October 19, 1687. It was therefore still "to come," when Atterbury wrote. The Replyer (No. 281) was before both, having been licensed May 19, 1687. J. H. T.

There is another passage in the Reflections more convincing than that in the Introduction. "The Question here discust has already been debated in the Animadversions, and if the Reader desires to be farther satisfied I can not more oblige him than by sending him to the Most Reverend and Learned Author," p. 24.

"As long as the Sacred History of Hezechiah's and Josiah's Reformation shall be preserved, this prerogative of Godly Princes (of Reforming in extraordinary cases without or against a major part of their clergy) will need no other defence. The particulars of the Parallel have been so exactly drawn in a Discourse lately reprinted (Dr. Steward's Sermon, see p. 172 supra) that any farther attempt would be a presumption," &c., p. 96. Compare Steph. Gardineri Oratio de Vera Obedientia in Brown's Fasciculus, vol. ii. pp. 802-20. On the other side see Woodhead's Catholick Theses, Head ix.

- C. L. 167. ✠ Two discourses. The first concerning the spirit of Martin Luther, and the original of the Reformation. The second concerning the celibacy of the Clergy. Anon. By Abraham Woodhead. 4to, printed at Oxford (with the same head of K. Alfred as on the title of No. 163.) 1687

See Contin. p. 36. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 616. Published by Obadiah Walker, at his private printing press, see above No. 163. The two discourses are separately paged, and have also separate titles, besides the general title above given. The first is entitled "Considerations concerning the spirit of Martin Luther, and the original of the Reformation." pp. 104, whence the author of this tract is sometimes called "The Considerer," by writers on the other side (see note to No. 166); the second part is entitled "A Discourse concerning the Celibacy of the Clergy," pp. 39. This has an imprint which the first has not, "At Oxford printed, anno 1687." Under this it is given separately by Peck, No. 267 infra. J. H. T.

By Francis Atterbury, student of Christ Church (afterwards Bp. of Rochester).] pp. 68, and Preface pp. 2, 4to Oxford, printed at the Theater, with a wood-cut of the Theater on the title page. 1687

See Cat. No. 140. Contin. p. 35. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1064.

“By the same Authority he sentenc’d the Canon-Law consisting of the former decrees amass’d, as well those of Councils as those of Popes to the fire; and assembling the University solemnly burnt it at Wirtemberg.” The matter of fact is true, but ’tis frivolous to say he assum’d to himself any particular Authority in the doing it. The reasons he publish’d declare that ’twas done by virtue of the Commission he had as Preacher of God’s word: and the Oath he took at his going out Dr. of confounding all pernicious doctrines as much as in him lay, &c. p. 35. Compare Baker’s Reflections upon Learning. “If any thing can be said worse of them (some Books of Gratian’s Decree) than they have said themselves, it may be had in Luther (Oper. tom. ii. p. 120 Wit.), who began the Reformation with burning the Canon Law, and in vindication of what he had done made a Collection of such Articles as were most liable to give offence. I have not yet compared his Quotations with the Text, and therefore do not put them down, but if they be faithful I am sure there is enough to give a Man a hard opinion of the Canon Law,” p. 166. I find that the Articles selected by Luther refer not to the Decree but to the Decretals, and declare the Pope’s dispensing and absolute Dominion. “The total abrogating (by Henry VIII.) of that course Compilation of the Canon-Laws, which never was founded on any good Authority, was so just a thing, that there are very few learned men in the Roman Communion at present, that will not say it were well for the Church if it were quite laid aside, since now all men but such as our Author are ashamed of it.” Burnet’s Reflections on the Oxford Theses, p. 73 (No. 172 infra.)

“It was perhaps more to the credit of the reigning pontiff that he gave charge to his master of the Sacred Palace, T. Manrique, to prepare a reformed edition of the Canon Law. And the task was performed with some real integrity — indeed too much for Rome; for in the reign of his successor (he himself escaped the disgrace) the proposed improvements were generally rejected, and the Decretals re-edited with the greater portion of their original corruption.” Mendham’s Life and Pontificate of Pius V., p. 173.

169. ✠ The Religion of Mar. Luther neither Catholick nor Protestant; proved from his own Works. With some Reflections in answer to the Vindication of Mar. Luther’s spirit, printed at the Theater in Oxon. His Vindication being another argument of the Schism of the Church of England.

pp. 24, 4to Oxon. (Henry Cruttenden) 1688

See Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 940. Wood attributes this tract to Thomas Deane of Univ. Coll., one of the converts of Obad. Walker, in 1685 (see above No. 163). But it is probable that Wood had never seen the book. He calls the first part of it "a thing reprinted," and erroneously gives the other two paragraphs of the title as if they were two additional tracts appended to "The Religion of Mar. Luther, &c." thus:

"Some Reflexions in Answer to the Vindication of Martin Luthers spirit, &c.

"His Vindication; being another argument of the Schism of the Church of England.

"These two were printed in Oxon, &c. They were printed at the end of a thing reprinted, and entitled 'The Religion of Martin Luther,'" &c. Ath. Oxon. ubi supra.

This statement, erroneous in itself, Peek has made still more so. For he splits the book into three, which he numbers 169, 170, 171. Thus—

169. ✠ The religion of Martin Luther neither Catholick nor Protestant; proved from his own works. [An old thing reprinted.]

See Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 940.

170. ✠ Some reflections, in answer to the vindication of Martin Luther's spirit, &c. By Thomas Deane. 4to Oxon. 1688

See Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 940.

171. ✠ A vindication of Thomas Deane's forsaking the Church of England; being another argument of the schism of the Church of England. By Thomas Deane. 4to Oxon. 1688

"See Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 940. Note, these three last pieces are all printed together."

The title thus given to the imaginary No. 171 is a preposterous blunder, not warranted by anything that Wood had said, and still less by the original tract; where "His vindication" is not Deane's Vindication, but Martin Luther's. It means in fact Atterbury's Tract in Vindication of Luther, No. 168 supra. The author intended to say that the Vindication of M. Luther, "printed at the Theater at Oxon," was so great a failure that it only furnished an additional argument of the Schism of the Church of England; and the whole of what he says on this point, after a long examination of Atterbury's tract (pp. 9-24), occupies a paragraph of only eight lines, with which the pamphlet concludes. This is an instructive instance of the danger of describing books at second hand, which is the source of such strange mistakes, even in the hands of men of real learning.

I do not know what was Wood's authority for stating that the first part of this tract was "a thing reprinted." J. H. T.

In his book "Of Education, especially of young Gentlemen," Oxf. 1687, Obad. Walker gives this precept: "The same cautions prescribed in speaking, or greater, are to be observed in writing. The neglect of their pens hath ruined very many; and particularly the great Master of Civility, the Author of Galateo. For going to present to the Pope a petition, by mistake he delivered a copy of licentious Verses writ by him; whereby he lost the Pope's favor, his own reputation, and all hopes of future advancement."

172. Reflections on the Relation of the English Reformation, C. 1. lately printed at Oxford. In two Parts. Anon. [By Gilbert Burnet, D.D.] pp. 56, with app. pp. 14, 4to Amsterdam, (printed for J. S.) 1688

See Cat. No. 138. Contin. p. 35. Another edit. (probably the same with a new title page) appeared, Lond. 1689. The first part of this Tract is entitled "Reflections on the Relation of the English Reformation," &c., and is an answer to No. 163 supra. The second part (p. 39) is headed "Reflections on the Oxford Theses, relating to the English Reformation." And then follows a paper, with separate pagination within brackets, and new signatures A. and B. (pp. 14) entitled "The History of the Divorce of Henry VIII. and Katharine of Arragon, with the defence of Sanders. The Refutation of the Two first Books of the History of the Reformation of Dr. Burnett. By Joachim le Grand. With Dr. Burnett's answer and vindication of himself." This is the title page of Le Grand's work, which was printed in French, Paris, 1688, 8vo. The article which follows, entitled Dr. Burnett's answer and vindication, is a short review or censure of the work, followed [p. 4] by Dr. Burnet's vindication, entitled "A Letter to Monsieur Thevenot, being a full refutation of Mr. Le Grand's History of Henry VIII's Divorcing Katharine of Arragon. With a plain indication of the same by Dr. G. B." This letter is dated "Hague, 20 of June."

The Tract on the Divorce of Henry VIII. is evidently no part of Burnet's "Reflections," and is only by accident found bound up with the copy above described. It is printed in double columns, which the "Reflections," &c. is not, and on a larger page and paper. The letter to M. Thevenot was publ. in 4to 1689, with this title: "A Letter to Mr. Thevenot, containing a censure of M. Le Grand's History of King Henry the Eighth's divorce. To which is added, a censure of Mr. de Meaux's history of the variations of the protestant churches; together with some further reflexions on Mr. le Grand." Chronol. account of the works of Bp. 173. ✠ Some queries to the Protestants, concerning the English Reformation. By T. W. Gent. Published with allowance. pp. 8, 4to Lond. (Nath. Thompson) 1687

See Contin. p. 37. These are the same queries which Dean Manby has given in Latin at the end of his "Considerations," No. 128 supra. T. W. is Thomas Ward. See No. 174.

And see also King's Answer to Manby, ch. vi. p. 86 (No. 129 supra.) The same are found under the title, Some queries to the Archbishop of Canterbury, ut supra, p. 99. J. H. T.

- C.L. 174. The Queries offered by T. W. to the Protestants concerning the English Reformation reprinted and answered. [Anon. By Wm. Claget, D.D.] Imprimatur Nov. 23, 1687.

pp. 48, 4to Lond. (H. Clark) 1688

See Cat. No. 143. Contin. p. 36. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 327. Quære, if this Mr. T. W. was not one Mr. Webster of Lynne. See No. 184 infra.

I know not why Peek has made this suggestion as to T W., except that Webster begins with W.; there is no allusion in the Tract No. 184 to the queries of T. W., nor anything to identify T. W. with Mr. Webster of Linne. It seems much more probable that the initials T. W. stand for Thomas Ward, "the Roman Catholic soldier" (see above No. 109), and it is worthy of note, in confirmation of this conjecture, that the concluding queries speak of errors in the English Bible, a subject upon which Thomas Ward wrote a special treatise this same year, entitled, The errata to the Protestant Bible, or the truth of their English translations examin'd, &c. 4to Lond. 1688. Reprinted Lond. 1737, and 4to Dublin 1807.

This book is taken altogether from Gregory Martin's "A discoverie of the manifold corruptions of the holy scriptures by the heretikes of our daies, specially the English sectaries, and of their foule dealing herein," &c. Rhemes 1582, 8vo, a book which was completely answered before Ward was born, by Dr. W. Fulke (whose defence of the English Translations was reprinted by the Parker Society in 1843). The republication of Ward's book in Dublin, in 1807, with the sanction of the Irish Roman Catholic bishops, produced two answers, both respectable, viz., I. An Analysis of Ward's errata of the Protestant Bible. By Rich. Ryan, D.D. Dublin, 8vo 1808. II. An Answer to Ward's errata of the Protestant Bible. By Rich. Grier, D.D. Dublin, 4to 1812. J. H. T.

175. ✠ A Dissertation concerning Patriarchal and Metropolitcal C. L. authority, in answer to what Edw. Stillingfleet, Dean of St. Paul's, hath written in his book of the British Antiquities. By Eman. à Schelstrate, S.T.D.C.L. [i.e. Sacræ Theologiæ Doctor, Canonicus Lateranensis] and Prefect of the Vatican Library. Translated from the Latin. With allowance. pp. 128, with Title and Dedic. to James II. pp. 10, Preface pp. 22, and at the end Index, Postscript and list of books authorized by his Majesties letters patent.

pp. 8, 4to Lond. (Matthew Turner) 1688

See Contin. p. 36. In the Dedication, which is subscribed "Emmanuel of Antwerp in the Low Countries," James II. is styled "Defender of the Faith, Conqueror, Triumphant, Peacemaker." At the end is a curious list of Popish books, which Matthew Turner of Holborn, bookseller, and his assigns only, had licence to publish by his Majesty's letters patent. The original Latin of this work was printed at Rome 1687, 4to. Emanuel à Schelstrate, or Scheelstrate, of Antwerp, of which town he was a native, and chanter of the Cathedral there, was afterwards promoted to be Librarian of the Vatican and Canon of St. John of Lateran and of St. Peter at Rome, where he died in 1692, aged 44. His works prove him to have been a man of eminent industry and learning.

Of his answer to Stillingfleet Wake says, Contin. loc. cit., "As to this Book, since Mr. Schelstrate's Friends have ventured to expose it in a Translation here, the Reverend and most worthy Dean of Paul's will not fail, if God continue him health and opportunity, to give an Answer; and I am sure the world will not be angry with me for raising their expectations of the Dean's Answer, since they are satisfied that he will make them sufficient amends for them." Upon this Peck has put into his Catalogue the answer, as if it had been published adding, however, a quære, thus :

176. An answer to a dissertation concerning patriarchal and metropolitical authority, &c. as above. By Edw. Stillingfleet, D.D., Dean of S. Paul's.

He promised such a thing. But quære if ever published? See Contin. p. 36.

It does not appear that Stillingfleet ever promised such a thing, although Wake promised for him. No such thing appears to have been ever published. J. H. T.

The title of Stillingfleet's work here referred to is as follows: "Origines Britannicæ; or, the Antiquities of the British Churches." Reprinted at Oxford, at the University Press, 1842, in 2 vols. 8vo. To which is added, An Historical Account of Church Government as first received in Great Britain and Ireland. By W. Lloyd, D.D., Bishop of Worcester. A new edition, with additional Notes, by the Rev. Tho. P. Pantin, M.A. Of the Origines Britannicæ and of Schelstrate's Dissertation in the original Latin, a review will be found in the fifteenth volume of the Bibliothèque Universelle. "I shall not here answer," says Schelstrate (Pref. p. 2), "all the objections he hath thought fit to make; for since he hath written against those things which I had deduced from ancient Testimonies concerning the Patriarchal Power of the Roman Bishop over the West, in my Book intituled, Antiquitas illustrata, I will refute what he hath writ in answer to it, when I publish my Book de Antiquitate, &c., with the addition of three or four Ages to it." The enlarged edition of this, his greatest work, was printed 2 vols. fol. 1690-97. The student will find full information on the respective limits of the Patriarchates in Bingham's Orig. Eccles., book ix. chap. i., illustrated with maps. In the seventh volume of Usher's works will be found The original of Bishops and Metropolitans briefly laid down. See p. 3 supra.

But there is no evidence that it ever existed; for Wake (l. c.) only says, "We have hopes that it will be published ere long," and Gee (following Wake) that from the same learned hand "we expect ere long the third and last part." But as Gee's Cat. was printed 1689 it is evident that Peck drew upon his imagination when he dated this supposed third part 1686. J. H. T.

CHAP. XVII.

Of the Discourses written by Romanists reflecting upon the validity of the orders of the Church of England; with the Churchmen's replies.

181. ✠ The Church of England truly represented.

See Contin. p. 55. Is not this the same as No. 160 supra? See Contin. p. 36. Wake appears to be mistaken when he says that "the occasion of reviving this matter," of the validity of English ordination, "was given by a little scurrilous libel that went abroad," under the name of "The Church of England truly Represented," in answer to whose Calumnies three discourses were published, meaning Nos. 182, 186, and 184 infra. For the "little scurrilous libel" was quite different, and is printed in Burnet's answer (No. 182 infra), and is there entitled "Arguments to prove the Invalidity of the orders of the Church of England." It appears also from what Burnet says (Pref. p. 27) that it had not been printed, but only given about in MS. to such persons as were known to be wavering. No. 186, however, was avowedly written in answer to No. 160; and No. 184 professes to be a reply to "some scattered objections of Mr. Webster of Linne," but makes no mention of No. 160, or any other tract on that side. Wake says that of these three discourses "two are new, and the other only reprinted," which probably means that a second edition of Burnet's tract (the first ed. having appeared in 1677, 8vo) was brought out in consequence of the publication of No. 160. J. H. T.

The arguments of the Romanists are briefly recapitulated in No. 154 supra.

C. L. 182. A vindication of the ordinations of the Church of England, in which it is demonstrated that all the essentials of ordination, according to the practice of the primitive and Greek Churches are still retained in our Church. In answer to a paper written by one of the Church of Rome to prove the nullity of our orders; and given to a Person of quality. The second edition. [Anon. By Gilbert Burnet, D.D., afterwards Bp. of Salisbury.] pp. 94, with title and Pref. pp. 30, Chiswell's list of books at the end pp. 4, 4to Lond. (Ric. Chiswell) pp. 94, Pref. xxviii. 4to Lond. 1688

(Gibson, vol. iii. fol. 1.)

See Cat. No. 161. Contin. p. 54. The first edition of this book was printed in 8vo 1677. The "Paper" is printed at length, p. 1. The "Person of quality" to whom it was given was Lady Terwhitt, at whose house Burnet and Stillingfleet had the conference with Coleman, 3 April, 1676, see pp. 174-6 supra. Speaking of this conference Burnet says (Own Times, vol. i. p. 395); "Soon after that, the lady, who continued firm upon this conference, was possessed with new scruples about the validity of our ordinations. I got from her the paper that was put in her hand, and answered it; and she seemed satisfied with that likewise. But afterwards the uneasiness of her life prevailed more on her than her scruples did, and she changed her religion." J. H. T.

See Cat. No. 162. Contin. p. 55. Fasti Oxon. vol. ii. col. 220. The second sermon has this separate title: "Concio habita coram Academia Catabrigiensi Julii 3^o A^o 1687, ubi vindicatur canonica Cleri Anglicani ineunte Reformatione ordinatio: a T. Browne, S. T. B. Coll. D. Joh. Evang. Soc. Χωρήσατε ἡμᾶς, &c. 2 Cor. vii. 1." 4to Cantabrigiæ (Jo. Hayes) 1688. J. H. T.

“The validity of the consecration of Archbishop Parker is a matter of much importance to the English Church. For if it could be proved, as the old Papists endeavoured to bring it about, that he was no true Archbishop or Bishop,” by reason of the want of, or irregularity of consecration, then “as a sequel all the Bishops that he afterwards consecrated should be no Bishops, because he was none himself, and therefore could not consecrate nor give order to others,” &c. pp. 32, 4to Lond. (Sam. Smith) 1689

See Cat. No. 164. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1000. This tract is by Abednego Seller, who although he left Oxford without a degree, was a man of deep and real learning. He was Rector of Combeinton Head in Devonshire, and ejected as a nonjuror at the Revolution. The first edition was published 1688, 4to, and was soon after answered by Thos. Fairfax, a Jesuit of St. Omers, of the Fairfax family in Yorkshire, one of the persons forced upon Magd. Coll. as a fellow by James II. This answer appeared at the end of a book printed at the licensed press of Obadiah Walker, Univ. Coll., entitled Twenty one questions further demonstrating the Schism of the Church of England, &c., 1688. Where Fairfax's answer has been printed with this title: "Some reasons tendered to impartial people why Dr. Henry Maurice, Chaplain to his Grace of Canterbury, ought not to be traduc'd as a Licenser of a Pamphlet entitled, 'A plain answer to a Popish Priest,'" &c. J. H. T.

"Fairfax was appointed in the reign of James II. professor of Philosophy in Magdalen College, Oxford. When the revolution burst forth in all its horrors, he was attacked in the streets of that city, dashed on the ground and trampled upon, and narrowly escaped being murdered outright."—Dr. Oliver.

The first edition of "A Plain Answer" contains 10 pp. 1688.

C. L.

The second edition concludes with the doctrine of Intention. This subject is fully discussed not only by Marsden, but in Mason's Vindication of the Church of England. See Index in Lindsay's Translation.

C. L.

186. A defence of the ordinations and ministry of the Church of England. In answer to the scandals raised or revived against them, in several late pamphlets, and particularly in one intituled The Church of England truly represented, &c. Τολμηταὶ αὐθάδεις, &c. 2 Pet. ii. x. [Anon. By Edmund Whitfield, B.D., fellow of Kings Coll. Cambridge.] pp. 64, Title and "To the Reader" pp. 6, 4to Lond. (Brab. Aylmer) 1688

See Cat. No. 165. This Tract is in answer to No. 160 or No. 181 supra. J. H. T.

From which is cited (p. 3) the passage referred to by Macaulay. "Another Roman Catholic treatise begins by informing us that the ignis fatuus of reformation which had grown to a comet by many acts of spoil and rapine had been ushered into England, purified of the filth which it had contracted among the lakes of the Alps."—Vol ii. p. 110.

This defence relates to the whole contest, and takes in both the old and new objections already answered by Usher, Masou, Bramhall, &c.

“Allowing that all the Christianity which these after ages can pretend to here in Britain owes its original either to Pope Eleutherius and his Legates in the reign of King Lucius, or else to Pope Gregory the First and Austin the monk his deputy, in that of King Ethelbert, I say allowing all this, and letting them take their choice which of these two Popes they will make the source and Fountain of this Succession, we are able to derive ours through this channel as well as themselves.” It is remarkable that Pope Eleutherius sent only presbyters for the conversion of the Britons, and consequently they could not have derived episcopal succession from Rome. Most probably they found bishops here, as this institution came down from the first planting of Apostolical Churches, and Lucius, like Constantine, only confirmed the Christian religion by a national establishment. Bishops of British Churches were present at the Councils of Arles, Nice, Sardica and Ariminum, in which canons were passed by metropolitans and other bishops without the confirmation of the Patriarch of Rome. It is also remarkable that Augustine was consecrated bishop by Etherius, Archbishop of Arles, and that his predecessors had aspired to raise that metropolitan seat into a kind of Pontificate of Gaul. “Under Leo the Great, A.D. 445, the supremacy of the Roman See was brought to the issue of direct assertion on his part, of inflexible resistance on that of his opponent. . . . Hilarius, the Archbishop of Arles, inflexibly resisted all the authority of the Pope and of St. Peter; and confronted the Pope with the bold assertion of his unbounded metropolitan power.” (Milman’s Hist. of Latin Christianity, vol. i. pp. 192-3.) Thus had the British Church not been Metropolitan, it would have been under the jurisdiction of Arles not of Rome, subject not to the Roman Supremacy but to the Gallic Liberties. Notwithstanding that Augustine and his successors acknowledged the primacy of the bishop of Rome, “it does not yet appear that, for above 600 years after, any of them were required at their consecration to take an oath of fidelity and obedience to their lord pope.” — Burnet’s Vindication of the Ordinations of the Church of England, p. 87; Lewis’s Life of Dr. Reynold Pecock, p. 122; Mendham’s Life of S. Pius V. ad calc.

Stillingfleet’s Origines Britannicæ contains a learned history of the antiquity of our church, which was probably founded by St. Paul, according to bishops Stillingfleet and Burgess, Williams and other divines.

187. The validity of the Orders of the Church of England, made out against the objections of the Papists, in several Letters to a Gentleman of Norwich, that desired satisfaction therein. By Humphrey Prideaux, D.D., Prebendary of Norwich. pp. 128, 4to Lond, (John Richardson, for Brab. Aylmer) 1688

See Cat. No. 166. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 25, and 1058. The reference to col. 25 is an error of Peck. I can find nothing there relating to this book or its author. The Preface tells us that the "Gentleman of Norwich, who desired satisfaction, was Mr. Anthony Norris, late a justice of the peace for the County of Norfolk." The book begins by an Account of the Conference between Mr. Earbery and Mr. Kipping on the Anglican side, and Mr. Acton a Jesuit and Mr. Brown on the other, concerning the validity of English orders. Mr. Norris having been present at this conference sent Dr. Prideaux an anonymous paper, containing his "Summary of the Conference." This led to a correspondence between him and Dr. Prideaux, which occupies the remainder of the pamphlet. J. H. T.

This learned divine was born in 1648, died 1724. A second edition of this treatise was printed, with other ecclesiastical tracts by the same author, 8vo Lond. 1716.

188. Roman Catholicks uncertain whether there be any true C. I. Priests or Sacraments in the Church of Rome; evinced by an argument urg'd and maintain'd (upon their own principles) against Mr. Edward Goodal of Prescott in Lancashire. By Thomas Marsden, Vicar of Walton in the same County. The Treatise divided into two parts. The first being explicative of terms. The second Argumentative. pp. 136, Title, Pref. and Contents pp. 8. 4to Lond. (Walter Kettilby) 1688

See Cat. No. 167. Contin. p. 57. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii, col. 1025. Fasti Oxon. vol. ii. col. 141. "Tho. Marsden, of Brazen. Coll., was afterwards Chaplain to the English merchants trading at Lisbon in Portugal. . . . He is now living and able to publish other matters." He was able to draw the weapons of controversy from the armoury of Scholastic Philosophy.

In this treatise the author insists on the insecurity and absence of faith produced in the mind of the Romanist by this uncertainty.

“Anxiety would oppress the soul, were it left to fluctuate about the weighty matters of Religion, such as the truth of our Sacraments is acknowledged to be. And it hath been shewn that the truth of these can not be known, unless the Minister’s Intention be so too.” His adversary, Goodall, had evidently been a Protestant. “Pray tell me, how it happens, that in your Study of Theology, for full twenty years in our Communion, you were not able to find one of their distinguishing Articles defensible: and now in one years time see them all perspicuous and surely founded. . . . Pray then tell us, how, all at once, you hapned to find out all those Points we call Popery, to be warranted by Divine Authority.” p. 136. Cf. Fowler’s Discourse of Christian Liberty, sect. 3, chap. 16, Lond. 1680.

- A Treatise of the nature of Catholic Faith and Heresie, with Reflexions upon the Nullitie of the English Protestant Church and Clergy. By Peter Talbot. 8vo Rouen, 1657

He published this whilst a Father of the Society of Jesus. He was afterwards Archbishop of Dublin. “Dodd, p. 284, vol. iii. Church History, might have improved his article, had he paid more attention to the spirit of Father Southwell’s Narrative, which lay open before him.” Dr. Oliver, p. 268. “Peter Talbot, brother to Richard Talbot, Duke of Tyreconnel; born in Ireland, but originally from a noble family of that name in England.” Dodd. “Under the name of Erastus Senior (sic?) he does not rely on the Nag’s Head Consecration Story.” Dr. Oliver. For an account of Peter Talbot see Ware’s Writers of Ireland, by Harris, and D’Alton’s Memoirs of the Archbishops of Dublin.

✠ Erastus Senior scholastically demonstrating this conclusion, that (admitting their Lambeth records for true) those called Bishops here in England, are no Bishops either in order or jurisdiction, or so much as legal, in answer to Mason, Heylin, and Bramhall. [By John Lewgar.] 12mo 1662

“Notwithstanding what had been said, there was some one or more of them still hardy enough to publish a book (pretending to prove the Nullity of the Prelatic Clergy) about the year 1657, in 8vo [ut supra] I have now before me another, of the like sort, intituled, Erastus Junior, or A Fatal Blow to the Clergies pretensions to Divine Right; in a solid Demonstration by Principles, Forms of Ordination, &c., that no Bishop nor Minister, &c., hath any right or authority to preach, &c., in this Nation from Christ, but only from the Parliament; in two Parts, 4to. Bearing the name of Josiah Webb, Gent., a furious Detester of the Dregs of the Anti christian Hierarchy yet remaining among us; but written indeed by John Lewgar, a Revolter to Popery. There is also a second part of Erastus Senior [Junior?] pretending to demonstrate by Forms of Ordination &c. And now I shall proceed to that other performance (of the same Author) with the following title, Erastus Senior, Scholastically demonstrating, &c. I may be allowed to observe what an Author of great learning and reputation assures us, of both these doughty performances under the titles of Erastus,” etc. See Prideaux’s Valid. of the Orders, &c., p. 23, 1688.

A Vindication of a Sheet concerning the Orders of the Church of C. L. England against some Reasons, etc., printed at Oxford.

pp. 10, 4to Lond. 1688

“Christ instituted no form of words (in the institution of Orders) as absolutely necessary; those which he used in the Mission of the Apostles we think the fittest, and therefore as such, use them in our Ordination; but for that form which the Church of Rome uses, there is no shadow of proof in Scripture or Antiquity. The delivery of the vessels is so far from being instituted by Christ that it is by the Romanists themselves acknowledged a Novelty." See Morinus, &c.

Compare Sall's "Catholic Religion Maintained in the Church of England," chap. viii. "How far the Church of England agrees with the Romish in matter of Ordination; wherein they differ; and how absurd the pretension of Romanists is, that our difference herein with them should annul our Orders." And Burnet's Vindication, Append.

With a full Account of what both Roman Catholics and Protestants have delivered upon the subject of Ordination. Especially the Attempt of Dr. Burnet, late Bishop of Salisbury, in order to clear that point, is impartially considered, &c. By Thomas Ward.

8vo Lond. 1719

See Mason's Vindication by Lindsay, p. 112. This was answered in Elrington's Clergy of the Church of England truly ordained, and not obliged to subscribe to damnable Contradictions, in reply to Ward's Controversy of Ordination, 8vo Dublin 1808.

Amongst the Romanists, Courayer, Canon Regular of St. Geneviève, distinguished himself by a Dissertation sur la Validité des Ordinations des Anglois, Brux. 1723, and by a masterly "Supplement" to the same work, in which he overthrows triumphantly all the objections of Père le Quien, Father Hardouin, and other Romanists, to our Ordinations. These were translated by Daniel Williams, and published Lond. 1728, 8vo, under the titles, A Defence of the Validity of the English Ordinations, and of the Succession of the Bishops in the Church of England: together with Proofs justifying the Facts advanced in this Treatise (1 vol. 8vo), and a Defence of the Dissertation (2 vols. 8vo). "Besides which," says Mason, "there is another Book in English, come out by Owl-light," intituled, ✠ Remarks upon Le Courayer's Book in defence of the English Ordinations, wherein all his arguments are answered, and the invalidity of the English Ordinations is fully considered and fully proved, by Clerophilus Alethes, (John Constable.)—Without place or date.

"It is," observes Dr. Oliver, "a work of considerable research, and was much admired by the Rev. Robert Manning, an excellent judge in such matters." According to Chancellor Harington (Notes and Queries, second series, vol. i. p. 135), Constable did not respond to any portion of Courayer's Defence of his Dissertation. These "Remarks" and another popish publication by John Trapp—(England's Conversion and Reformation compared, Antwerp 1725, 8vo)—are noticed in Lindsay's Pref. to Mason pp. 114-16.

Besides Courayer several Romanists have allowed the Orders of the Church of England to be good and valid, e.g. Father Walsh, Father Davenport, alias Sancta Clara and Cudsemius; see Prideaux p. 45 (quoted by Lindsay). Bossuet made the same admission in his letter to Mabillon, quoted in the Appendix of Courayer's Defence, &c. Barnes, the Benedictine, went so far as to write a book (Catholico-Romanus Pacificus, see Brown's Fasciculus, vol. ii. p. 826-70) to induce the Roman patriarch to receive the English church into his communion, and to justify us from the charge of schism and heresy. See Basier On the Ancient Liberty of the Britannic Church and the legitimate exemption thereof from the Roman Patriarchate: three chapters concerning the Privileges of the Britannic Church, &c. selected out of a Latin Manuscript, entitled Catholico-Romanus Pacificus: translated by Rich. Watson, Lond. 1661, 8vo. In Ussher's Opuscula, ad calc. will be found, Sententia de Ecclesiæ Britannicæ Privilegiis, ex Cathol. Rom. Pacif. sect. 3. This learned and candid man (Barnes) was, in consequence of his liberal notions, seized at Paris, carried prisoner to Rome, immured in the dungeon of the Inquisition, and ere long thrust into a madhouse, where he died. On his melancholy end see also the authors referred to in Walch, Bibl. Theol. vol. ii. p. 355. Basier's opusculum appears to have been unknown to C. L. Bingham; see Antiq. of the Christian Church, chap. ix.

Detection of the Forgery of the Nag's Head Consecration: or a modest Vindication of the Clergy of the Church of England, both as to their Orders and Succession. By Matthew Earbery.

8vo Lond. 1722

See No. 187 supra. He makes use of Leslie's four famous marks.

8vo Lond. 1721

The first edition of the celebrated work of Francis Mason, "from which it appears," says Wood, vol. i. col. 546, "that the author was a general-read-scholar, thorough-pac'd in the Councils, and all sorts of Historie, whether divine, civil or profane," was in English, published Lond. 1613, fol., but greatly enlarged in the second, which the author wrote in Latin. The last edition is as follows: A Vindication of the Church of England, and of the lawful ministry thereof: that is to say, of the succession, election, confirmation and consecration of bishops, and also of the ordination of priests and deacons. In five books. Wherein the Church of England is defended against the calumnies and reproaches of Bellarmine, Saunders, Bristow, Harding, Allen, Stapleton, Parsons, Kellison, Eudæmon, Becanus, and other Romanists. Now faithfully translated from the Author's Latin edition (much enlarged and corrected). Whereunto is added a new edition of a Sermon of the same author's concerning the authority of the Church in making Canons and Constitutions in things indifferent. [On 1 Cor. xiv. 40. Also printed in Wordsworth's Christian Institutes, vol. iv. p. 444.] A copy of the first reformed Ordinal. A Translation of some fragments of Letters written to Father Le Courayer; in an Appendix. Together with an exact Index of the principal matters, and marginal Notes upon the whole Book. To all which is prefixed A full and particular Series of the Succession of our Bishops, through the several Reigns since the Reformation; an Historical Account of the Rise and Progress of the present Controversy, and of the several Writers on both sides; and particularly of our Learned Author Mason, and of all his Works, in a large Preface. By John Lindsay, a Priest of the Church of England. Fol. Lond. 1728.

Lindsay considers the pamphlet spurious, which was published under Mason's name entitled, The Validity of the Ordination of the Ministers of the Reform'd Churches beyond the Seas, maintained against the Romanists, printed at Oxford 1641, 4to, for divers reasons, as "1. With respect to the time of its appearance in the world. 2. With respect to its Editor; viz. John Duree, a Scotsman, and a Preacher, though whether he had taken Orders according to the Form of the Church of England, which it seems he always scrupled, it doth not appear. However he was a great pretender towards the making a reconciliation between the Calvinists and Lutherans beyond the Seas; but so far from being a friend to the Church of England, that he sided with the Presbyterians, when they became prevalent in 1641, was one of the zealous Preachers before the Rebellious Parliament, and by them, amongst other employments, made one of their pious Assembly of Divines, to reform away the Church of England (Root and Branch) as they themselves reform'd the State," &c. An account of John Dury, or Duræus, will be found in Worthington's Diary and Correspondence. Cf. Lindsay in Byrom's Remains, vol. ii. part ii. p. 532.

Professor Hey, in his admirable Lectures on Divinity, Cambridge, 1798, in reference to a succession of Bishops among Protestants, cites "Baxter on Councils, p. 471, Sect. viii., and page 484, Prop. vi. — Burnet on the Validity, etc. — Neal, vol. i. p. 502, bottom, 4to. — Heylin's Hist. of Episcopacy. — Archbishop Bramhall has a work on this subject, which may be good: see the account in his Life, Biogr. Britan. note (u): or his works in folio." To avoid repetition I must here refer to page 2, and conclude with

The story of the ordination of our first Bishops in Q. Elizabeth's reign at the Nag's Head Tavern in Cheap-Side thoroughly examined; and proved to be a late invented, inconsistent, self-contradictory and absurd fable. In answer to Le Quien and to Remarks on Le Courayer. By Thomas Brown, B.D.

CHAP. XVIII.

Of the discourses written of the unity, authority and infallibility of the Church.

- C. L. 189. ✠ The guide in controversies; or a rational account of the doctrine of Roman Catholicks concerning the ecclesiastical guide in controversies of religion; reflecting on the later writings of Protestants, particularly of Archbp. Laud and Mr. Stillingfleet, on this subject. By R. H. pp. 85, Pref. vii.
4to s. l. 1673

Sic in Catal. Bodl. This is by Abraham Woodhead, of Univ. Coll. Oxford. (See what has been said of him No. 163 supra.) He appears to have chosen the letters R. H. because they were the initials of the second syllables of his names. Peck gives the title of this book erroneously, and I have therefore corrected it, as above. It consists of five parts, with an appendix. Peck (following Wood) mentions only four; and yet Wood, although he says that the work consists of four parts, gives afterwards the title of the fifth. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. cols. 614, 615. The first and second parts were published in London in 1666, 4to; the third and fourth, London 1667, 4to. So says Ant. Wood; but the Bodl. Catal. (which library contains only Parts III. and IV.) gives the date 1668, and says that no place of printing is mentioned. Parts I. and II. are of extreme rarity, the whole impression having been burnt in the fire of London, with the exception of a very few copies. Parts II. and III. were published in London 1667 [i.e. 166 $\frac{1}{2}$], and all four parts together, with some additions and alterations, were printed again in London 1673, 4to.

C. L.

The words "rational account" shew an evident allusion to Stillingfleet's "Origines Sacrae, or a rational account of the grounds of the Christian faith," &c., and to the same author's Rational Account of the grounds of the Protestant religion, &c.

Peck ought to have placed these books by Woodhead in Chap. I., as they were connected with Stillingfleet's controversial writings published in the reign of Charles II. But as they were again brought into the controversy about an infallible guide, &c., in the reign of James II., he has placed them out of chronological order here; and I have not thought fit to change their place, although I have been, in consequence, obliged to introduce here a notice of several tracts that ought to have had a place in Chap. I. J. H. T.

190. ✠ The Guide in Controversies. Part II. Proceeding upon C. L. the Concessions of Learned Protestants that the Pastors of the Church, some or other, in all Ages, do guide their subjects infallibly in Necessaries to search which, in any Division happening among these Pastors, are those to whom Christians ought to adhere, and yield their obedience. pp. 87–152.

191. ✠ The Guide in Controversies. Part III. pp. 153–373. C. L.

See Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 614. Part of this third discourse was refuted by Dr. Edw. Stillingfleet, in his work entitled

A second (see No. 193 infra) discourse in vindication of the protestant grounds of faith, against the pretence of infallibility in the Roman Church, in answer to the Guide in Controversies, by R. H. Protestancy without principles, and Reason and Religion, by E. W. 8vo Lond. 1673.

See Stillingfleet's works, vol. v. p. 117, where the initials R. H. are erroneously attributed to R. Holden, and E. W. to E. Warner. For R. H., as we have seen, denote AbRaham WoodHead; and the other two tracts are known to be by the Jesuit Edward Worsley; they are not mentioned by Peck, but were published with the following titles:

Protestancy without principles; or sectaries unhappy fall from infallibility to fancy; in four discourses. 4to Antwerp 1668.

Reason and Religion; or the certain rule of faith; where the infallibility of the Roman Catholic Church is asserted, against Atheists, Heathens, Jews, Turks and all sectaries, with a refutation of Mr. Stillingfleet's many gross errors. 4to Antwerp 1672.

And soon after, the same author published a reply with this title:

The infallibility of the Roman Catholick Church and her miracles, C. L. defended against Dr. Stillingfleet's cavils, unworthily made publick in two books; the one called An answer to several treatises, &c. (see Stillingfleet's works, vol. v. p. 220); the other, A vindication of the protestant ground of faith, &c. 2 parts, 4to Antwerp 1674.

We learn also from Ant. Wood (loc. cit.) that Stillingfleet's tract was answered by Abr. Woodhead himself in a pamphlet entitled, Exercitations concerning the resolution of faith, against some exceptions, 4to s. l. 1674. This book I have never seen; neither is it in the Bodleian Library. I give the above title on Wood's authority. J. H. T.

"Edward Worsley, born in Lancashire in 1604, admitted at the age of 22, and Professor 29 Sept. 1641. For many years taught Philosophy and Theology at Liège, of which College he became Rector from 1658 to 1662. E. W. must ever rank among the ablest controversialists of this or any other country, as the following works will prove:

C. L.

'Truth will out,' in answer to Dr. Jeremy Taylor's 'Dissuasive from Popery,' 4to, Lond. 1665, &c. &c. A posthumous work of his appeared, entitled, Anti-Goliah, or an Epistle to Mr. Brevint, containing some Reflexions upon his Saul und Samuel at Endor." 8vo, 1678. Dr. Oliver. In Chap. XVII. of the former treatise, he charges Taylor with wronging the Canon Law by quotations unworthily corrupted.

C. L.

Dr. Oliver has omitted in his list of Worsley's works A Discourse of Miracles wrought in the Roman Catholic Church, or, A full refutation of Dr. Stillingfleet's unjust exceptions against Miracles, together with a large discovery of the Doctors unreasonable frauds, manifest in his many false, perverted and impertinent Quotations, 8vo Antwerp, 1676.

C. L. 192. ✠ The Guide in Controversies. Part IV. pp. 374-448.

Containing the Socinian's Apology for the believing, and teaching, his doctrine against former Church-Definitions, and present Church-Authority, upon the Protestant's Grounds (not holding anything contrary to the Holy Scriptures).

It may here be remarked that Smallridge, in his Animadversions, etc. (No. 165 supra) writes: — "I may not omit for the Reader's diversion a Grammatical Criticism which our author hath made upon the little particle as. It is enacted the 32nd Henry VIII. 26 c.: 'That all such Determinations, Decrees, Definitions, and Ordinances as, according to God's word and Christ's Gospel, shall at any time be set forth by the Arch-Bishops, Bishops, and Doctors in Divinity appointed by his Majesty, or else by the whole Clergy of England, in and upon the matters of Christ's Religion, &c., shall be by all his Grace's subjects fully believed, obeyed," &c. Upon which he makes this learned note. Whereas under the Reformation private men are tied only to obey and believe the Definitions of Councils when they are set forth according to God's word, i.e. when private men think them to be so, yet here this Liberty was thought fit to be restrain'd, and private men tyed to believe these Definitions when set forth as according to God's word, i.e. when the setters forth believe them to be so. To obey a thing defin'd, according to God's word, and to obey a thing defin'd, as being according to God's word, are Injunctions very different. Now a little skill in Honest Walker's particles would have clear'd this point, and a School-boy that was to turn this passage into Latin, would have known that as is put for which. Accordingly Keble, abridging this statute, makes it run thus: All Decrees and Ordinances which according to God's word, &c. But this it is for people to meddle in Controversie at an age when they have forgot their Grammar. Notwithstanding, therefore, this Aristarchus, we still retain the Liberty of believing and obeying only such things which be defined according to God's word. For which we are much blamed in the conclusion of this Discourse."

193. ✠ An appendix to the four discourses concerning the Guide C. L.
in controversies; further shewing the necessity and infallibility thereof, against some contrary Protestant principles.

pp. 246, Pref. and Contents 25. 4to s. l. 1675

Some copies of this book have the title, "A discourse of the necessity of Church-Guides, for directing Christians in necessary faith; with some annotations on Dr. Stillingfleet's answer to N. O. By R.H." 4to s. l. 1675. See Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 614. A copy with this title is in the Bodleian Library. The initials N. O. were also adopted by Woodhead (being perhaps the letters following the initials UNIVERSITY COLLEGE), in his book entitled, "Dr. Stillingfleet's principles, giving an account of the faith of protestants, considered by N. O." 8vo Paris 1671. This was an answer to Dr. Stillingfleet's book entitled, "A rational account of the grounds of the protestant religion; being a vindication of the Archbishop (Laud) of Canterbury's Relation of a Conference, &c., from the pretended answer by T. C." fol. Lond.

1665. T. C. (i.e. Thos. Carwell, whose real name is said to have been Spencer) wrote "Labyrinthus Cantuariensis; or Dr. Laud's labyrinth; being an answer to the late Archbishop's relation of a conference between himself and Fisher." Fol. Paris 1658. This was the first discourse, of which E. W.'s discourse was the sequel or second discourse. "Annotations on Dr. Stillingfleet's Answer to N. O.'s consideration of his principles." This is the second part of No. 193 supra, and printed with it. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 614. "Dr. Stillingfleet against Dr. Stillingfleet; or the palpable contradictions committed by him in charging the Roman Church with idolatry," &c. 8vo s. l. 1671. Bodl. This is by John Williams, a Roman Catholic writer. "The new way of answering examined; in a reply to two pamphlets, entitled, Dr. Stillingfleet against Dr. Stillingfleet, and Dr. Stillingfleet's principles considered," &c. 8vo Lond. 1672. "Dr. Stillingfleet still against Dr. Stillingfleet; or the examination of Dr. Stillingfleet against Dr. Stillingfleet examined." Anon. [By John Williams.] 8vo, s. l. 1675. "Considerations on the Council of Trent; being the fifth discourse concerning the Guide in Controversies;" by R. H. [i.e. Abraham Woodhead.] 4to s. l. 1671, No. 208. See Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 615, where Wood says: "'Tis said there is a sixth part concerning the alienation of church lands, but Quære?" J. H. T.

Meric Casaubon, the adversary of Sergeant, defended Stillingfleet against Carwell or Spencer, in his treatise "Of the Necessity of Reformation in and before Luther's time, and what hath visibly most hindered its progress. Occasioned by some late most virulent books written by Papists, but especially by that entitled Labyrinthus Cantuariensis." Paris 1658. 4to Lond. 1664.

By Dolman "Stillingfleet still against Stillingfleet" is ascribed to J. Keyns, who wielded, says Dr. Oliver, his powerful pen against Dr. Stillingfleet, pointing out his contradictions and blunders. His controversy with the Doctor continued with little interruption from 1671 to 1675. He published also in London "A Rational Compendious Way to convince without any dispute all persons whatever dissenting from the True Religion." 12mo 1674. . . . It is well known that this polite scholar was the principal compiler of the "Florus Anglo-Bavaricus." 4to Liège 1685. This history of the Jesuits comprises the eventful crisis of Oates's plot.

pp. 132, 157, Butler in his Memoirs of Catholics, vol. iv. p. 423, remarks: "His conversion did not deprive him of his protestant friends. The learned Dr. Henry Hammond having received from him a copy of his Exomologesis declined, in the language of friendship, to become his antagonist, "that he might give no disturbance to a person for whom he had, as he expressed himself, so great a value, and who could have no humane consideration in the exchange he had made. . . . A new edition of the Exomologesis, with a succinct view of the controversy between Cressy and his two great opponents (Lord Clarendon and Dr. Stillingfleet), would form an interesting manual of Catholic controversy." In those days the spirit of charity, thus exercised by Dr. Hammond, was not diffused through society, but "a cruel and false opinion prevailed that as Protestantism and Christianity are inseparable, so Romanism and Christianity are incompatible." (See Gladstone on the State in its Relations with the Church, chap. vi., where there is an historical sketch of the policy of the State respecting religious differences down to the Revolution in 1688, and a similar outline from the Revolution to the present time.) Consequently no controversialist is more entitled to be heard in vindication of the Reformation and in the defence of the Church of England against the objections of the Romanist, that by casting out the authority of the Bishop of Rome she cast off the head of all Christian unity, and so must needs be guilty of Schism. See his Works, fol. Lond. 1684, vol. i. pp. 526-531. Lib. of Angl.-Cath. Theol., Oxf. 1847, vol. ii. An account of Hammond is given in Worthington's Diary and Correspondence, vol. i. p. 222.

Having already mentioned most of the treatises constituting the controversy between Cressy and his two great opponents, I shall here give a complete list. "The Sancta Sophia" of Father Baker, a Benedictine monk, in the abridgment given of it by Father Cressy of the same order, and "Philotheus's Pilgrimage to Perfection, in a practice of ten days solitude," Bruges 1668, were once popular among English Roman Catholics. The Sancta Sophia was severely animadverted upon by Dr. Stillingfleet in his "Idolatry practised by the Church of Rome." Cressy replied to it by his "Answer to part of Dr. Stillingfleet's book," &c., and his "Fanaticism fanatically imputed to the Catholic Church by Dr. Stillingfleet." [See his Collection of several Treatises in answer to Dr. Stillingfleet, viz. 1. "Fanaticism," &c.; 2. "The Roman Church's devotions vindicated from Doctour Stillingfleet's misrepresentation," by O. N., a Catholick; 3. "The Roman Doctrine of Repentance and of Indulgences vindicated," &c.; 4. Dr. Stillingfleet's "Principles," &c., by N. O., 1671-2.] In answer to this work Lord Chancellor Clarendon published a vindication of Dr. Stillingfleet, entitled, "Animadversions," &c. Mr. Cressy answered by an "Epistle apologetical of S. C. to a person of honour, touching his vindication of Dr. Stillingfleet," [which contains many notices of a personal kind which deserve to find a place in his biography. His Sancta Sophia is extracted from forty small treatises of Father Baker, and printed Douay 1657, 2 vols. 12mo. Worthington's Diary and Correspondence, vol. ii. part i. p. 196.] To this Dr. Stillingfleet replied by his Answer to Mr. Cressey's Epistle apologetical, &c. All these controversial works are ably written and deserve an attentive perusal; not so much, however, for their mystic lore as for the important facts and observations which they communicate respecting the grounds on which the penal laws, in the English code against the Roman Catholics, can be best attacked or defended." By John Rogers, B.D., Lond. 1720. "Respecting the great distinction between the Visible and Invisible Church, on which most of the controversies concerning its Divine Institution principally depend, see Dr. Rogers's Discourse, &c., and a Review of that Discourse, published soon afterwards, and entering more largely into a discussion of the controverted points; both of them masterly Treatises." 197. A discourse concerning the nature, union, and communion of the Catholic Church. Part II. By William Sherlock, D.D.

See Cat. p. 17. It does not appear that this second part was ever published. Gee (loc. cit.) says: "The author did intend, and we hope will ere long gratify the world with the second part of this Discourse concerning the Church." So that it had not appeared in 1689, and I can find no evidence that it ever appeared. J. H. T.

4to Lond. (Randal Taylor) 1687

See Cat. No. 108. Contin. p. 31. Gee tells us that this tract is "by Ignotus," as if it were so said on the title page. He meant only that he himself knew not the author. Peck gives it without the author's name. But it is ascribed to John Williams, afterwards Bp. of Chichester, in the Bodl. Catal. although not mentioned by Wood in the list of that author's works. See Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1020. J. H. T.

Compare Leslie's Tract entitled, Of Private Judgment and Authority in matters of Faith, Oxford 1832, vol i. p. 378, fol. vol. i. p. 180, and his other Tract, The Case Stated between the Churches of Rome and England, vol. iii. and fol. vol. i. "A small volume by the Margaret Professor of Divinity in Cambridge (Marsh) under a similar title, A Comparative View of the Churches of England and Rome, comprises within a short compass so much extensive research, forcible reasoning and perspicuous illustration of the subject, as almost to supersede the necessity of further investigation. If to this work, however, be added a careful perusal of the two pieces of Leslie just mentioned, together with his Case of the Regale and of the Pontificate stated in the same volume, a clearer view may perhaps be taken of some points, upon which it did not fall within the scope of Dr. Marsh's design to dilate." 200. A plain and familiar discourse by way of dialogue betwixt a C. L. Minister and his Parishioners, concerning the Catholick Church. In three parts. I. Shewing what's the Nature of the Catholick Church. II. That the Church of Rome is not the Catholick Church. III. That the Scriptures, and not the Church, are the rule of Faith. Which may serve as an answer to some late Tracts upon that argument. By a Divine of the Church of England. pp. 70, Title and Pref. pp. 4. (Gibson, vol. iii. fol. 1.) 4to Lond. (R. Clavel and B. pp. 53. 4to Lond. (R. Clavel) 1688

See Cat. No. 110. Contin. p. 35. Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 878. This Tract is by Thomas Barlow, Bp. of Lincoln. It is in the form of a Letter, addressed to a clergyman, who consulted Bp. Barlow on the best mode of meeting the arguments of the emissaries of the Church of Rome. Wood says (loc. cit.) that "Dr. J. Battely, the licenser, would not suffer several sheets to pass, and therefore they were omitted." Dr. Bliss, in his ed. of the Ath. Oxon. (vol. iv. col. 338) has published a curious letter of Abp. Sancroft to Barlow, in which the Abp. says of this Tract: "There is no man versed in your books, but in reading a tenth part of this will as plainly discover it to be yours, as if Thom. Lincoln. were texted in the title page, literis uncialibus." This remark is most just; but nevertheless the Tract is anon. The author, at the end of the Postscript, subscribes himself, "N. N.;" perhaps taking the final letters of the two syllables of Lincoln. In Bp. Barlow's "Genuine Remains," London (John Dunton), 1693 8vo. there is a paper (p. 454) on the claimed "Infallibility of the Church of Rome," which contains a great deal of the same matter as the present tract. See Cat. No. 111. Contin. p. 30. Neither Gee nor Peck appear to have seen this book, and they have given the title very inaccurately. Gee says "by Ignotus," meaning that he did not know the author. See Cat. No. 116, where Gee says; "Translated and published by Ignotus." This only means that he did not know who translated and published it. Réponse au livre de l'évesque de Meaux intitulé Conférence avec M. Claude. 8vo. Queville, 1683. 2 parts. This is the original of Nos. 204 and 206.

A relation of the famous conference held about religion between M. Bossuet and M. Claude at the Countess of Roye's house; translated from the French copy as it was lately published by M. Claude. Fol. Lond. 1684. J. H. T.

See an account of the theological conferences held between the doctors of both churches in Mosheim's Institutes of Ecclesiastical History, cent. xvii. sect. ii. p. 12, &c. He has here assembled Roman, German, French, Dutch and English peace-makers both Protestants and Roman Catholics. The Author [Townsend] of "Historical Col- C. L. lections out of several grave Protestant Historians, concerning the Changes of Religion, and the strange confusions following from thence :

in the Reigns of King Henry the Eighth, Edward the Sixth, Queen Mary, and Elizabeth," 8vo 1674, in chap. vii. Append. produces the Assertions of some Protestants concerning Church Authority, some of which he considers as concessions to the Dignity and Authority of the Church of Rome; viz. Sir Edw. Sandys, Dr. Jer. Taylor, Grotius, Dr. Field, Dr. Hammond, Dr. Jackson, Dr. Ferne. Ab Uno Disce Omnes. See Dr. Field's Appendix, containyng a Defence of sych partes and passages of the former Foure bookes (of the Church) as haue bin either excepted against, or wrested to the maintenance of Romish errors (fol. Oxford, 1628.)—"Concerning Grotius's opinion, design and great endeavours for reducing the Churches to Popery," see Baxter's Key for Catholics, edited by Allport, and The Grotian Religion Discovered against Mr. Thomas Pierce, 8vo Lond. 1658. In a note, pp. 371-4, vol. 1, of Worthington's Diary and Correspondence there is an admirable vindication of Grotius, from which I cannot refrain from quoting in part the noble portrait originally sketched by Grotius for Arminius:—

"Damnatus aliis, ipse neminem damnat
Modestæque limitem premens, donat
Nunc verba vero, nunc silentium paci."

An "Abrégé de sa vie" by Mr. de la Devèze, Pastor at the Hague, is quoted in Bernard, Birch, and Lockman's transl. of Bayle's Dictionary. Article Claude (John). And an extract there given note (E) agrees so nearly with the corresponding passage of the present Tract, that I have no doubt M. de la Devèze [Abel Rodolph de Ladevèze, or de la Devèse] is the author of this Life "Done out of French by G. P." But who G. P. was I do not know. J. H. T.

Born 1619, died 1687. His "Historical Defence of the Reformation," one of the ablest vindications of protestantism, was published in English by T. B. Lond. 1683, 4to, and his "Essay on the Composition of a Sermon" which he wrote about the year 1676, for the use of his son, was translated and published in English in 1778 by the late Rev. Robert Robinson, of Cambridge, 2 vols. 8vo, with a Life of the Author, and notes, "all which, as displaying an implacable and unprovoked hostility to the established church, have been very properly omitted in a new edition of the translation, published in 1796, by the Rev. Charles Simeon of King's College, Cambridge." Chalmers.

Gee does not mention this second part. See 204. J. H. T.

"The Protestants have not," says Bossuet, "the consolation which the Catholics have, to see Jesus Christ's promise visibly accomplit, and maintain'd during so many ages. They can not shew a Church which has ever been since Jesus Christ came to build it on the Rock; and to save his word, they are obliged to have recourse to a Church of the Predestinate, which neither themselves, nor any one else can shew." "While the Reformed deny the perpetuity of Christ's presence with the Church of Rome, they may fairly be called upon to establish the perpetuity of a Church or Churches, which by the maintenance of their own doctrine in all grand essentials, shall connect them with the Primitive Church, and thus shew that, in their case, neither of the promises of Christ has failed of its accomplishment." Faber's "Inquiry into the History and Theology of the Ancient Vallenses and Albigenes; as exhibiting agreeably to the Promises the perpetuity of the Sincere Church of Christ." Lond. 1838. But the most satisfactory solution of this difficulty on the part of Protestants is given in Baxter's Key for Catholics (chap. xxiv., Visibility). Compare Allix's Remarks upon the Ecclesiastical History of the Ancient Churches of the Albigenes, Bp. Ussher, de Success. et Statu Eccles. and in his Answer to the Jesuits and the Ancient Religion of Ireland, Mornay's Mystery of Iniquity, Dr. Field of the Church, Flacius Illyricus, Sir Humphrey Lynde's Via Devia, sect. 24 (in Gibson's Preservative, Suppl. vol. iv.) See Cat. No. 97. Contin. p. 31. Gee attributes this book to "Mr. Jenkins," and Peck to "Robert Jenkin, M.A., Fellow of S. John's College, Cambridge." The Bodleian Catal. has it under "Jenkins" (—) probably from Gee.

Roman forgeries, or a true account of false records, discovering the impostures and counterfeit antiquities of the Church of Rome. Anon. By Thomas Traherne. 8vo. Lond. 1673.

See Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 531. This book having been published before the reign of James II. does not properly come within the period to which this Catalogue is confined. But I have inserted it as having been the first tract on the forgeries in the Councils; and mentioned by Dr. Comber as being the work that set him upon the design of continuing the subject. For Traherne died in 1674 without completing his book, which does not go much beyond the Nicene Council. The subject is one which is far from being exhausted, and for the sake of those who may desire to pursue it, I mention here the following books of an earlier date:—

- C. L. Censura quorundam scriptorum quæ sub nominibus sanctorum et veterum auctorum a pontificiis passim in eorum scriptis, citari solent; in qua ostenditur scripta illa vel esse supposititia, vel dubiæ saltem fidei. By Robert Cooke; (Robertus Cocus;) Fellow of Brasenose Coll. Oxford. See Ath. Oxon. vol. i. col. 396. 4to Lond. 1614; 4to Lond. 1623; 8vo Helm. 1655.

- C. L. A treatise of the corruption of Scripture, Councils, and Fathers, by the prelates &c. of the Church of Rome, for maintenance of poperie. Bp Thomas James, D.D., first keeper of the Bodleian Library. 4to Lond. 1611; 8vo Lond. 1688. See Ath. Oxon. vol. i. col. 538.

Roman Forgeries in the Councils during the first four centuries. Together with an Appendix concerning the forgeries and errors in the Annals of Baronius. By Thomas Comber, D.D., Prebend of York. pp. 175, and introd. matter pp. 14. (Robt. Clavell.) 4to Lond. 1689. Divided into two parts, part i. containing centuries I.-III.; part ii. containing century IV.

The Church History clear'd from the Roman Forgeries and corruptions found in the Councils and Baronius: from the year 400 till the end of the fifth General Council An. Dom. 553. Being the third and fourth parts of the Roman Forgeries. By Thomas Comber, DD., Dean of Durham. "For we have not followed," &c. 2 Pet. i. 16. pp. 335, and pref. matter pp. 14. (Robt. Clavell.) 4to Lond. 1695.

The foreign writers Junius, Daillé, and Rivet, although caute legendi, ought to be consulted; and I hope I may be excused for recommending also the following work of a living author. "Roman Forgeries and Falsifications; or an examination of Counterfeit and corrupted records, with especial reference to Popery. Part I. By the Rev. Richard Gibbings, M.A." 8vo Dublin 1842. It is to be regretted that the little encouragement now given to works of deeper learning than ordinary, has prevented the appearance of more than Part I. of this valuable work. J. H. T.

The author "designs two things: first, To shew the false dealing that has been used in putting forth the Councils. Secondly, To shew that Papists are not agreed in the Authority of them as they are put forth." For a reference to notices of forgeries of Canons and Decretal Epistles see Baxter's Key for Catholics, edited by Rev. J. Allport, Lond. 1839. For a complete body of information upon this point, the reader may consult Mendham's Literary Policy of the Church of Rome. Lond. 1830. Of James's treatise above mentioned there is a large analysis in Oldys's British Librarian.

"As the Authority of Apostolical Traditions," says our Author, "could reach no farther than the first Ages, so in succeeding times we have little reason to think that the Holy Ghost had much to do in their Councils; Christ himself seems to have been almost excluded, since Christ's Vicar, as he styles himself, has had such an absolute sway in Councils. If any one shall say, says Gerson (apud Richer, l. 2, p. 262) there must be recourse to the See and Court of the High Priest, we will not deny it, if Divinity shall have there two impartial Doctours, not seduced, not proud, not covetous or envious, not favourers of the temporal and spiritual Power, more than of the Truth; otherwise it would be more tolerable to have none than to endure such." p. 71. Compare Hallam (Constitutional History of England, chap. iv.) in reference to Hooker's Ecclesiastical Polity: "It may justly be objected to some passages that they elevate ecclesiastical authority, even in matters of belief, with an exaggeration not easily reconciled to the protestant right of private judgment, and even of dangerous consequence in those times; as when he inclines to give a decisive voice in theological controversies in general councils; not indeed on the principles of the church of Rome, but on such as must end in the same conclusion, the high probability that the aggregate judgment of many grave and learned men should be well founded. . . . Hooker's mistake was to exaggerate the weight of such men's judgment; and not to allow enough for their passions and infirmities, the imperfection of their knowledge, their connivance with power, their attachment to names and persons, and all the other drawbacks to ecclesiastical authority.

"It is well known that the Preface to the Ecclesiastical Polity was one of the two books to which James II. ascribed his return into the fold of Rome; and it is not difficult to perceive by what course of reasoning on the positions it contains it was effected."

Peck erroneously attributes this book to Mr. Altham, confounding it with Gee's No. 183 (which is No. 210 supra), and referring also to Contin. p. 57 (which ought to be p. 58), where we find only mention of Nos. 210 and 211 supra. “May I be allowed to ask, on what authoritative decision of what Ecumenical Council do Bossuet and Trevern and other Popish Ecclesiastics claim for their Church this same prerogative of Infallibility?

“In the eleventh century, during which no Ecumenical Council was sitting, the famous Hildebrand, who played the part of Pope by the style and title of Gregory VII., decided indeed that the Roman Church has never erred, and never will err [under the conviction that ‘were the talisman of infallibility broken the magic edifice of the Papal dominion would crumble to ruins;’ Whately]; but this can only serve the turn of those who hold the individual Infallibility of the Pope; nor will it serve even their turn, who hold the individual Infallibility of the Pope, unless they can produce the infallible decision which infallibly assigns to the Pope the privilege of individual Infallibility. Where does there exist the canon of an Ecumenical Council, in which the possession of Infallibility is decreed to the Church of Rome?” Faber, ubi supra.

The Jesuit Peter Talbot, in his "Treatise of Religion and Government," 4to 1670, discusses the argument whether Protestantcy be less dangerous to the Soul than the Roman Catholic Religion? In the Appendix to Townsend's Historical Collections, chap. ii., are Testimonies of Scripture evidently convincing, that there can be no hope of Salvation for such as are separated from the Church by Heresie or Schism. Laud speaks out (Conference with Fisher § 38): "All Protestants unaimously agree in this, 'that there is great peril of damnation for any man to live and die in the Roman persuasion.'" On the difference between Protestants and Romanists on this subject see Stillingfleet's Doctrines and Practices of the Church of Rome, chap. xxxv., with a Preface and Notes by W. Cunningham, D.D., 12mo. Edinburgh 1845, and his Rational Account of the Grounds of the Protestant Religion. Part iii., chaps. 4 and 5. "Chillingworth," remarks Mr. Hallam, "well redeemed any censure that might have been thrown on him by his great work in answer to the Jesuit Knott, entitled the Religion of Protestants a Safe Way to Salvation. [See No. 441.] In the course of his reflections he had perceived the insecurity of resting the Reformation on any but its original basis, the independency of private opinion. This too he asserted with a fearlessness and consistency hitherto little known, even within the Protestant pale ; combining it with another principle, which the zeal of the early reformers had rendered them unable to perceive, and for want of which the adversary had perpetually discomfited them, namely, that the errors of conscientious men do not forfeit the favour of God. This endeavour to mitigate the dread of forming mistaken judgments in religion runs through the whole work of Chillingworth, and marks him as the founder in this country of what has been called the latitudinarian school of theology. In this view, which has practically been the most important one of the controversy, it may pass for an anticipated reply to the most brilliant performance on the opposite side, the History of the Variations of Protestant Churches ; and those who from a delight in the display of human intellect, or from more serious motives of inquiry, are led to these two master-pieces, will have seen perhaps the utmost strength that either party, in the great schism of Christendom, has been able to put forth." Hallam's Constitutional History of England, vol. i. p. 486. world, stands or falls with Protestantism." The Bodl. Catal. (under Protestant) attributes this book to Samuel Bolde. The author was evidently of the school favorable to Protestant Dissent; but the Bodl. Cat. does not give this work under Bolde, perhaps because when the article Bolde (Sam.) was printed, it had not been ascertained that it was by him.

Samuel Bolde was Vicar of Shapwicke, Dorsetshire. To which is added, "A plea for moderation towards Dissenters." It was probably in allusion to this that he calls himself "a professed enemy to Persecution." J. H. T.

A Conference between John Lewgar and Mr. Chillingworth, whether the Roman Church be the Catholic Church, and all out of her Communion Heretics or Schismatics. Lond. 1687

See No. 441 infra. “The arguments on both sides are set down with the Answers and Replies to them. This Method hath the advantage of bringing a Controversy within a narrow compass, and of shewing at one view the weight of the arguments, the closeness of the answers, and the justness of the conclusions; and thereby it was the most suited to Mr. Chillingworth’s clear, impartial and strong way of arguing.

“We have in the same manner the substance of a dispute he had with Mr. Daniel, wherein he disproves the Infallibility of the Church of Rome, by an argument taken from the Contradictions which are contain’d in the Doctrine of Transubstantiation [No. 441]. He had another with a gentleman he does not name, in which he confutes the same Infallibility by proving that either the present Church of Rome errs in offering Tapers and incense to the Virgin Mary, or that the ancient Church of Rome did err in condemning as Heretics the Colly-ridians for offering a Cake to her [No. 441]. Besides the pieces already mentioned, Mr. C. wrote one to demonstrate that the doctrine of Infallibility, the main point of Romish votaries, is neither evident of itself, nor grounded upon certain and infallible reasons, nor warranted by any passage of Scripture [No. 144]. And in two other Papers he shews that the Church of Rome hath formerly erred; first by the admitting of Infants to the Eucharist, and holding that without it they could not be saved; and secondly by teaching the Doctrines of the Millenaries, viz. that before the world's end Christ should reign upon Earth for a thousand years, and that the Saints should live under him in all holiness and happiness; both which doctrines are condemned as false and heretical by the present Church of Rome [No. 441]. He writ also a short Letter [No. 441] in answer to some objections put to him by one of his friends, wherein he shews that neither the Fathers nor the Councils are infallible witnesses of Tradition; and that the Infallibility of the Church of Rome must first of all be proved from the Scripture. He concludes with these words: 'Remember that if we have any infallible way, we have no use (at least no necessity) of an Infallible Guide; for if we may be saved by following the Scripture as near as we can (though we err), it is as good as any Interpreter to keep unity in charity (which is only needful) though not in opinion; and this can not be ridiculous, because they say if any man misinterpret the Council of Trent, it shall not damn him; and why (without any more ado) may not the same be said of Scripture?' Des Maisseaux, pp. 38-40. Chillingworth was confronted on some of these arguments by E. Hawarden in Wit against Reason: or The Protestant Champion, the great, the incomparable Chillingworth, not invulnerable. 8vo. Brussels 1735.

Among the most zealous defenders of Papal Authority is John Thomas de Rochaberti, who left a long treatise, — De Romani Pontificis Autoritate, 3 vols. fol. esteemed in Spain and Italy, prohibited in France; and Bibliotheca Pontificia, a large collection of all the Treatises which have been written by different Authors in favour of the Pope's Authority and Infallibility; 21 vols. fol. Rome, 1700. Also prohibited by Act of Parliament of Paris.

"Bossuet [who denounced the Pope's infallibility] was a great orator, a consummate dialectician, and an accomplished master of those vague sublimities by which men are easily affected. All these qualities he employed in the production of what is probably the most formidable work ever directed against Protestantism. This is the opinion of Mr. Hallam respecting Bossuet's History of the Variations of Protestant Churches. Const. Hist. vol. i. p. 486; compare Lermnier, Philos. du Droit, vol. ii. p. 86. Attempts have been made by Protestant theologians to retort against the Catholics the arguments of Bossuet, on the ground that the religious variations are a necessary consequence of the honest pursuit of religious truth. See Blanco White's Evidence against Catholicism, pp. 109-112; and his Letters from Spain by Doblado, p. 127. With this I fully agree; but it would be easy to show that the argument is fatal to all ecclesiastical systems with strictly defined creeds, and therefore strikes as heavily against the Protestant Churches as against the Catholic." Buckle's History of Civilization in England, vol. i. p. 721. I think it right to give, without always adopting, the opinions of this able and learned writer. The limits of church authority are clearly stated in Archbishop Whately's Errors of Romanism, Essay IV. "Scepticism," as his Grace observes, "is not implied by absence of a claim to infallibility" (The Kingdom of Christ, p. 336); and Buckle himself admits that there is a decisive criterion of religious truth, p. 323 et seqq. Bacon, in his Adv. of Learning, discussing the use of reason in spiritual things, maintains that Creeds are safeguards against novelties and theories. Cf. Tatham's Chart and Scale of Truth, vol. ii., and Morell's Philosophy of Religion, 1849.

Novelty of the Modern Romish Religion sent forth in answer to three Queries propounded by N. G., Priest. By S. Felgate.

8vo Lond. 1682

“The Church of Rome hath changed the Primitive Canon, or Rule of Faith, by adding new articles to it, as necessary to be believed in order to Salvation; look to the Confession of Faith, according to the Council of Trent We deny not but that general or provincial Councils may make constitutions concerning extra-fundamental verities, and oblige all such as are under their jurisdiction to receive them, at least passively, so as not openly and contumaciously to oppose them. But to make any of them a part of the creed, and to oblige all Christians under pain of damnation to receive and believe them, this is really to add to the Creed, and to change the ancient Canon or Rule of Faith. But alas, these superadded articles of the Trent Creed are so far from being certain truths, that they are most of them manifest untruths, yea, gross and dangerous errors. To make this appear, I shall not refuse the pains of examining some of the chief of them.” The Corruptions of the Church of Rome in Relation to Ecclesiastical Government, the Rule of Faith, and Form of Divine Worship; in answer to the Bishop of Meaux’s Queries: with an Appendix [containing the Creed of Pope Pius IV.] By Geo. Bull, D.D., Lord Bishop of St. David’s. (In the 2nd volume of the Churchman Armed). Compare Bramhall’s Just Vindication of the Church of England, (Works p. 56, vol. i.)

It is stated by Nelson in his Life of Bull, that in a letter addressed to himself the Bishop of Meaux proposed several Queries to Dr. Bull, in order to know the sentiments of so great a man upon those subjects (what is meant by the Catholic Church), which the Bishop expected to receive with no small degree of satisfaction. “But just as Dr. Bull’s Answer” adds Nelson “came to my hands, I received the melancholy news of the Bishop of Meaux’s Death, which prevented the progress of that controversy; which we might have expected to have seen carried on with great decency, and to good effect, by two such great men, though of different Communions, if the Providence of God had not put a stop to it by taking the Bishop out of the world before Dr. Bull’s Letter was sent to him,” p. 250. In Spry’s Bampton Lectures already referred to, p. 10, one Sermon is devoted to “The Inefficiency and Mischievous Tendency of the Measures which have been taken at different Periods for the Restoration of Unity.” The author reviews the “labours for peace” of Cassander, Bossuet, Grotius and Wake. An account of Bossuet’s controversy with Wake (see chap. vi.) will be found in the Appendix, pp. 422-25. On the subject of this Sermon the reader is referred to Walchii Bibliotheca Theologica, vol. ii., c. v., sect. 14, § 20; Saxii Onomasticon, vol. iv., sect. 17, &c.

An Interesting Controversy with Mr. Ritschel, Vicar of Hexham, by Thomas Ward, Author of The Cantos and The Errata of the Protestant Bible, from a Manuscript written by Himself.

"Why shall we hesitate to throw ourselves upon the authority of the catholic church, which has always maintained herself by the succession of bishops, by the faith of the people, by the decision of councils, and by the authority of miracles? Not to acknowledge her doctrine is a proof either of great impiety or extreme arrogance." St. Augustine. 279 pp. exclusive of Pref. and Life. 8vo Manchester, 1819

"The work which is here offered to the public was occasioned by a personal interview between the author [see No. 109 supra] and Mr. Ritschel, vicar of Hexham, on the subject of religion. The particulars of this interview Mr. Ward laid before the world in a book entitled A Conference with Mr. Ritschel, vicar of Hexham. Mr. Ritschel replied: answers were exchanged on either side; and the following pages are what Mr. W. wrote in reply to the second letter of the Vicar of Hexham." Pref. x. iv.

Dodd does not mention the Conference with Ritschel in the list of Ward's works.

Reading the Fathers Chillingworth contemptuously calls travelling on a "north-west discovery," p. 366. (Edit. 1846.) Even to Augustine, who was probably the ablest of them, Chillingworth pays no deference. See what he says at pp. 196, 333, 376; and as to the authority of the Fathers in general see pp. 152, 346. "After a prodigious waste of industry and erudition, a learned foreigner (M. Daillé) at length shewed the inutility and the folly of pursuing the contest any further. In a well-considered discourse, On the use of the Fathers, he clearly evinced that their authority was much less than was generally supposed, in all points of religious controversy; and that their judgment was especially incompetent in those points, which were agitated by the two parties. This discovery had great effects. It opened the eyes of the more candid and intelligent inquirers; and our incomparable Chillingworth, with some others (Lord Falkland, Lord Digby, Dr. Jer. Taylor, &c.) took the advantage of it to set the controversy with the church of Rome, once more, on its proper foot; and to establish, for ever, the old principle that the Bible, and that only (interpreted by our best reason) is the religion of protestants." CORRIGENDA ET ADDENDA

TO PART I.

N.B. Such of the following notes as are by Dr. Todd were not placed in the Editor's hands in time, so as to be available for insertion in their proper places : —

PAGE 1 — Tract No. 1. My copy of this book (for I have no doubt it is the same) has this title : — “ Four conferences concerning, I. Reading the Holy Scriptures in the Vulgar Tongue. II. Half Communion. III. Worshipping of Images. IV. Invocation of Saints. Imprimatur R. Bathurst, Oxford 1688.” J. H. T.

Chap. i., observes Dr. Todd, is very meagre and imperfect ; several tracts of Stillingfleet, Burnet, and John Williams (Ath. Oxon. vol. ii. col. 1120), which belong to the succeeding controversy, are omitted in it. Also some of the Sermons in the “ Morning Exercises” of the Dissenters might have been included. On the general subject of the controversy see Stillingfleet's Life, p. 17 [vol. i. of his Works].

PAGE 2 — Tract No. 2. The book to which this is an answer, although called “ a popish MS.,” seems to have been printed in 1633, and to have been the same of which the title is thus given in the Bodl. Cat. under N. N.

is proved the lineal descent of catholics for the Roman faith and religion, from the holie fathers of the primitive church, even from Christs verie time until these our dayes, and on the other the never being of protestants during al the foresayd time.” Rouen 1633, 4to.

The author of “ Origo Protestantium” (John Shaw) died 22nd May 1689. J. H. T.

The title concludes thus: — “Otherwise then in confessed and condemned Hereticks. And al this is conuincd by the manifold and clearest acknowledgements of Protestant Writers, both forrain and domestick. By thine owne mouth I iudge thee, naughtie seruant. Luc. xix. 22.”

The writer, Lawrence Auderton, was born in Lancashire, educated at Blackburn and Cambridge, became a convert, and entered the Society of Jesus in 1604. “He became a bright ornament to his order: when on the mission, he principally resided in Lancashire, where he died in 1643.” Dodd refers to Alegambe p. 294. Athen. Oxon. p. 480 [col. 668]. Life of Robert Bolton, by Edward Bagshaw, 1633. This work is dedicated to M. Doctour Morton, Superintendent of Litchfield and Coventrie, on account of his “Appeale for Protestants,” made in answer to “The Protestants Apologie for the Roman Church,” by James Anderton, alias John Brerely. See p. 58, and Baxter’s Key for Catholics, edit. by Allport, p. 426.

(Harris’s Ware’s Writers, p. 193, and Bramhall’s Works, Oxford 1842, vol. i. p. 30.) But this must be a different person, probably John Leyburn, taking the final letters of his names. J. H. T.

of Sudbury, of Chr. Ch. Coll. Cambr.] This is attributed to Nicholas Clagett in his Life in the Biographia Britannica, which professes to have been drawn up from materials communicated by his son, Bishop Clagett. J. H. T.

IBID. Tract No. 8. As King Charles II. died Feb. 6, 1684 $\frac{1}{2}$, it is evident that this book ought not to have been given among those published before the reign of James II. Peck, however, had no copy of it, and he therefore very naturally followed Gee, who, however, speaks of it as one of the Treatises published near the end of the reign of King Charles II. J. H. T.

PAGE 11 — Tract No. 11. Compare The Protestant Journal for 1831 and 1832. "The offering of Tapers and incense to the Virgin Mary" (see Chillingworth's Conferences) is illustrated in the Review of Lidgate's poem, "How Candelmesse Day first toke the Name," Oct. 1832, pp. 602-624.

The following tract by E[dward] W[orsley?] might here be mentioned on the other side:—"Anti-Haman, or An Answer to M. G. Burnet's Mistere of Iniquiti unvailed. (See No. 429 infra.) Wherein is shewed the conformity of the doctrine, worship and practice of the Roman Catholic Church with those of the Purest times. The Idolatry of the Pagans is truly stated, and the imputation of Pagan Idolatry cleerely confuted. And reasons are given why Catholikes avoyde the communion of the Protestant Church. To which is annexed a Letter to R. Cudworth, D.D. With Leave of Superiours. 1679."

No. 11 is not by Thankful Owen. The author was Henry Hallywell, the Platonist. See Worthington's Diary, &c., vol. i. p. 135, and advertisements in Hickee's Jovian. Omitted in Wood's List of Hallywell's Works.

PAGE 13 — Tract No. 12. See Contin. p. 58, where we are told, "To this" (i.e. to the short and plain way, as above), "there is an answer almost finished by a very learned person, who will demonstrate to the world, how little that book had in it to convince." On the authority of this statement Peck puts down the answer as if published, No. 18. But I cannot find that it was ever printed, nor do I know who the "very learned person" alluded to was; probably Stillingfleet.

See Evelyn's account of the death bed of Charles II., Memoirs, vol. i. p. 581-2, and "A true relation of the King's death. To which are added Copies of two papers found in the Strong-Box." Phoenix Lond. 1707, vol. i. p. 566. J. H. T.

PAGE 14 — Tract No. 13. The Bodl. Catal. mentions this as a single sheet without place or date, in folio; under the title of “Copy of a paper written by the late Duchess of York.” I cannot find any edition of it with the title given above by Peck. I conclude, therefore, that he took that title from the words with which Stillingfleet’s answer to the Duchess’s paper begins. The third letter is said to be written by a Great Lady for the satisfaction of her friends, as to the reasons of her leaving the communion of the Church of England and making herself a Member of the Roman Catholic Church; but the words in Italics are evidently cited by Stillingfleet from the first paragraph of the paper itself as given in p. 18 supra. It is curious that Hudleston does not notice the Duchess’s paper. J. H. T.

C. L. The folio sheet is No. 1008 of the Halliwell Collection of Proclamations, &c. From “St. James’s, Aug. 20, 1670.” Ed.

T. C. D. The tract given imperfectly by Peck, No. 160 and again No. 181 infra, is entitled, The Church of England truly represented, according to Dr. Heylin’s History of the Reformation, in justification of the late Duchess of York’s paper, Lond. 1686, 4to. J. H. T.

PAGE 18. Copies of two papers, &c. On the authenticity of these papers see Evelyn’s Memoirs October 2, 1685, and Dr. George Hickey’s Apologetical Vindication of the Church of England (2nd edition) Introduction, who says that he saw the original interlined in the King’s own hand. But it is certain that the papers themselves were not in the King’s hand. See Burnet’s testimony, Own Times, vol. i. p. 615 [Oxford, 8vo ed. vol. ii. p. 471-2.] The King’s papers are certified by James II. (p. 8 of this pamphlet) to be true copies, and to have been in his Royal brother’s own hand, but the paper by the Duchess is introduced (p. 9) without any heading, and without any certificate. See Burnet's account of the Duchess's death, Own Times, vol. i. p. 309-10. She died March 31, 1672, at which time it was not publicly known even that the Duchess of York had become a Romanist. In another place (vol. i. p. 308) Burnet tells us that the Duke in 1673 shewed him the Duchess's paper, and that "it was all writ with her own hand." Lord Clarendon's letter to the Duchess, mentioned by Burnet, will be found in Speeches, &c., annexed, Sedley's Poetical Works (1707) p. 92, and in Harleian Miscell. vol. iii. Voltaire, in his Siècle de Louis XIV. (chap. ix. note) says, L'argent de Louis XIV. gouverna l'Angleterre depuis 1669 jusqu'en 1677; il détermina Charles II. à se convertir, puis à différer sa conversion. Ces détails de corruption sont honteux, mais il est utile que les peuples les connaissent, et que les princes apprennent qu'ils sont toujours révélés.

2. A second part of the Inquiry into the reasons offered by Dr. Sam. Parker, bishop of Oxford, for abrogating the test; or an answer to his plea for transubstantiation, and for acquitting the Church of Rome of Idolatry. 4to 1688.

3. A continuation of the second part of the Inquiry, &c. relating to the idolatry of the church of Rome.

These two last pieces (the second part of the Inquiry and the continuation of the second part) were published a few months afterwards in one tract, with the title of "A discourse concerning Transubstantiation and Idolatry," &c., as above.

PAGE 208. Respecting the consecration of Bishop Barlow, which is an important question on account of the part he took in the consecration of Archbishop Parker, see Notes and Queries, 2nd Ser. vol. vii. p. 48.

PAGE 210 — Tract No. 186. Compare No. 127. A succinct account of the traditions and legends respecting the introduction of Christianity into England will be found in Collier's Ecclesiastical History of Great Britain, chiefly of England; and in reference to its sister, "the Sacred Island," see Dr. Todd's History of the Ancient Church of Ireland; and The Testimony of St. Patrick against the false pretensions of Rome to Primitive Antiquity in Ireland, by Henry J. Monck Mason, LL.D. Dublin, 1846.

PAGE 230. On the prejudices of Grotius against the doctrine of Antichrist, see Hurd's Sermons on the Study of the Prophecies. On the discrepancies of interpreters in general on this subject, Dr. Todd's Donnellan Lectures, 1840. In Lecture v. he shows that Romanism is inadequately opposed by the application of the prophecy to the corruptions of the Papacy.

PAGE 231. To Baxter's Key for Catholics, &c., add: and the two following works by the same author:—The Successive Visibility of the Church of which the Protestants are the soundest Members, I. Defended against the Opposition of Mr. William Johnson, 12mo. Lond. 1660. Which is the true Church; the whole Christian World as headed by Christ, or the Pope and his Subjects, in answer to Mr. Johnson. 4to Lond. 1679. See also the Second Part of his Key for Catholics.

IBID. 4th paragraph. In this reference to Mendham my memory unaccountably deceived me. The Decrees discussed in his Literary Policy are those issued by the official authorities of Rome against such books as were offensive to the Roman see. The history of the false Decretals, and of their principal object, the exaltation of the episcopal, but more especially of the papal power, will be found in Gieseler's Ecclesiastical History, vol. ii. See also Townsend's Ecclesiastical and Civil History philosophically considered, vol. ii. chap. iii. The Jus novum or Pseudoisidorian principle that obedience was due to all the papal decrees, was brought in by the Pope, Nicolas I., 836 years after Christ. See Milman's History of Latin Christianity, vol. ii. p. 373.
